

Wheat Area Is Covered, Snow

Augmented Moisture Said Favorable to Increased Production for 1941

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(AP)—With wheat traders still under the spell of usually favorable new crop prospects, prices drifted lower again today in the absence of commercial and speculative demand.

Snow and rain blanketed much of the hard and soft winter wheat belts, augmenting moisture supplies which some crop experts said should make possible favorable early growth during the period of plant revival in the spring.

Much of the weakness of wheat was associated with selling of December contracts in which trading will cease a week from Saturday. The selling was attributed in part to interests possible with accumulated profits who do not wish to take delivery, although, so far, only 10,000 bushels have been tendered and outstanding contracts still exceed 6,000,000 bushels.

December wheat fell 1 1/2 cent at one stage and deferred contracts were off almost that much. Closing prices were 3/4 cent lower than yesterday, December 89 1/2, May 86 3/4.

Increased shipping business in wheat, with 71,000 bushels sold, had only slight supporting effect. Traders, likewise, paid little attention to gossip concerning possible Greek and Finnish purchases of grains as well as Red Cross relief in accessible European countries.

Turkeys Win 3 Prizes for Man

Domes Wins on White Hollands; Champ From Roseburg

ROSEBURG, Dec. 12.—(AP)—G. A. Bonebrake of Roseburg emerged today with three winners, including the grand champion, the dressed division of the Northwest Turkey show at Oakland.

Bonebrake's young bronze tom was the best of 622 birds judged in the grand championship division. A Bonebrake bronze took first place in the dressed champion, dressed division, and one of his young toms took the class championship.

The dressed reserve championship went to Mr. and Mrs. Art Hamilton, Chehalis, Wash.

Other winners: Dressed champion, dressed division—Mrs. Fay Leatherwood, Oakland, black; Paul McDowell, Hillsboro, Naragansett; Ward Cockeram, Oakland, Bourbon red; Henry Domes, Rickreall, White Holland.

Class championships—Mr. and Mrs. Art Hamilton, Chehalis, adult tom, and M. M. Lyons, Portland, old and young hens.

Judges were narrowing the field in the live division, winners in which will be announced at the annual banquet tomorrow night.

E. B. McNaughton, president of the First National bank, Portland, will be the principal speaker at the banquet, which traditionally is the climax of the show. Clyde E. Williams, Albany, will be toastmaster. The program will be broadcast by radio station KOAC, Corvallis.

Oregon May Join In Vaccination

Oregon probably will join 45 other states in pending test of vaccination to control Bang's disease in cattle, the state department of agriculture said today.

Several eastern Oregon counties would be used to test the method, which is recommended by the United States Livestock Sanitary association. With the new method, it would not be necessary to kill diseased cows because the vaccine would immunize them.

QUINN STRAIGHT WITS—A GUY CAN'T MAKE THAT MANY MISTAKES IN A ROW...

Dear Mom—
Out on the rifle range today & the guys thought I was kiddin' 'em. I just let it go at that. You know how I am, mom. Never no hand to brag.

P.S. It's just like knockin' over them clay pigeons at the shooting gallery. I've got 'em all beat.
