

Monmouth Has Houses Burnt

Fires Destroy Homes on Weekend; One Building Was Landmark

MONMOUTH—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Frank Robison residence on East street Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Robison narrowly escaped being trapped in a bedroom. The fire had already interfered with the telephone wiring, so she had to run a block to a neighbor's to summon the fire department. Furniture and clothing were destroyed. A small house and a barn and several buildings comprising the Robison Hatching were grouped in an area near the dwelling, but were unharmed. Insurance was carried.

Sunday morning about 7 o'clock another fire occurred here in one of the oldest houses in town on the corner of East and East Main streets. This was the house formerly owned and occupied by the late Maggie and Alice Butler. Mr. and Mrs. John Smith had leased the house and moved there in September. The entire house was gutted, and the Smiths lost most of their furniture and clothing. The house was built in the 1840s, by Ira F. M. Butler, one of the founders of Monmouth and of the college here. It had been continuously occupied by members of the Butler family until the death of Alice Butler in June. Although of undetermined origin, it is thought that defective wiring might have caused the fire. Both the house and the contents were covered by insurance.
