Samuel F. Smith

Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing:

Land of the Pilgrims' pride,
From every mountain side
Let freedom ring!

It was first sung at a Fourth of July celebration for children in Boston. The Rev. Mr. Smith was born in Boston and was graduated from Harvard in 1829, in the class with Dr. Wendell Holmes.

No sign has been erected at the intersection because of the sharp angle at which the roads come together, Melson said yesterday. No accidents have been reported as occurring at the junction within recent years.

Richardson Trial To Start Monday

Former Deputy Treasurer Faces Larceny Charge for Second Time

W. T. Richardson, one-time deputy of former County Treasurer David G. Drager, will go on trial for a second time before Circuit Judge L. H. McMahan at 10 a.m. tomorrow on a charge of larceny of over $23,000 of Marion county funds.

Richardson was tried on the same charge a year ago; and the case continued for retrial when the jury failed to agree on his guilt or innocence.

Last February Drager, jointly indicted with Richardson, was found guilty of the charge, and a penitentiary sentence of two years given him by Judge McMahan was suspended.

The larceny indictment resulted from grand jury investigation of a state audit of Marion county funds extending from 1915, the year that Drager first took office, to 1938.

The audit revealed a shortage of $23,580, evidently the result of minor losses over a long period of years.

The state's case will be presented tomorrow by Francis E. Marsh of McMinnville, special prosecutor appointed to handle the case, and that of the defense by Edwin Keech, Salem attorney.

Record Set in Playground Attendance With 89,769 in 26 Days at Two Parks

Attendance at Salem's playgrounds for the first 26 days of the current season far exceeds that of last year and previous years, Director Vern Gilmore's records reveal.

Inclusive of July 5, a total of 89,769 had been in attendance to the various activities this year, while for a 10-day longer period in 1939 only 79,690 were registered.

Gilmore expressed himself as well pleased with the general increase. Kindergarten, basketry and woodworking classes have had exceptional increases, he said, but indicated there is still room for more children in the kindergartens. Mothers may leave children in the classes from 9 to 11 a. m. They may also take advantage of the supervised free play hour between 11 and 12 a. m.

The "learn to swim" campaign, registration for which begins Wednesday of this week, is expected to swell attendance even more.

Annual Pet day is scheduled for Friday of this week at both Olinger and Leslie.

Of the total attendance to July 5, 61,760 was registered at Olinger and 28,009 at Leslie.

Experience Rating Hearings Planned

Council From UCC Sorts Benefit Checks by Claimant Groups

Plans for a series of hearings for employers, workers, accountants and other interested parties, to begin in August, are being worked out by the experience rating council of the unemployment compensation commission, Chairman T. Morris Dunne announced Saturday.

The hearings will follow closely upon the completion of a sample study now under way.

The council, under whose direction the study of seven charge-back methods is being made, expects to make recommendations to the commission prior to October 1. Employment records, contributions and benefits charged against 627 representative firms in Oregon's many industries are being tabulated.

More than 900,000 benefit checks issued in 1938 and 1939 already have been grouped according to claimants. Eventually the 1940 checks will be similarly grouped.

Deviations from the 2.7 rate will be based upon contributions since 1936 and benefits paid since 1938. Excess of contributions over benefits by 8 per cent or more of the past three years' average payroll will entitle the employer to a lower rate, while if the excess is less than 4 per cent of the average, the rate will be higher.

The experience rating council is composed of Chairman Dunne, M. E. Steele, Kenneth Davis, R. R. Brown and F. J. O'Connor, all of Portland; Carl Hogg, Oregon City, and R. R. Macartney, Klamath Falls.

Tickets Will Cost From $1 to $2.50; Stands Will Seat 8000

First day's sale of tickets to the Salem Centennial pageant, to be presented at the state fairgrounds the nights of July 31, August 1, 2 and 3, went beyond the ticket committee's expectations, Lawrence Morley, chairman, announced yesterday.

"To give Salem people first choice, we are not placing out-of-town tickets until July 10," Morley announced. "Then because of many calls and heavy mail inquiries coming in, we will start sales in surrounding valley towns."

The ticket committee will function daily from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at Centennial headquarters, 260 North High street, both to sell tickets and to answer questions.

Morley said the grandstand and auxiliary accommodations at the state fairgrounds would seat 8000 spectators comfortably for the pageant. The stage setting the sound arrangements are designed with the goal of making the pageant easily seen and heard from the cheaper as well as from the more costly seats.

Six thousand dollars has been set aside in the Centennial budget for the pageant stage and accompanying panoramic setting alone, Morley declared.

Pageant ticket prices are as follows:

One dollar seats, outside edges and top gallery; $1.50, below and inside the rows of $1 seats; $2, front center section and immediately behind the boxes, 14 rows; $2.50, choice boxes in front of the stage.

Placement Service Keeps Busy, June

Past Week Slacks off, but Active File Decreased to 2584 Names

After a busy June when jobs were found for 2960 persons, the Salem office of the state employment service has found the past week a slack time. Placements are expected to be light until July 20 when bean picking will start, Manager D. L. McBain states.

June placements this year showed a material increase over 1939. In regular employment 112 persons were placed as compared to 106 in June, 1939, and in temporary work 2848 were placed compared with 1487 during the same period in 1939. New applications number 350 during the month this year compared to 333 in June, 1939, and the active file contained 2584 names at the end of June this year compared to 3091 last June.

Work in the cherry harvest accounted for the bulk of placements last month. A few raspberry, loganberry, boysenberry and black cap pickers are now being sent into the field.

No call for fire fighters has yet been received at the local office, but a list of possible fighters is being compiled at the office to use if such a call should be made.
