Mistrial Given In City's Case

Alleged Improper Remark Within Jury Hearing Is Cited in Order

Defense counsel's motion for mistrial was granted yesterday in the case of Ari Jeffers vs. City of Salem and Louis A. Burgess on trial before Circuit Judge L. H. McMahon.

The motion was based on an allegation that counsel for the plaintiff had violated rules governing interrogation of prospective jurors in suggesting to a particular juror had a possible financial interest in the case through participation in the indemnity insurance business.

This the court ruled to be contrary to the rules defining proper examination of jurors. It was not certain yesterday whether the order would be appealed.

Johnson Gets Sentence Cut

Trustee Since 1928 Will Complete Sentence in California

Clarence Johnson, serving a life term in the Oregon state penitentiary for the slaying of Eunice Freeman in Portland, received a commutation of sentence from Governor Charles A. Sprague.

The commutation was recommended by the state parole board. Under the provisions of the commutation Johnson's term will expire Tuesday. He will be surrendered to California officials and returned to San Quentin prison to serve approximately 28 months of an unexpired term of five years for assault with intent to commit murder.

Johnson was received at the Oregon penitentiary October 23, 1919, and has served more than 20 years. He is now 52 years of age. The commutation set out that Johnson had proved a model prisoner and had been a trustee at the institution since 1928. During the past two years he has been in charge of the prison commissary and has spent much of his time assisting in the administration of the institution.

Mention also was made in the commutation that Johnson had given valuable service in time of riots at the prison and particularly during the outbreak there in August, 1925.

Records show that Johnson killed Mrs. Freeman, after she was instrumental in securing his parole from the California prison. Johnson was tried in the Multnomah county circuit court and convicted of second degree murder. Prior to the slaying of Mrs. Johnson he lived at her home for several months.

Boy Scouts Have First Camp Fire

Growth of Council Camp Told After Tour of Site

CAMP PIONEER, July 1—A unique "Know Camp Pioneer" camp fire was held last night in which the Boy Scouts were led about the camp and shown the points of interest. Various camp sites were pointed out by leaders and certain fundamental rules for the good of the camp explained.

Following the trip that took them nearly around the lake, the scouts gathered about the council fire and enjoyed a period of good comradeship consisting of songs and stories. "Chief" Ronald R. Ruddiman, scout executive, introduced the boys to many new songs.

Dr. B. F. Pound, chairman of the council organization and extension committee and one of the group which located Camp Pioneer, outlined briefly the founding of the camp and its growth. He declared that Camp Pioneer presented a challenge to each boy to put forth his best efforts to make the same kind of growth in his own life as it has made.

Richardson Trial To Start Monday

Special Prosecutor Francis E. Marsh of McMinnville will be in Salem today or tomorrow to arrange last details in the trial of W. Y. Richardson, one-time deputy of former County Treasurer David G. Drager, which is to open in circuit court here next Monday.

The trial, which was originally set for February 15, has been postponed several times because of prior demands on the time of attorneys for both sides.

Richardson is under indictment for larceny of $23,580 in Marion county funds over a 20-year period. Former Treasurer Drager was found guilty of the same charge after trial in February.
