Christmas Theme Of Baxter's Talk

Insists "Hope Is Greater Than History"; Tells of Christ's Time

Dwight Morrow's one-sentence address, "Hope is greater than history," delivered to a pessimistic audience in the depression winter of 1932, afforded Bishop Bruce R. Baxter the theme for a Christmas discussion at the Salem chamber of commerce luncheon Monday noon.

"Bad history" was being made, as now, when Christ was born near the close of Augustus Caesar's reign, the bishop reminded his audience; there were five civil wars and Augustus had issued a list of 2300 persons scheduled for execution and offered a bounty for their heads.

Turning from history to "hope," the bishop declared that "God is never late for his ap-pointments" and pointed out that Christ's coming was scheduled because people had gotten the wrong idea about God and needed to see what he was like.

"Peace on earth to men of good will" is now the accepted translation of the angel's song, Dr. Baxter mentioned; the world cannot have peace without good will. but in observing that good will is lacking today in some quarters, he advised looking "within" rather than thinking exclusively of Hitler and Mussolini.

Dr. Baxter was introduced by Ray Yocom who recounted some of the bishop's contributions to Salem's civic life during his tenident which will terminate with Wheatland Community hall Frithis college year.

'Drive and Walk' Carefully-Snell

3 Days' Deaths Are Over 19 Days Before; 1940 1 Short of '39 Total

"Drive and walk carefully durng the holiday season" was the warning issued here yesterday by Secretary of State Earl Snell.

Snell called particular attention in his message to nine traffic fatalities in Oregon during the three days ending late December 22. Prior to these fatalities there were only eight traffic deaths in Oregon during December. Five of these fatalities resulted from one

"These fatalities emphasize the necessity for more careful driving during the holiday season," Snell declared. "Adverse driving conditions due to rain, fog, snow or ice, heavy traffic during the Christmas rush and emotional excitement all tend to increase the danger in traffic.

"Only by driving and walking carefully can we hope to keep these traffic tragedies to a minimum during the remainder of the

Snell said traffic accidents had claimed a total of 339 lives so far this year, just one short of the 1939 toll of 340 deaths.

Fire Burns Barn Of Scio Rancher

SCIO-A $4000 fire destroyed the large barn on the John Roner farm, two miles west of Scio, early Sunday morning. Included in the loss were 1600 bushels of grain, some hay and a small amount of potatoes. No livestock was in the building at the time

Roner believed that the fire had been the result of a short circuit caused when a portion of the building was torn away by the high wind of that night, tearing loose the electric wiring. The building was covered by some insurance.

The Roner residence burned near the location of the barn three years ago.
