Linfield Choir Will Appear
A beautiful program of old Christmas carols will be presented at the Salem high school auditorium next Sunday by the famous Cappella choir from Linfield college.

The choir has been presented in Salem twice before and their appearances met with great success. They have received many compliments on their style of presentation. Though they sing several different styles at the same time without accompaniment there is no lapse in the beauty of the piece. The choir sings as a group should sing. They sing with flawless voices and in perfect harmony.

The program will begin with the singing of "Gloria In Excelsis," and end with "Silent Night." The program will include: Carols from Palestrina, England, Russia, Poland, France, Haiti, Ukrainian, Bohemian and many others.

A great deal of the beauty of this group of old Christmas carols comes from the sage effect, gained by use of scarlet and gray vestments and candles. The choir brings its own candles and low stools in which the choir members sit. Mrs. Virginia Ward Elliott is the director.

The program is sure to be enthusiastically received, as it has been many times in the past. Tickets for this production, as well as for the other artists in the series, presented by the Salem High Crescendo club, are on sale in room 225 of the high school.

In November, 1938, the WPA federal art project assigned a group of artists to work toward the development of the silk screen process as a fine art medium. The new medium has been hailed as a fine art process and encouraged the unit's work in it.

The 20 silk screen prints in the Art Center show some of the results of the New York project, including: "Gathering Logs" and "The Medium Exceedingly Well." Each artist's prints thus developed have been so different and so sensitively individual that it is hard to believe that they are all products of the same process.

Last August the New York City Art Center showed some of the results of the New York project, including: "Gathering Logs" and "The Medium Exceedingly Well." Each artist's prints thus developed have been so different and so sensitively individual that it is hard to believe that they are all products of the same process.

Hyman Waxman handles this show scene, "Gathering Logs," which not only his pure sense of color, but also a thorough knowledge of the technique of the silk screen process.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown E. Sisson have returned from a stay in Washington and last weekend attended the marriage of Miss Helen Lee and Mr. Ralph Dearborn which took place at the First Presbyterian church in Portland, Wash.
