

Wreath Is Placed By Japan Diplomat

Matsuo, Educated in Oregon, Honors Benefactor

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 12.—(AP)—The grave of Mrs. Isabelle Dunbar Beveridge in a Portland cemetery was marked today with a wreath from Japan's foreign minister, Yosuke Matsuoka.

The wreath was placed by Shiroji Yuki, Japanese consul at Portland, in the name of Matsuoka.

It bore this inscription: "To the memory of Isabelle Dunbar Beveridge. In laying a wreath before your grave on the occasion of being appointed foreign minister of Japan, I recall vividly to my mind the parental care and affection you were so kind to bestow on me as a small boy, and wish to give renewed expression to my sense of gratitude to you. From Yosuke Matsuoka, foreign minister of Japan, Tokyo, 1940."

Matsuoka, 60, was befriended by Mrs. Beveridge after coming here as a boy of 13 to be educated in Portland's public schools and the University of Oregon.

He placed a red granite marker on her grave in 1933. It bears these words: "Raised by the loving hands of Yosuke Matsuoka in token of the lasting gratitude for the sympathy and gentle kindness of a woman who, next to his mother, shaped his mind and character."

Turkey Men Okeh Poultry Group

Will Give Improvement and Control Service to Growers

CORVALLIS, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Oregon turkey growers took steps today to protect the famed broad breasted breeding stock in this state by giving all possible encouragement to the recently formed Oregon Poultry Improvement association.

Speakers at the turkey men's fourth annual convention at Oregon State college said the improvement association is now prepared to give them the same breed improvement and disease control service as that available to chicken breeders for the last six years.

Dean W. A. Schoenfeld of the State college told the convention that the old slogan "food will win the war" still holds good. He pointed to the ultimate need of American food resources regarding the war's outcome and said curtailment of imports presents great opportunities to Oregon growers of numerous specialty crops.

H. E. Crosby, poultry department head, said the gathering at 150 was the best cross-section of the turkey industry he has seen at any state meeting. Poultry men will hold their 16th annual convention tomorrow.

Gasoline Explodes; Boat Is Destroyed

TACOMA, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Three men suffered severe burns, a fishing boat burned and sank and the Old Tacoma dock was scorched by flames today when gasoline being piped aboard the fishing boat, Star of Heaven, exploded.

The three men were burned on the face, arms and upper torso. Two—Gordon Cortez, 24, Anacortes and Terrence Frombach, 24, Seattle—were reported in a fair condition tonight. Condition of the third man, William O'Brien, 24, Port Angeles, is good.

The explosion, which shook a small section of the city, occurred as 300 gallons of gasoline were being pumped aboard the Star of Heaven. Two fire trucks and a fire boat fought the blaze. Because of its inflammable contents, the vessel burned to the waterline and sank. Firemen extinguished flames that spread to the dock.

Cavemen to Go East GRANTS PASS, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Ten men and one woman of the Grants Pass Cavemen association will attend the 1940 American Legion convention at Boston, Chief Bighorn Don Cameron announced today.

Lightning Storm Serious, Tacoma

Two Men Burned; Radio Stations, Power off; Smokestack Struck

TACOMA, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Lightning peppered the Tacoma region viciously today, striking two men at McChord field, crippling power services, putting two radio stations off the air and sending bolts courting into two bridges and down the Tacoma smelter's 558-foot high stack.

George Harris of Seattle, one of the men struck at McChord, was near death tonight at the field hospital. Attendants said he was suffering first and second degree burns, extreme shock, amnesia and was periodically unconscious. His condition is precarious.

The second victim, Gene M. Savage, Tacoma, escaped with foot burns. Colonel Carlisle Wash, McChord commandant, said the men—both civilians working for the Washington asphalt company of Seattle—were dismantling machinery in front of the field's hangars when the bolt struck.

Woman Dies of Injuries Suffered in Collision

MARSHFIELD, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. A. N. Gould, 64, of Coquille, died last night of injuries suffered in an automobile-bus collision near Glenside Tuesday.

Her husband, injured in the same accident, is in serious condition.
