

Ladies Get Irrate Bill White Finds

Remarks on Diamond
Acumen Resented but
One Fan Faithful

By BILL WHITE
NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—You can safely rate politicians, ham actors, the Brooklyn Dodgers or your golf partner—but it isn't safe to kid the ladies. They don't like it.

In a thoughtless moment recently I wrote a piece that ladies go to baseball games primarily to discuss fashions and bargains, and that they neither know nor care much about the game.

Witness now our "fan mail" of the past week:

"Dear Dopey:
We just read your story on ladies day. How could you be so stupid? I can quote batting averages, lifetime records and case histories of most of the big leaguers and I might throw in a few statistics on the Texas league. I'm an average woman fan."

Another admirer writes:

"You Lugs:
The other day I sat next to a man who thought a batter was out if the fielder caught a fly on the second bounce. And you say women don't know baseball, why, I'll bet I could tell you a thing or two."

An excerpt from a third billet doux:

"What's so criminal about women talking fashions at ball games when all the men talk about is politics and golf scores?"

But the one we memorized was this:

"Dear Bill:
Your ladies' day story was very good. I laughed myself sick and though I've never been to a game I know you're right. Love, Mother."

Midsummer Millinery Is Most Flattering

Top left, striped chignon turban; right, rough straw saucer style hat; below, left, royal blue felt hat; right, golden-brown Milan chapeau.

Mid-summer millinery is particularly flattering this season. Also there is a wide choice in style, shape and material. The striped chignon turban is perfect for any kind of travel and was created by Roth Margit, Budapest designer. Lucille Ball models the saucer-type chapeau of rough straw, the color of ripe wheat, with gold grosgrain ribbon tied under the saucer brim. Anne Shirley has picked a hat reminiscent of the traditional Kentucky colonel headgear. It is made of royal blue felt, with upswung bumper brim and deeply indented crown banded with cherry red grosgrain ribbon. Feathered feathers give a suggestion of height. Dorothy Lovett's model has a sweeping brim and an old witch crown. It is made of golden-brown Milan, and is banded with dark brown grosgrain ribbon.

Many Wild Animals Seen by Boy Scouts At Camp Pioneer; Deer Said Plentiful

By PERCY SMITH
CAMP PIONEER, July 5—
"Gee, aren't they pretty! I don't see how anyone could kill them." These words ran as a thrill through the group of campers who had been interrupted in their eating by the announcement of Ken Murphy, camp clerk, that there were deer in camp. Two one-year-old black-tail bucks ambled

Oakville Bandit Not yet Caught

OAKVILLE, July 6 (AP)—A gunman with a fist full of bank currency apparently made good his escape today after robbing the bank of Oakville and shooting Constable George Clark.

Clark, with a bullet through his head from left ear to eye, was still in a Centralia hospital tonight. Physicians said his condition was critical.

The lone man, carrying a pistol but unarmed, invaded the bank yesterday when the cashier and a clerk were alone in the building. Snatching currency which the cashier was counting, he fled in a fastid from the cashier and Constable Clark. In returning their fire, he hit Clark.

Poses searched the Oakville area without success last night and today. Officers impounded an automobile with California license plates, found parked near the town.

Suicides From Plane

LOS ANGELES, July 6 (AP)—A well dressed, unidentified man about 34 years old leaped to his death from a private airplane today. Pilot Clyde Hodges, 19, told police, despite Hodges' stunting the ship to prevent it.

Boy of 5 Wounded By 'Unloaded' Gun

MEDFORD, July 6 (AP)—Glen Cave, five years old, sustained loss of his left eye, the tips of the fingers of his left hand, and chest wounds, when he was accidentally shot by his uncle, Jimmy Cave, 11, as they played in the home of Joseph O. Cave, city policeman, Saturday.

Policeman Cave in a report stated the two boys were romping about the house, and went into a bedroom where a single-barreled shotgun stood in the corner. Jimmy picked up the weapon, thinking "it was empty," and it discharged, arousing the household.

The wounded boy was rushed to a hospital. Physicians said he had a chance for recovery, unless complications arose from the chest injury.

Policeman Cave is the grandfather of the wounded boy, and the father of the other.

Vitt Likes Omen; Believes in Them

Leading at Halfway Mark
Pleases; Admits He's Superstitious

CLEVELAND, July 6 (AP)—Ole Vitt trundled out of the Cleveland Indians' wigwam today with his book of superstitions and opined:

1—"It was a 'good omen, all right,' for the Tribe to lead the American league at the season's halfway mark."

2—"The Detroit Tigers are his biggest worry in trying to pilot Cleveland to its first pennant in 20 years; and"

3—"I look for this race not to be decided until the last week of the season."

"I'm superstitious, all right," declared the talkative Mr. Vitt, familiarly known to the fans—and sometimes to himself—as "Ole Ole."

"It's a good omen to be in first place July 4 and 15m not ashamed to admit that."

Believes 'Em all

"I believe in almost every superstition in the book. When I see a white butterfly, I just know that means good luck; that we're going to win. But that black butterfly—how I hate to see that one come around!"

"When a lady bug lights on me, I know we're going to win, and 90 per cent of the time it comes out just as I thought."

"Why, I've seen a guy eat white fish at noon," continued Oscar. "He'd win that afternoon, and decide it was the white fish. And he'd order white fish for a month without stopping."

Oddities ... in the News

TOLEDO, O., July 6 (AP)—"Drive me to the river and I'll jump in," Elsworth Meier, 20, told friends last night. But that black butterfly—how I hate to see that one come around!

NEWARK, N.J., July 6 (AP)—Virginia Cocalis, the girl who preferred romance to a $25,000 legacy, married the man of her choice Friday and Cupid's victory will be gilded after all.

Her sister, Mrs. Maria Cabouras, who received the $25,000 when she abided by the terms of her father's will and married a man of the Greek orthodox faith, said the newlyweds would receive "many gifts from time to time from the family."

"There will be no attempt to change my father's will," she said. "There will absolutely not be any legal action for that purpose, and the subject is closed with the wedding."

The bridegroom was George McMillan, 27, a Baptist, of Knoxville, Tenn.

The late Soterios D. Cocalis, owner of a chain of theatres, bequeathed $25,000 legacies from his $500,000 fortune to each of his three daughters if they abided by the marriage proviso. The youngest sister is unmarried.

ROCKINGHAM, N. C., July 6 (AP)—You'll have to get these brakes fixed," State Highway Patrolman told the negro he had stopped.

"Den brakes is all right, boss," the driver replied. "You just don't know how to work 'em, I'll show you how quick dey stop de car."

So off he drove and was caught only after a breakneck chase.

JERSEYVILLE, Ill., July 6 (AP)—Mrs. Hamel O'Cleary feels she's qualified for any domestic anti-parachutist duty.

With a shotgun she brought down three chicken hawks that had invaded the farmyard and stolen fowl.

St. LOUIS, July 6 (AP)—Starting today, police warned, martial celebrators who blow automobile horns—even if they are driving the newlyweds—will be hustled off to the nearest police station for violating the anti-noise ordinance. Previously officers winked at such noisy celebrations.

BURLINGTON, Vt., July 6 (AP)—Woman has a right to change her mind and records in the city clerk's office here disclose that Miss Margaret E. Roull, 22, exercised the right.

She recently obtained a license

Ovation Accorded Hitler on Return raising and the daily tolling of church bells.

* But today it was like a vast busman's holiday.

I rode in a car behind Hitler's with four other newspaper correspondents, from Anhalter station to the chancellery.

No one, unless he happened to stand before the chancellery when Hitler got there and saw the wounded veterans of Hitler's campaigns, lined up in a place of honor below his balcony, would have thought Germany still was fighting a war.

White hands blared and church bells pealed. Hitler, standing in his car, smiled and saluted.

Flowers of every kind and color carpeted his path.

Thousands had brought flowers, despite the order that they must not throw them in the Führer's car. The police had them piled in the streets and, a few minutes before Hitler's train pulled into the station, uniformed Hitler boys and Hitler girls scattered them eagerly from curb to curb.

The predominant note of the triumphal ride was military.

Hitler did not speak, either at the station or at the chancellery. He made two silent, smiling appearances on the chancellery balcony, and the police had to clear the Wilhelmplatz later because the people wouldn't go away.

There was this other outstanding impression of my drive: the realization that Germany still has enormous reserves of manpower for her fight on England.

The companies of troops before the station and along the route never, apparently, have been to the front.

More than that, fresh, massed manpower presented itself in storm troop and schutz staffel formations, labor battalions, Nazi motor troops, numerous types of civil service employees, railwaymen, streetcar men, and in the older classes of Hitler youths.

In one respect this homecoming was true to tradition—"Hitler weather" prevailed.

The sun shone hot and bright—so hot, in fact, that many people collapsed.

Hitler came to the capital well ahead of Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, who is due to arrive tomorrow.

It is understood that the visit is in the main a demonstration of the solidarity of the axis.

Ciano is likely to go to the western front, whence Hitler came today, after visiting Berlin.

In One Ear...

make their war prisoners feel at home.

The late news from the World's Fair (NY edition) and Mrs. Roosevelt should set the power companies to quivering some more. Just to show it could be done some bright boys at the zoological exhibit at the fair hooked up an electric eel to a telegraph transmitter and with that power a message was sent clear to Mrs. Roosevelt, who by some queer quirk happened to be in Washington that day.

We can see tremendous implications in this. What if some enterprising cartel started out to put an eel in every home and thereby do away with the light bill. It's colossal.

There's only one drawback. It seems that electric eels have to get mad before they'll give out with voltage and who wants to sit around calling an eel names every time he wants to shave?

Four Arrests Reported On Variety of Charges

Salem police last night booked Harold Reiners, Hubbard, on a charge of failure to stop at a stop sign; E. J. Jockel, Salem route one, on reckless driving; L. Nelson, Salem, on running through a red light and operating an automobile without a driver's license, and Joe Harris, Salem, on a charge of drunkenness.
