No Appeal in Picket Action

Rehearing is not asked by State; Mandate Given Multnomah Court

The recent decision of the state supreme court holding Oregon's so-called anti-picketing law unconstitutional, will not be appealed to the United States supreme court, officials announced yesterday.

There can be no appeal from the decision for the reason that the state did not ask for a rehearing of the case. The supreme court mandate was sent to the Multnomah county circuit court Thursday.

Three circuit court judges, sitting in Multnomah county, held the law unconstitutional, but this decision was appealed to the state supreme court.

In another case, in which the Marlon county circuit court ordered sponsors of the law, passed by the voters two years ago, to disclose the names of the persons and the amount they contributed in support of the measure, an appeal will be taken to the state supreme court.

This suit was filed by D. E. Nickerson, executive secretary of the state federation of labor. The sponsors of the measure included the Oregon Business Council, Associated Farmers of Oregon, and Eastern Oregon Wheat League.

Willamette Debaters to Leave Today For Western Tourney at Los Angeles

Nine debaters will leave Willamette university this morning with Dr. Herbert E. Rahe, forensics coach, to participate in the western association speech tournament at George Peppard college, Los Angeles, beginning Monday.

In the group are Glenn Olds of Sherwood, Emogene Russell and Zeral Brown of Salem, who will enter the extempore speaking contest; Myron Pogue of Salem in impromptu, and Wes McWain in after dinner speaking. All, plus Ralph May of Denver, Colo., Ancil Payne of The Dalles, Clarence Wicks of Albany and Marjorie Waters of Salem, will compete in debate.

More than 30 colleges from nine states participate in the tourney, to which Willamette has sent entries each year, in 1936 winning its division in debate. In 1933 Marjorie Waters Helen Newland and Beverly McMillen tied for second in women's debate and Al Klassen and William Thomas won third in men's debate.

Dr. Rahe and the students in his car will remain in Los Angeles following the completion of the Western Association of Teachers of Speech.

The Safety Valve

From Statesman Readers

Of course it must be admitted that we have low rates here now, rates which are hard to beat, but we have no assurance that they are permanent, we all know that the electric company was not justified in lowering the rates as it went bankrupt twice in the last few years with the higher rates, but we appreciate it as long as it lasts.

Another comical point in this campaign was the comparison made by the press, in order to discredit the new deal, of the recovery from the depression, between the countries of northern Europe and the United States.

Those northern European countries that recovered so quickly from the depression have had for a long time what we were supposed to be fighting in this country, namely state ownership of utilities, and to a great extent cooperative ownership of business.

There electric power is cheap as water in the nearby brook, and their economy is not under the domination of speculators. So instead of discrediting the new deal by such a comparison it rather convinced some of us that the new deal is on the right track.

I wish the editors of the newspapers would take their readers more into their confidence and frankly discuss the facts in their possession about our puzzling problems.
