There is a vulgar rumor running around the countryside that can assure you there is absolutely no truth in it. At least we can assure wasn't the Orefootball team for which we predicted a 7-0 victory. . . . That team, or its spirit, was left at home, and the outfit Lon Stiner introduced to a gooey mud bath on the Husky field was comprised of stand-ins. These stand-ins, well versed in the art of fumbling, may have photographed well but they were poor substitutes for the guys who swarmed Idaho, played a scoreless tie with USC and won as theey wished from Portland U . . . They even got fooled by a play with a beard.

Too Many Coaches.

It must of course be related that these stand-ins were up against a pretty potent coaching combination . . . The Huskies not only had the advantage of their own James M. Phelan, who studied under the great Rockne, but they also had the great "Rock," as exemplified by Pat O'Brien, the movie mime, to advise them.

Actor O'Brien, 20 years ago a third string quarterback for Marquette, takes his Rockne characterization seriously, so of course gave Friend Prelan some valuable coaching information . . . Rockne -that is, Pat O'Brien-took in the game, along with his wife, who are on a vacation.

Anyway, Phelan and Knute (pronounced Kah-nute) were too much strategy board for Stiner's stand-ins . . . We doubt, however, that even this combination would have been able to beat the Oregon State team which tied USC.

Oregon "Wonder" Teams. It is now pretty evident we have two "wonder" members of the Pacific Coast conference in Oregon . . . At least everybody's "wondering" if either is ever going to score a point in conference competition . . . One has been to bat neither has a single tally, although we'll admit that single tallies are rather difficult to man-

The Ducks have been stopped so many times within their opponents' 10-yard line that by this time they probably are la-boring under the delusion that a football field is only 90 yards long . . . Loggers Tough, Said.

That Willamette has a battle on its hands this Saturday night, by Buddy Reynolds of the 'Cats when the College of Puget Sound here last Friday night, a Remson-Loggers roll in, is the emphatic verdicts of Scout Happy Howard day night. And, in turn, that Maple and Witness Sam Gillette, would indicate a wide-open, both of whom saw the Timber Toppers mow down the Whitmans last Friday night at Tacoma . . . Gillette, very much impressed with the wide-open game played by the Loggers, yesterday informed your correspondent that the Bearcats could look forward top shape by game time this week. to a beating if they didn't put out the Loggers, brought back something more than the usual scout's dread of an opponent . . . "This boy Remson (who pitched the Loggers to a 21-0 shellacking of Whitman) can really throw that ball," says Maple, "and he func-tions behind a mighty skookum

. In recalling last year's game, which Willamette won 42-6, Maple says the 'Cats that day did everything just exactly right . . . What he fears this Saturday is that the Salem collections will be the sale of th legians will have a letdown after the Marine game . . . "If so," he says, "they're in for a drubbing."

Blue Monday's" Right. Gillette believes the game will be made to order for spectators, what with both teams employing wide-open offensives that empha-size forward passing . . "If ever a game drew here," he says, "this one should."

We never knew what "bine Monday" was until we started predicting football games . . .

Comes out of Marine Mix Without Injury; Maple Warns of Loggers

"He who hits the hardest never gets/hurt" has long been a standtwice and the other thrice, and ard teaching among football coaches.

Willamette's Bearcats, who yesterday went into training for The Oregons, who by the way debut against the top-sailing College of Puget Sound Loggers here

That the 'Cats can't rest upon the laurels gained in the Leatherneck ramble, however, is the word brought back from Tacoma by Happy Howard Maple, who saw the CPS-Whitman fracas in the role of scout, and by other Salem citizens who stopped over for the tilt on their way to the Washington-Oregon State mix.

"They've a fine ball club, sparked by this fellow Remson, who can really pass a football," said Scout Maple upon his return

All of which would indicate, in view of the fine pitching done Reynolds hurling duel this Saturbreath-taking football exhibition.

The only Bearcat who sustained anything that resembles an injury in the Marine mix was Bill Reder, the brilliant freshman end, who slightly sprained an ankle. He is expected to be in

Irish Held Invincible by Thousands, but Layden Worries a Little

By EARL HILLIGAN SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 21-(P)-Notre Dame's football fortunes appear to be headed this fall for the game's big "jackpot" -an undefeated and untied sea-

Thousands of fans who watched the Irish juggernaut roll over Carnegie Tech, 61 to 0, last Saturday left Memorial stadium convinced that no team will stop the Elmer Layden eleven this camof the great combinations in the school's gridiron history.

But Coach Layden isn't that optimistic, at least on the surface. He indicated after the Carnegie rout, in which he used every player on his bench in an honest effort to keep down the score, that he would have liked more opposition, not only from Tech but from the two previous Irish victims, Georgia Tech and College of the Pacific.

Layden Worries
"It worries me a little that my first stringers, particularly my first backfield of Bob Hargrave, Steve Juswik, Bob Saggau and Milt Piepul, aren't getting quite enough actual game work to stay in top shape," he said.

Against Georgia Tech, which the Irish turned back, 26 to 20, the first stringers were used about 15 minutes. Last Saturday the first team backfield played only the last seven minutes of the opening period and the second quarter, never seeing action in the last half. While Carnegie didn't offer much opposition, the Iriah reserves performed well, indicating that Layden's pre-season worries about replacements have just about vanished.
