Willamette Valley Praised in Speech

Europe on Wane, States Ferguson; Loyalty Held Ever Right
Throughout historical times, valleys have played vital roles in the building of civilizations. Rev. Dave Ferguson of Albany told members of the Salem chamber of commerce at Monday's luncheon, adding: "I know of no valley competing with the Willamette valley in fertility and potentiality."

Europe, no matter how the present war turns out, is on the wane, the speaker said, and in the new world that inevitably is being created the Willamette valley will benefit from strategic location. He declined to place any limit upon the growth of Salem, but raised the question why the "eyesore" courthouse was not replaced.

Discussing world issues, Rev. Ferguson said chief among these is the question whether men are to be free or slaves, adding that he had no patience with those unwilling to fight for freedom and could not fathom even in imagination, those who, like a few in Norway, chose to be traitors. An individual who is loyal to community, state and nation cannot be wrong, he declared.
