growing up with two sisters and three brothers in a three-story, maple-shaded frame house and in a yard overrun with cows, chickens, horses, dogs, cats and children.

At Indiana university, Willkie was a campus spellbinder who debated socialism and mixed in political fights when he wasn't busy frying eggs in a short-order lunchroom to pay his way. A panic had wiped out his father's savings.

To get his schooling he sold papers, collected bills, was a harvest and migratory farm worker, ran a cement block machine, made steel, worked on a Puerto Rican sugar plantation, and drove a baker's wagon.

BOMBERS' RECEPTION COMMITTEE—Designed to clip through space at speeds of more than 400 m.p.h., a Lockheed P-38 interceptor is shown in an Army Air Corps photo. Interceptor planes are fast and heavily armed, the better to greet oncoming enemy bombers before the fatal "egg" can be dropped.

at Coffeyville, Kansas, returned to Indiana for a law course, then began practicing with his father. He enlisted in the army the day the United States entered the World war, became a captain, and served in France. There he spent part of his time as a volunteer lawyer for court-martialed AEF privates. Back in this country he met Miss Edith Willk, a librarian, at an Elwood wedding where she was maid of honor and he was usher. Soon she changed her name to Willkie. They have one son, Philip, 20.

Willkie went into the legal department of an Akron, Ohio, rubber company, then joined the Akron law firm of Mather, Nesbitt and Willkie. He led a successful battle in Akron against the Ku Klux Klan and in 1924 he was a delegate to the democratic national convention.

His success as a lawyer for utilities firms attracted attention of B. C. Cobb, president of Commonwealth and Southern. Cobb induced Willkie to join the company in 1929 and when Cobb's health failed Willkie succeeded him.

Willkie is a strapping 6 foot 1 1/2 inch man who pays little attention to what he eats, is fond of "rat cheese," smokes two packages of cigarettes a day and likes a Scotch highball or two when he knocks off work.

His life in New York has centered around his job and his chief recreations are talking, reading and pig-farming. He also enjoys movie "thrillers." He dresses informally, in loose-fitting dark blue suits, and wears inexpensive white shirts with soft collars.

Snell Is Keynoter, Eagles' Conclave

MARSHFIELD, June 27—(AP)—Greed, hatred and persecution motivating the European war was condemned today by Secretary of State Earl Snell in the 25th state Eagles' convention keynote speech.

"The situation is serious and more or less of an emergency faces this country of ours," said Snell. "If we had awakened years ago we would not now have the war jitters."

America will be able to resist invasion, he predicted. Registration of 1990 delegates and visitors was announced, including the arrival of William Hornblower, San Francisco, state legislator and trustee of the grand order.

The convention will last through Saturday.

Prepare Calmly, Williams Advises

War-disturbed America should keep cool and prepare, not to go across the waters, but to defend its own hemisphere against dictators, declared Rev. W. Irwin Williams, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Salem, before the Lions' club yesterday noon.

"I'm not willing to go to Europe but I am willing to go any place in this hemisphere to stamp dictatorship out if necessary," the churchman said. "Let's hold steady, walk the middle of the road. While we're staying calm and poised, let's get prepared so that at the time when we must act, we'll be ready."

There may come a time, Rev. Williams suggested, when there will be a conflict among three Monroe doctrines, one of the Americas, one of Europe and one of Japan's in the orient. Then, he said, it will be a greater struggle than the present, trying to make them live together. George A. Rhoten was installed as new president of the club, succeeding Glenn Gregg. Other new officers inducted were Virgil T. Golden, R. W. "Joe" Land and Edward Majek, vice presidents; Wayne Doughton and Vern Kirkland, directors.

Food Stamps for County Purchased

PORTLAND, June 27—(AP)—The largest food order stamp purchases since January 2 were made today by the state welfare commission for resale to public assistance clients in three counties.

About $35,000 worth of stamps were assigned to Marion county, about $20,000 to Clackamas and an additional $21,500 to Multnomah, Hunter L. Scott, Portland representative, said.

About $38,250 worth of blue stamps, good only for designated surplus foods, will be issued free with the $76,500 worth of orange stamps convertible for any food.

Group Plans to Renew Campaign

ROSEBURG, June 27—(AP)—The Pacific Highway association planned a renewed campaign today to obtain additional federal funds for reconstruction of the route between Cottage Grove and Grants Pass.

Howard Merriam, president, Springfield, and Carl Rynearson, executive secretary, Eugene, will go to Washington, D.C., to push the program after discussing it with Senator Rufus Holman at Portland.

Governor Olson May Be Caveman

SACRAMENTO, June 27—(AP)—Gov. Culbert Olson left today on a four-day speaking trip that may take him into Oregon to become a member of the Oregon Cavemen at Grants Pass.

Plans to go to Grants Pass still are tentative, however, the governor's secretary said.

TO WED.—Wedding July 13 at Southampton, L. I., will unite Anne McDowell (above) of New York and Henry Ford of Grosse Pointe, Mich., grandson of auto magnate.
