Grain Market Trade Is Slow

Price Is Irregular Until Final Hour; Red Cross Buys Winter Wheat

CHICAGO, Nov. 4-(AP)-Preelection trading in the grain pits was slow today and price fluctuations were irregular until the final hour when a sudden spurt of buying lifted wheat quotations more than a cent a bushel.

The urge to even up trading accounts for the holiday and the electorate's decision dominated the market much of the time, accounting for quiet dealings early in the session and covering of previous short sales later. Some buying also was credited to mills and to merchandisers lifting hedges on grain sold to the Red Cross for shipment to Finland. December wheat rose to 85 % during the final hour, up 1% from the previous close, and final prices ranged from gains of % to 1% cents compared with Saturday's close, with December 85%-1/2 and May 84%-1/2.

Trade reports indicated the Red Cross purchased 150,000 bushels of No. 2 hard winter wheat and 100,000 bushels of No. 2 rye for shipment from Baltimore to Fin-

Pit brokers said the election vote and its effect on prices of other commodities and securities may be reflected in grain prices. coupled with sharply reduced for- man: eign demand as a result of the Apples, loose pack, box
