Evening Glamour for the Woman Who Sews

This dinner frock, which looks as though it might be a Paris creation, was designed by our own Anne Adams and can be made on your sewing machine in a few hours. Its fashion points are legion and the hood is flattering to all ages. So are the long bishop's sleeve and the cummerbund that hugs the waistline. The separate waist and skirt permit of various color combinations and changes. The dress was made from Pattern 4455 which may be obtained in the same manner as all of our Anne Adams patterns. Sending directions will be found in the daily feature on the woman's page.

Miss Boylan Is Bride of Mr. Welch

One of the season's loveliest weddings was solemnized last night at the First Methodist church when Miss Elizabeth Boylan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Berne B. Boylan, became the bride of Mr. Theodore Huntley Welch of Old City, Tenn., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Theodore Welch of Old City. Bishop Bruce R. Baxter and Dr. J. C. Harrison performed the ceremony at 8:30 o'clock.

The altar was banked with bouquets of ivory gladioli and palms flanked by ivory cathedral tapers in candelabras. Preceding the service Mrs. John Schmidt, jr., played "Schubert's Serenade" and "Traume" and Miss Evelyn Gibson sang "Dink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" and "Dreams." Mrs. Schmidt played "Ave Maria" while Miss Rosemary Gaiser and Miss Margaret Wonderlick lighted the altar candles. Just before the bride party entered Miss Gibson sang "Still as the Night" and "I Love Thee."

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, was a picture in the wedding gown of the groom's mother. The dress is of Renaissance handmade ivory lace and is designed with a full skirt slightly entrain. The gown is made with short puffed sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. Her full length tulle veil of ivory was arranged in a coronet of lace from the bridal gown. She carried a bouquet of orchids, bride's roses and Humberdill bouvardia. The bride's only ornament was a diamond necklace and a diamond gift of the groom.

Miss Jeannette Scott was the maid of honor and was gowned in a frock to Florida gold silk net over chiffon and taffeta. The dress was made with a full skirt, sweetheart neckline and puffed sleeves. Her bouquet was of Tallman roses, gerbera, golden fleecia and gladioli and in her hair was a cluster of roses and gerbera.

The affair was arranged as a surprise for Miss Boylan. Croquet was in play during the evening with refreshments served at a late hour by the hostesses.

Guests were seated at small tables with blue and pink used as the decorative scheme. Favors for the guests were nosegays tied with a shower of blue and pink ribbons.

Honoring Miss Boylan were Mrs. E. A. Boylan, Mrs. S. L. Johnson, Mrs. E. M. McKee, Mrs. Lawrence Bradford, Mrs. Paul Brandon, Mrs. Ronald P. Crossland, Mrs. Marion Ritchie, Mrs. Morris Walden, Mrs. John Van Osdel, Miss Esther Mae DeVore, Miss Le Von Gardner, Miss Jane and Miss Beulah Patton, Miss Marie and Miss Blanche Baumgartner, Miss Corliss and Miss Carol Clark, Miss Hilda Crawford, Miss Eleanor Johnson and Miss Charlotte McKee.

Soup, Sandwiches Combine to Make Quick Outdoor Meal Success

A simple menu with a festive air is the perfect formula for successful party suppers served on the porch. And one clever way to carry out this scheme is to build the meal around an array of delicious home-tasting soups from which the guests select their favorites, accompanying with a plate of crackers, sandwiches, deviled eggs and relishes.

This is a charming new note in entertaining which eliminates last minute bustle, for most of the menu items lend themselves to beforehand preparation. Make your sandwiches and deviled eggs early in the day and arrange them with the ripe olives, celery curls and radish roses on their plate at the same time. You'll find everything keeps fresh and moist in the refrigerator if you cover well with a damp cloth. Then all that remains to do when the guests arrive is to open the small terracotta cans of home-style soups and heat them. For a good new sandwich to serve on such an occasion, try this delicious filling combining softened American cheese with the nippy savor of tomato ketchup: Mix grated American cheese to a smooth paste with tomato ketchup, using about two tablespoons ketchup to every one-fourth pound cheese. Spread between thin slices of bread and put together with garden lettuce. The bright green of the lettuce with the red-orange of the cheese is a striking color contrast. The menu is suggested by Frances Beck of the Heinz home institute.

Today's Menu

- Tuna steak or salmon steak will be the fish to serve in Friday's dinner.
- Relish plate salad
- Tuna steak
- Tartar sauce
- Glazed carrots
- Pineapple ice cream
- Fresh cookies

GLAZED CARROTS

- 1/4 cup butter
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- Salt and black pepper
- 3 cups carrots

Scrub carrots in cold water with boiling salted water and cook until almost tender. Drain, remove skins with sharp knife and cut in long strips. Add carrots to melted butter, sprinkle lightly with black pepper and salt, add sugar and cook slowly over a low fire until tender. Shake frequently to prevent scorching. Finely chopped mint may be added.

Oregon's Own and Only Sugar Salutes ROSEBURG In the Umpqua Valley.

It's a long jump from the great timber stands of the vast Umpqua Valley — the biggest in all Oregon — to Eastern Oregon's sugar beet fields, but the ties that bind these two sections are real. Both produce millions of dollars in exportable products to enrich our state. In Umpqua Valley it's timber, fruit, fish, and poultry.

Here, also, nature's beauty is unsurpassed in a land of timbered slopes, sparkling mountain streams and jewel-set lakes where fish and game run riot in a sportsman's paradise. Roseburg says: If it's a vacation you want, come to Roseburg... and may we say: "If you want sugar, ask for Oregon's own and only 'White Satin'!"
