NSF Charge Faced—Alice M. Perry faces a charge of uttering a check without sufficient funds as a result of City Officer George Edwards' curiosity. Edwards saw Miss Perry toss away a package as she walked along the street. Examination found the package to consist of a loaf of bread. Edwards, upon questioning her, could gain no satisfaction as to why she tossed the bread away but learned she had passed a check without sufficient funds in order to procure it.

Dairymen Here Sue Milk Body

Allege Excessive Charges Made; Revocation of Licenses Fought

The state milk control board was named defendant yesterday in two further actions arising in recent weeks from its order requiring dairymen in the Salem vicinity to show cause why their licenses should not be revoked for failure to make equalization payments claimed due by the board.

Plaintiffs in the case were Curley's dairy and Dave's independent dairy. Harold D. McMillin and others. Also listed as defendant was the Dairy Cooperative association of Salem because of interests as a third party beneficiary in the payments alleged due.

The closely parallel complaints state that the dairies held the belief that they were suffering from excessive charges by the control board, and together with other dairies claiming similar discrimination had negotiated a settlement at 25 percent of the original charges with the control board.

This settlement, the complainants affirm, was agreed to by the milk control board, the plaintiffs and the dairies, and also by the cooperative association of dairies, because of large milk surpluses which expected to receive the bulk of equalization payments.

Since the making of the agreement, however, the plaintiffs asserted, the control board has demanded full payment of the 25 per cent agreed upon by ordering interested dairies to show cause why their licenses should not be revoked for failure to pay the full sum.

Complainants also allege that the board's revocatory action by the board is asked by both complainants.

39 Guardsmen Made Officers

All Will Be Taken From Ranks; 27 Officers Are Promoted

Appointment of 39 new officers and promotion of 27 officers in the Oregon national guard was approved yesterday by the war department in the largest promotion in the state's history. Major General George A. White, commanding general announced here.

Similar increases also were granted to the national guards of Washington, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming, but the figures for these states were not available here. The guardsmen of the five states are the 41st division, commanded by General White, which begins three weeks of maneuvers at Fort Lewis, Wash., next week, and which will be mobilized for about a year.

In the Oregon national guard, 12 majors will be promoted to lieutenant colonels, seven captains will become majors and lieutenants will become captains. The 39 new officers will be appointed first and second lieutenants, and all will come from the ranks.

"All promotions and appointments will be made from the present ranks," General White said, following a conference with Governor Charles A. Sprague, who indicated his approval of recognizing only the men now in service and preferably from men who have attended previous trainings camps. "Fitness alone will be the basis, but there are not enough vacancies for all qualified men," General White continued.

In calling on regimental commanders for their recommendations, General White said that under the law of line appointments and promotions, these will be made from the lists submitted by the regimental commanders. All must pass federal examining boards and those who qualify will then be certified by the war department for federal commission.

He said there would be more promotions if the 41st division is increased from its present strength of 19,000 to a war-time strength of 25,000.

All vacancies are in the line of the infantry, field artillery and coast artillery.

Side-Saddle Added Onto Fair Stakes

Costume to Count High; Other New Classes Are Listed

Days gone by will come to life again in the Oregon state fair show in September as the 1940's smatter, feminine riders center out in the side-saddle style to compete for prizes in one of the new classes in the state fair night horse show, which opens here-Labor day.

The ladies side-saddle class calls for side-saddle costumes as well as this style saddle and the costume will count 40 per cent on the score, says Paul R. Washburn, professor of physical education at the University of Oregon, who is manager of the horse show this year.

Other new classes announced in the classification and prize list, distributed late last week, include children's seat and hands for all riders under 16 years of age, combination five-gaited pairs, musical chairs and five-gaited horses to be ridden by owner or member of the owner's family. The classification list provides for seven competitive events each night of the horse show, which opens September 5, Labor day, but does not go on the final night of the fair, which is Sunday, September 8.

Stakes of $250 each are listed for fine harness horses, roadsters to bike, three-gaited horses, combination three- and five-gaited, and five-gaited horses to be ridden by owner. A $500 stake will be awarded for the best week's cumulative score in the six-horse exhibition entries.

Interest will center also in two perpetual trophies, the Imperial Hotel award, last year by Mariposa McDonald of the C. Roy Hunt stables of Portland and Bert Corby riding and the D. F. Burge trophy in the six-horse class, won in 1939 by Norval Marten of The Dalles. The Imperial Hotel trophy is for the finest three-gaited saddle horse over 15.2.

Entries for the horse show close Wednesday, August 23, at noon. Classification and prize lists may be obtained by writing the Oregon state fair, Salem.

New Police Radio Gets Its Quarry; Two in Two Days

Two-way radio gets its man for the city police department. Yesterday Patrolman Hobart Kiggins made use of the recently installed system to capture Robert Preston, escapee from the state training school for boys at Woodburn, and the day before he brought it into use in over-taking a Salem juvenile subsequently charged with larceny from an automobile.

Kiggins, on patrol at Marion and Front streets, spotted young Preston, who made his escape from the state school Tuesday night. His radio for assistance brought two other patrol cars that aided in rounding up the youngster within five minutes after Kiggins saw him.

Whipsaw Shown Has Long History

The Odd Fellows lodge is displaying an old whipsaw during the Centennial celebration which is a most interesting relic. The saw has been in possession of the lodge since 1831, when it was presented by D. D. Prettymann, but its history dates back to 1829.

The relic was taken from Delaware about 1829 to Missouri, and in 1847 it was brought across the plains to The Dalles.

In The Dalles the saw was used to construct two flat boats which D. D. Tompkins, David James and John Powell, the late William McKinney of Turner and his father, who was a Methodist minister, used to sail down the Columbia river. The handles now on the saw, except a crossbar on the one of them, were put on at The Dalles, and the wood is still in good condition.

Eight Cities Send Rotary Visitors

Rotarians from eight Oregon cities attended the Salem Rotary's statewide Centennial luncheon at the Marion hotel yesterday noon. Represented were Portland, Medford, Eugene, Corvallis, Seaside, Albany, Woodburn and Silverton. Governor Charles A. Sprague welcomed the visitors.

The Rotarians heard Dr. William G. Swenson, president of Lincoln college, McMinnville, declare that Salem's observance of its first 100 years' existence presents a challenge to carry its early day spirit, that of a free people, into the future.

Refreshments were provided by the Centennial quartet composed of Ernest B. Glaisyer, Max Alfred, Ronald Craven and Rev. David Ringland, with Alice Cray Brown as accompanist.

Rites Are Today For Lillie Starr

Word has been received of the death in Los Angeles on July 11 of Lillie Howe Starr, who was born in Salem, October 16, 1872.

Mrs. Starr was the daughter of Selma and James T. Howe.

Survivors are a son, Harold Howe Starr, of Los Angeles; sister, Mrs. Annie Francis of Dallas, and grandson, Harold Starr, Jr., of Los Angeles.

The body was cremated and ashes forwarded to Salem, where services will be held today at 2 p. m. at the IOOF cemetery.

Pension Council In Session Here

Methods of assisting legislative candidates who favor increased old age pensions will be discussed at a meeting of the executive committee of the Oregon Pension federation.

The committee also will decide whether to support the initiative measure which would license many forms of gambling, with the general election on the November ballot which affects pensions.

Rainfall Average For July Topped

Half again more rain fell in Salem during July than the month's average of .40 inch, according to official records. Five days' precipitation of .61 inch was the greatest in July since 1932, which had .65.

Ninety degree weather dominated the first week, followed by only one more reading of 90 degrees on the 11th. Approximately the month was cool and rainy, with rainfalls on July 20, 22, 25, 26 and 27.

Officials in Doubt as To Reason for Change

No event that would conflict with Senator Charles E. McNary's notification is scheduled for the state fairgrounds on August 28, fair officials said yesterday. The notification has been advanced to August 27, with an explanation given in Washington, D. C., that the change was made to avoid a conflict of events.

Statehouse officials surmised the change may have been made to avert drawing crowds away from the Astoria regatta on August 28.

Phenants Released

REPPNER, Ore., July 31.—(P)—J. L. Richardson, president of the Morrow Hunters and Anglers club, said today many of the 3000 phenants to be released in Morrow county this season already had been turned loose along various creeks.

Job Placing Is Up 41 per Cent

Inventory Being Taken of Skilled Workers for Defense

New jobs secured through the Oregon state employment service during the first half of 1940 increased 41 per cent over the same period last year. Director L. G. Stoll reported yesterday.

Supplementary placements more than doubled while jobs in private industry gained 23 per cent.

Stoll said an up-to-the-minute inventory of skilled workers in key defense occupations was being taken in Oregon this month. Both main and secondary registrations will be counted among the nearly 40,000 unemployed included in the active file.

Decrease of nearly 15 per cent in active file from the 47,111 listed last year at this time is reflected in the increased placement report.

In the first six months $2,337,737 found jobs with private firms through the state employment service compared with $1,219,917 for the first half of 1939. Supplementary placements, mainly along seasonal farm lines, jumped from 16,737 to 35,924, while the total of all jobs went up from 44,237 to 62,571.

Placements in governmental classifications slumped from $241 to $160.

Former Minister Returns to Salem

The Calvary Baptist church, of which Rev. Arno G. Wenger is the pastor, is planning a homecoming service for Sunday morning with Dr. W. T. Milliken of Portland, who is now the president of the Western Baptist Theological seminary, as the speaker. He is the unanimous choice of the board of deacons because of his former relationship to the older members of the church, having been their pastor in other days.

A brief history of the church's existence will be given by one of the charter members, all of whom will have places of honor and special recognition. Special music will be rendered by the choir under the direction of E. D. Lindburg. Following the message of the morning the ordinance of communion will be observed and the hand of fellowship extended to the new members who have united during the month. There will be no evening service, the congregation joining in the great union service at the fairgrounds.

Coroner, Attorney Have Death Report

Circumstances leading to the death of Frank Whitwood Bliss, 14-year-old bicyclist Tuesday night struck by a car driven by Lloyd Cecil Yates of Crawfordville, are now in the hands of the district attorney and county coroner, state police officers who investigated declared yesterday.

Bliss' son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Dean Bliss, 2745 North Front, was struck as he rode his bicycle down the driveway at his home. Yates, accompanied by his wife and infant son, was coming into Salem from Tigard, where he is employed.

Cord Goes Down Okeh; Chicken Is Seemingly Normal

Though indigestible, two feet of rubber upholstery cord apparently did not give indigestion to a spring chicken which swallowed it, in the opinion of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Norris, 1945 Lewis street, who discovered the oddity when their fryer was butchered this week.

They found about half of the cord doubled up in the chicken's craw and the remainder virtually filling its gizzard, but the chicken had seemed entirely healthy, and was unusual in no other respect. The cord was about three-eighths inch thick.

Centennial on Air, Portland Stations

The KOIN-KALE radio system in Portland presented six broadcasts from Salem yesterday in connection with the Centennial, and a half hour drama last night bearing on the celebration. H. M. "Hank" Swartwood, Jr., KOIN-KALE program director, said more time was given to the Centennial than his stations had ever devoted in one day to a rose festival in Portland.

Here with Swartwood were Stanley Church, director of public affairs; Marc Bowman, continuity editor, and Earl Denham, technician.

Grange Requests View Station, Sun Mountain

The Fort Klamath grange has written a letter to the state highway commission urging construction of a lookout station on top of Sun Mountain in Klamath county. The lookout would be adjacent to The Dalles-California highway and would give travelers an unobstructed view of the entire Wood River valley.

The request will be considered by the highway commission at its next meeting.
