Whites, Indians Said Much Alike

Educator Claims Indians Have Been Put at Disadvantage

There is little difference between the intellectual ability of a competent Indian and a competent white man, members of the Salem Lions club were told yesterday noon at the Marion hotel by Dr. Willard Beatty, director of education for the United States Indian service.

"We have never really sensed the Indian problem," Dr. Beatty

"The Indians are not an inferior people but they have been disadvantaged economically and isolated by language," he de-"The white man took away from them everything they had to make a living and every reason they had for living." The average Indian is an ex-ellent workman, he belongs on the land and he is the most industrious and loyal employe it is possible to find, the educator said he had found. He urged his listeners to "make an effort to get acquainted with your Indian neighbors."

Dr. Beatty, who is conducting a summer session at Chemawa Indian school for Indian service teachers, was introduced by Paul T. Jackson, Chemawa superin-

Forum Scheduled, Benefit Changes

Rules Commission Orders Are Okeh

The state game commission, under the law, has authority to order partial or absolute closure of the open season on game animals and game birds, Attorney General I. H. Van Winkle ruled yesterday.

The opinion was requested by the game commission in connection with the open season on pheasants.

Van Winkle also held that the commission has authority to specify a date on and after which applications for tags will be received in order that all citizens of the state may have equal opportunity to file their applications without being too late in making such fil-

"Knight" Tired, Decides on Train Rather Than Jail

"I'm tired of being kicked around," James Edwards told police who politely asked that he went down on top of it, hitting board an Oregon Electric freight and get out of town.

The police found Edwards, who said he had been everywhere and hadn't worked for years, sleeping in a boxcar. There was a train leaving and they thought he might like a ride. Edwards decided he'd rather go to jail. Yesterday in police court Edwards changed his mind, accepted a 30-day suspended sentence on condition that he leave town.
