Hiller Estate Claim Denied

Court Leaves Question of German Heir Receiving Assets Undecided

Circuit Judge L. G. Lewelling yesterday denied the complaint of the plaintiff in the suit of Alice Hiller against Frederick B. Hiller, administrator of the Joseph Hiller estate, and others.

The plaintiff had sought to convert the property of the estate into a trust for herself for services rendered. The court did not decide whether Priscilla Hiller, a German citizen residing in the Reich, can inherit the property as mother of the deceased.

— Circuit Court —
Luverna James vs. Ed O. Erickson; plea in abatement and answer to complaint on insurance policy.

National Security corporation vs. W. L. Moorhead; complaint to recover $5000, alleged due on surety contract; complaint states that the defendant wrongfully appropriated in excess of $500 of state funds to himself, and that the plaintiff, his bondsmen, was thus forced to protect the state in that amount.

Beatrice Kelley Annis vs. Clifford Robert Annis; divorce decree restoring former name of Beatrice Kelley to plaintiff.

— Probate Court —
Joseph R. Miller estate; final decree granted Carrie M. Thomas, Pauline B. Morris estate; cost bill $30.70.

— Justice Court —
Eugene A. Hudson, operating motor vehicle after license revocation, pleaded guilty and case continued to August 18.

Eugene Miller, forger, waived preliminary hearing, and held in default of $350 bail.

Fred Bivens, assault and battery on wife, pleaded guilty, continued to August 15.

Martin Warns on Loose War Talk

General Charles H. Martin, former governor of Oregon, warned against loose war talk and against American acceptance of a fate similar to that of France in a speech given yesterday before members of the Salem Kiwanis club and their wives and friends.

The speaker urged adoption of compulsory military service in the present emergency, and asked for vigilance against the inroads of subversive elements of every sort.

He singled out for special disapproval national youth movements, which he characterized as communist-controlled and training grounds for disrespect for established institutions.

In a prefatory word to his prepared speech, General Martin expressed the belief that greater recognition should be accorded Senator Thomas Benton of Missouri by Oregon citizens and historians, because of his leadership in the congressional debates which resulted in acceptance of the Oregon country as a territory of the United States.

Salem Youths Enlist—The marine corps recruiting headquarters for the district of Portland listed several Salem youths among 28 young men who enlisted during the month of July. They were Orestis B. Raymond, 1170 N. 14th street; William R. Kennedy, jr., route three, Box 884, and Marion Seal, all of Salem.

Visitor to Centennial Spent Boyhood in Salem Area; McArthur, Historical Society President, Once Held Horses

Among enthusiastic visitors to the Centennial yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. McArthur of Portland. In addition to being an official of the Pacific Power and Light company, McArthur is president of the Oregon Historical society and visited Salem as an official representative of that organization. He has written extensively about Oregon history and geography.

McArthur is a grandson of Col. James W. Nesmith, a pioneer of 1843 and a senator and Representative in congress from Oregon. Col. Nesmith at one time owned a building near The Statesman office where the Oregon legislature held its sessions. McArthur's father, Judge L. L. McArthur, was a member of the Oregon supreme court in the '70s. Lewis A. McArthur was born at The Dalles, but spent his youth on the Nesmith farm at Rickreall.

"I have a distinct recollection of Salem in the late '60s, because members of the family came here often on business and I was brought along to hold the horses. I waited for hours in front of the Ladd and Bush bank, Gilbert and Patterson's store and The Statesman office. The boulders in the county road at Eola seem to me to have been as big as sacks of wheat, and there were plenty of them. The Centennial celebration is an excellent concept, and Salem has done a fine job with it."

Some years ago McArthur put in his spare time for many months contouring a map of the state of Oregon. The contours were used by Barry Faulkner to make a painted relief map which now hangs in the governor's office in the new capitol. More recently McArthur turned his manuscript sheets over to the state highway department for use in making a large scale model relief map of the state. This large model has been shipped from Portland to Salem and will soon be on exhibition at the state highway offices. McArthur inspected the new map yesterday and expressed himself as well satisfied with the work of the modelers.

Methodists Honor Salem's Founder

Jason Lee, Methodist missionary and founder of Salem, forms the nucleus about which the Sunday morning service at First Methodist church is formed. Having founded the church in 1841, Jason Lee will live again in the spirit of old First church Sunday.

Dr. J. C. Harrison, pastor, returns from his vacation to bring the homecoming message. The text of the morning is taken from the inscription on the tomb of Jason Lee, "Thou hast called, and I have answered."

Found Under Auto Seriously Injured

Found lying under his automobile early yesterday morning by a state policeman, Ray Alfred Schantz, 44, Woodburn, was at the Salem General hospital yesterday with serious back injuries and facial cuts.

Schantz, an employee of the title division of the secretary of state's office, was found about a mile south of Woodburn. His car was right side up, but was believed to have turned completely over since the top was badly damaged.

Schantz, in a semi-conscious state, was unable to give police any information about the accident.

Pioneers Honored At Noon Luncheon

More Than 200 Attend at Marion Hotel; Several Counties Represented

Over 200 sons and daughters of pioneers attended a banquet yesterday at 12:30 p. m. in the Marion hotel, with famed pioneers of this state as special guests. Speaker for the luncheon was Governor Sprague, who brought a cane carried by President Polk over 100 years ago.

Five children of George B. DeSart and wife, who came to Marion county in 1863, were present. They were Wesley DeSart, Folk county; Mrs. Laura H. Coons, Mrs. W. H. Morris, Yachats; Schuyler DeSart and Mrs. Lola Patterson, the latter born in a covered wagon while en route to Oregon.

Among the pioneers were Halle Parrish Hinges, direct descendant of the famed pioneer missionary, J. L. Parrish; E. J. Hendricks; Dan Wagner, 83, of Portland; A. W. Veatch; Mrs. P. A. Dixon, 82, of Corvallis, and Mrs. E. R. Heise of Salem. Mrs. Heise was perhaps the last of a Gregonian woman present, having been here since 1853.

Others were Mrs. George J. Pearce, formerly Nell Riley, born in Salem in 1859; M. L. Jones, over 91, who came to Salem in 1852; Rose Simon Gwin, born in Salem in 1870; Mrs. Alice Bell Addlway, over 75, and Mrs. L. B. Halbert born near the courthouse in 1872.

The address of welcome was delivered by Mayor W. W. Chadwick; M. L. Meyers presided.

Outdoor Service Planned by Court Street Christian

An unusual service is being planned for Sunday night at the Court Street Church of Christ. The service will be held in "The Garden of Prayer," an outdoor landscaped garden adjacent to the church.

Walter Ficus, evangelist, who is beginning a series of special services Sunday at the Court Street Church of Christ, will speak and Mrs. Ficus will play the vibraphone. The hour for the service has been set at 6:30 p. m. so everyone will have an opportunity to attend the union service at the fairgrounds at 8 p. m.

Baptists Follow Centennial Theme

In keeping with the Centennial the First Baptist church Sunday will have messages from Dr. O. C. Wright, the secretary of the Oregon Baptist convention, and Kenneth B. Daniels, who will speak at both Sunday school and morning services.

The Baptists are celebrating the 100th anniversary of their Colporteur movement in the United States. Mr. Daniels will have with him the modern Colporteur trailer, which will stand in front of the church for inspection. The Baptists share the honor of having the first covered wagon to cross the mountains into the Willamette valley. It came in 1832 by way of the old Oregon Trail from St. Louis.

In the evening at the First Baptist church there will be a seven-episode pageant entitled "Send the Light."

Artist Measures For PO Murals

Andrew M. Vincoat, art instructor for the University of Oregon who has been commissioned to paint and install murals in the Salem postoffice, was here yesterday checking the measurements against the blueprints.

Vincoat has just completed a similar commission in Washington and will require several months time for the Salem murals.

The Salem murals will be approximately 13 feet square. Subject matter for the murals has not yet been determined definitely.

August 21 Is Final Date For Filing Water Claims

The period for filing claims in the North Santiam river and Mill creek adjudication of water rights expires August 21, Charles E. Stricklin, state engineer, declared Friday.

Stricklin said the taking of proofs was now in progress and that a series of hearings would be held later.
