

Work Speeded By Committee

Joint Ways and Means Group Sets Goal to Prevent Delays

Expediting the work of the joint ways and means committee in order that the legislative session's adjournment will not be delayed on its account, is one goal of the members and the first few committee sessions have seen some progress toward this goal. A sub-committee examining budgets of state departments will continue to work through today and Saturday although the legislature will be in recess.

Budgets of the executive department and state budget office were discussed and later approved by the sub-committee Thursday. The executive department budget for the next biennium aggregates $67,735 or approximately four dollars less than its appropriation for the current biennial period.

The sub-committee approved the state budget department budget for the amount of $32,475 as against $24,515 for the current biennium. Budget Director David Eccles explained that the increase in the new budget provided for the employment of a so-called examiner. This employee, provided the budget finally is approved by the ways and means committee, will spend much of his time investigating requests of state departments and institutions for additional expenditures.

"I am of the opinion that employment of an examiner will save the state a large amount of money annually," Eccles declared.

Forestry Budget Ok'ed
Another sub-committee, headed by Senator Ronald Jones, Marion county, approved the budget of the state forestry department.

The budget of the state training school for boys probably will be revised, Jones declared. He said building repairs were needed at the school and it would be necessary to increase the recommended appropriation for that purpose.

It was expected that a number of reports would be ready for the joint ways and means committee next Monday.

At previous legislative sessions the ways and means bill were among the last to reach the two houses.

Procedure Plans Awaiting Report

A definite report of the senate and house conference code committee, as to how to handle bills introduced before the new 1941 Oregon code is accepted, will be ready early Monday, Senator F. H. Franciscovich advised the senate Thursday afternoon.

Certification of the new code has been delayed because of errors in the printing.

As soon as the code is certified by the state supreme court the governor will issue a proclamation declaring it in operation.

Comments of State Press On Governor's Message

Governor Sprague is offering the Oregon legislature a proposed budget that can be financed from existing sources of revenue, without new taxes or increase of present taxes.

This legislature will be asked, as all legislatures are asked, for new appropriations and for increases in many present items. It ought to go slow. The state has fared pretty well on its present spending schedule. Though there are doubtless instances where more, the state's essential services seem to have come through the past biennium in reasonably good shape.—Baker Democrat-Herald.

This newspaper which has waged the "Home Rule" battle with the ambitious Bonneville administration welcomes the Governor's recognition of what we believe to be perhaps the most important issue of our times—how to achieve federal aid and federal administration in those matters where the state has no control or home control without sacrificing what we believe to be the first essential of American democracy, the largest possible amount of local self-government and responsibility.

We commend Governor Sprague's suggestion that for the time being the duty in state and local government is to "do a superior job of administration and legislation." Good government still begins at home. But, we believe the situation is serious enough to warrant ceaseless vigilance and continuous study. In this state of Oregon where we have so many and such vital contacts with federal administration, we believe it would be wise to recommend a special commission to make a continuing study of the complex problem of federal and state controls.—Eugene Register-Guard.

In some fields, breakdown of some of the old rigid standards of distinct state powers has been necessary and sound, as we who live in a border area well realize. But there is unquestionably a need for jealous vigilance over the privileges of local self-government and popular opinion, as Governor Sprague says, must be the barrier thrown up against unjust and unsound aggression by the federal government upon the rights of the states.—Klamath Falls Herald.

Take for instance his important recommendation concerning paroles, which says that "I strongly urge that the constitution of the state be amended to permit the restoration of the right to vote to persons who have performed their period of penal servitude, without the necessity of issuing a full pardon by the governor." Constitutional amendment to bring this about would be a step in the right direction.

The governor's message has much food for thought and should carry much weight during the present session of the legislature.—Oregon City Enterprise.

On the question of unemployment compensation, the governor's recommendation is a just recognition of the promise for introduction of the experience rating, contained in the original measure of 1935 and in the 1939 amendment. His advice that the law should now be left unchanged until the experience rating plan should have had reasonable opportunity for trial is fair advice and should be followed.

In his campaign for election, Governor Sprague called emphatic attention to the fact that Oregon, in its too-rapid exploitation of natural resources, was providing present prosperity at a price of future impoverishment. When he became governor, one of his early acts was the appointment of an economic council to survey and recommend to the end that better conditions might be insured. A special committee of this council is that on forest resources. This committee has reported and its report includes proposals for special remedial legislation. In his message, Governor Sprague "follows through." He urges enactment of the legislation proposed. His campaign, it is pleasing to note, was not merely for votes. He had asked for votes so that he could do a job, and he is continuing with the job.—Bend Bulletin.

Governor Charles A. Sprague offered wise advice to the state legislators when he suggested that they impose no new taxes on the people. Because of the defense program the federal government was obliged to increase taxes so drastically that state and local levies should be held at present figures. The national taxes will impose a burden upon everyone, including "rich man, poor man, beggerman, thief," but this cannot be avoided because if we do not prepare to defend ourselves we will risk being obliged to spend still greater sums in a fight for our existence.—Pendleton East Oregonian.

Most citizens will agree with the governor that things in Oregon are satisfactory at present and that they might well be kept so, that in this manner the state government will be serving the national needs. The governor's message is one which the legislature will do well to heed—and probably will heed.

The governor called attention to the speed with which the state filled its national guard quota, a matter in which Oregonians may take just pride. The state's young men did fill up the guard quota more rapidly than in other states, giving evidence that Oregonians are still, as always in a mood to do their utmost to defend the country.—Astorian Budget.

Governor Sprague, in his message to the legislature, in effect warned the legislature to let well-enough alone. In particular, he stressed the fact that the state's tax structure should not be altered. Revenues are sufficient, if not munificent. There is no need or occasion for changes.—The Dalles Chronicle.

We do not have access to this measure which the governor states will come before the legislature, but we do believe this question (vocational education) should be approached cautiously. While we are heartily in favor of vocational education—believing it is one of the most serious faults in our educational system right here in Ashland, for instance—we feel that the system should be made available to all cities, not centered in the strategic cities, at the expense of the hundreds of smaller cities.—Ashland Tidings.

The governor points with some pride to the fact that a reorganization of the state employment service resulted in an increase of job placements of 245 per cent. This is indeed gratifying for every time a man gets a job it means that much of a saving on the relief rolls.

The governor may also take considerable satisfaction in the fact that the financial condition of the state shows a great improvement over two years ago. The bonded indebtedness was reduced over $7,000,000. Also in order to avoid a threatened deficit the governor asked the different state departments to cut the various appropriations provided for them by the legislature and they were reduced by approximately 7 per cent. This resulted in a saving of $708,000. In this way the governor was able to balance the budget and leave a very narrow margin for surplus.—Corvallis Gazette-Times.

Nimrod License Plan Suggested
State Senator Charles Childs, Linn county, Thursday introduced a bill providing that the state game commission shall not close hunting and fishing seasons in Oregon after licenses have been issued.

Childs said this action had been taken by the game commission on several previous occasions with the result that hunters and anglers were disgruntled.

INTRODUCED THURSDAY
SB 13, by Pearson—Relating to grant of right of way for telephone, telephone and power lines.
SB 14, by Pearson—Relating to sale of bonds for construction of a new state office building.
SB 15, by Pearson—Amending and clarifying laws relating to sale of bonds.
SB 16, by Pearson—Relating to the sale of school indemnity, university, college, swamp or tide and overflow bonds.
SB 17, by Pearson—Relating to leasing of beds of streams for removal of gravel, etc.
SB 18, by Childs—Relating to hunting and fishing.
SB 19, by banking—Relating to issuance of refunding notes and warrants.
SB 20, by banking—Relating to payments of claims against school districts by issuance of warrants in favor of banks.
SB 21, by banking—Relating to issuance of stock by corporations.
SB 22, by banking—Relating to regulation and conduct of mutual savings banks.
SB 23, by banking—Relating to the power of school districts to contract indebtedness.
SB 24, by Mahoney—Relating to appointment of state military general staff.

Repeal Suggested On Rural Credits
Resolution Says State Provision No Longer Needed by Farmers
The rural credits constitutional provision, approved in 1916, under which loans were made to farmers in distress, would be repealed under a resolution introduced in the state senate Thursday by Senator Pearson. Pearson said there is no future need for this provision for the reason that farmers can now borrow from the state land board and a number of federal agencies.

The balance of approximately $50,000 in the rural credits fund would be transferred to the irrevocable school fund.
Pearson also introduced a number of other bills amending existing laws relating to the sale of bonds.
The proposed new Oregon motor vehicle license law bill, introduced the first day of the session, was read for the second time and referred to the senate roads and highways committee. The bill was sponsored by Senator Dorothy McCullough Lee, Multnomah county.
Senator Douglas McKay, chairman of the senate roads and highways committee, indicated that a public hearing would be held probably early next week to discuss the bill.

Botulism Toxin Is Given Woman
PORTLAND, Jan. 16—(P)—Botulism anti-toxin was administered Wednesday to Mrs. John Davenport, 37, of Portland after physicians found symptoms of the poison which took three lives here last week and left a third person ill.
The city health office reported that Mrs. Davenport suffered partial throat paralysis, a typical symptom of botulism poisoning, and that it was learned she had eaten home-preserved spinach. Meantime, Mrs. Zarena Reagan, the nurse who attended two of last week's victims, showed much improvement. Home-preserved beets were fatal to Mrs. Earl E. Cook, Laura Gordon and Fred Thompson last week.

Portland Journal Editor to Speak
The First Methodist church will feature as its guest speaker Sunday evening Marshall N. Dana, editor of the Oregon Journal, Portland. His subject will be "This Alone Stands." A special quartet will sing "The King of Love My Shepherd Is" (Shelley) and Ronald Craven will be the soloist, singing "The Lord Is My Light" (Allister).
In the morning service Dr. J. C. Harrison will speak on "The Place of Miracles in the Scriptures and the Church." The Cathedral choir will sing "The Lord Is Exalted by West and Dean Melvin Geist and Mark Wallis will give as a duet "Sing Unto the Lord a New Song" (Hosmer).

Guard Air Corps Instructor Named
Orders have been issued by the war department detailing Captain Carlisle I. Ferris, air corps, to duty as instructor, air corps, Oregon national guard. It was announced at guard headquarters here Thursday.
Captain Ferris will be instructor for the 123rd observation squadron which recently was allotted to Oregon with station at Portland. He is now completing a tour of duty as instructor, 40th division aviation, California national guard.
The new instructor was expected to report to guard headquarters February 2.

Comedian Carried Large Insurance
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16—(P)—Joe Penner carried life insurance amounting to $360,000, Coroner Charles H. Hersch disclosed Thursday announcing that an autopsy showed the stage and movie comedian's death last Friday was caused by a heart attack.
Funeral services, attended by many moving picture and theatre players, were held for the comedian in Glendale, Calif., today.

House Bills
HB 20, by Staples—Establishes a branch agricultural experiment station in Malheur county, and appropriates $10,000.
HB 21, by Martin et al.—Appropriates money for establishment of experimental fish screens in Josephine county.
HB 22, by Bray, et al.—Increases weekly benefit amounts under unemployment compensation.
HB 23, by Wilson, et al.—Designed to eliminate merit rating system in unemployment compensation.
HB 24, by French, Carson, et al.—Is designed to prevent members of the legislative assembly who are also members of the state bar from promoting measures for fees or compensation.
HB 25, by Brady, et al.—Relates waiting period in unemployment from three weeks to one week.
HB 26, by Brady, et al.—Relates to merit rating in unemployment.
HB 27, by Carson, et al.—Transfers jurisdiction in probate matters from county court to circuit court. Repeals numerous sections regarding jurisdiction of county courts.

Repeal Suggested On Rural Credits

Resolution Says State Provision No Longer Needed by Farmers

The rural credits constitutional provision, approved in 1916, under which loans were made to farmers in distress, would be repealed under a resolution introduced in the state senate Thursday by Senator Pearson. Pearson said there is no future need for this provision for the reason that farmers can now borrow from the state land board and a number of federal agencies.

The balance of approximately $50,000 in the rural credits fund would be transferred to the irrevocable school fund.
Pearson also introduced a number of other bills amending existing laws relating to the sale of bonds.

The proposed new Oregon motor vehicle license law bill, introduced the first day of the session, was read for the second time and referred to the senate roads and highways committee. The bill was sponsored by Senator Dorothy McCullough Lee, Multnomah county.

Senator Douglas McKay, chairman of the senate roads and highways committee, indicated that a public hearing would be held probably early next week to discuss the bill.

Botulism Toxin Is Given Woman

PORTLAND, Jan. 16—(P)—Botulism anti-toxin was administered Wednesday to Mrs. John Davenport, 37, of Portland after physicians found symptoms of the poison which took three lives here last week and left a third person ill.

The city health office reported that Mrs. Davenport suffered partial throat paralysis, a typical symptom of botulism poisoning, and that it was learned she had eaten home-preserved spinach.

Meantime, Mrs. Zarena Reagan, the nurse who attended two of last week's victims, showed much improvement. Home-preserved beets were fatal to Mrs. Earl E. Cook, Laura Gordon and Fred Thompson last week.

Portland Journal Editor to Speak

The First Methodist church will feature as its guest speaker Sunday evening Marshall N. Dana, editor of the Oregon Journal, Portland. His subject will be "This Alone Stands." A special quartet will sing "The King of Love My Shepherd Is" (Shelley) and Ronald Craven will be the soloist, singing "The Lord Is My Light" (Allister).

Guard Air Corps Instructor Named

Orders have been issued by the war department detailing Captain Carlisle I. Ferris, air corps, to duty as instructor, air corps, Oregon national guard. It was announced at guard headquarters here Thursday.
Captain Ferris will be instructor for the 123rd observation squadron which recently was allotted to Oregon with station at Portland. He is now completing a tour of duty as instructor, 40th division aviation, California national guard.
The new instructor was expected to report to guard headquarters February 2.

Comedian Carried Large Insurance

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16—(P)—Joe Penner carried life insurance amounting to $360,000, Coroner Charles H. Hersch disclosed Thursday announcing that an autopsy showed the stage and movie comedian's death last Friday was caused by a heart attack.
Funeral services, attended by many moving picture and theatre players, were held for the comedian in Glendale, Calif., today.

House Bills

HB 20, by Staples—Establishes a branch agricultural experiment station in Malheur county, and appropriates $10,000.
HB 21, by Martin et al.—Appropriates money for establishment of experimental fish screens in Josephine county.
HB 22, by Bray, et al.—Increases weekly benefit amounts under unemployment compensation.
HB 23, by Wilson, et al.—Designed to eliminate merit rating system in unemployment compensation.
HB 24, by French, Carson, et al.—Is designed to prevent members of the legislative assembly who are also members of the state bar from promoting measures for fees or compensation.
HB 25, by Brady, et al.—Relates waiting period in unemployment from three weeks to one week.
HB 26, by Brady, et al.—Relates to merit rating in unemployment.
HB 27, by Carson, et al.—Transfers jurisdiction in probate matters from county court to circuit court. Repeals numerous sections regarding jurisdiction of county courts.

"Inside Job" Bomb Shelter

PARTOR PROBLEM—There's less space but more safety—perhaps—in the parlor of the Rev. Mr. Clinton, a Congregational minister in London. He built an air-raid shelter in his home, invited two "bombed-out" evacuees to try it out.

Motorcyclist Injured
ALBANY, Jan. 16—(P)—Harold Averill, motorcyclist, suffered a broken leg, cuts and bruises in a motorcycle - automobile collision near here yesterday.

Victim Oregon Graduate
EUGENE, Jan. 16—(P)—Robert M. Setters, killed in a British Columbia airplane crash Wednesday, was a former student at the University of Oregon.

East-West Roads Cleared of Snow

PORTLAND, Jan. 16—(P)—Most of northern Oregon's east-west highways were fairly clear of snow and ice today, the state highway association reported.

The Wapinitia cut-off had some snow and motorists were advised to use chains. The Columbia river highway was free of snow. On the northern bank, the Evergreen highway in Washington was clear to Maryhill but covered by some snow in that section. Continued rains were predicted for western Oregon Thursday and the federal weather bureau said there would be occasional snows on the east side.

Surplus Increase Of Banks Sought

The surplus of all state banks in Oregon would be increased from 10 to 20 per cent under the provisions of a bill introduced in the senate Thursday by the banking committee.

This bill was proposed by A. A. Rogers, state banking superintendent. He said its passage would provide additional safety to depositors.

FLOUR

49 Lbs. 1.69
Red White & Blue or Kitchen Queen 49-lb. Bag 1.29

DRIFTED SNOW FLOUR 49-lb. Bag . . . 1.35

Buckwheat Flour Triangle 24-lb. pkgs., ea. 18c

SALAD OIL Bulk 19c
Quart 69c

Tomatoes Large No. 2 1/2 Cans 3 for 25c

Sunshine Krispy Graham CRACKERS 1-lb. pkg. 15c

FISHER'S Biscuit Mix Regular Large Size Pkg. . . 25c

PEARL SHORTENING 4-lb. Pkg. 31c

Deviled Meat No. 4 Tins 2 for 5c

HONEY Light Amber 5-lb. Pail 29c

FRESH PRODUCE Cabbage Small heads, per lb. 2c

Carrots 3 lbs. 10c

Squash Local, lb. 2c

Oranges Full shopping bag 39c

Spinach 2 lbs. 17c

EGGS Grade A Lge, Doz. 23c

SUGAR 100-lb. Bag . . . $4.69

SARDINES 2 Tall Tins In Oil 15c

TOBACCO Prince Albert, Velvet or Model Lb. tins . . . 69c

GEORGE WASHINGTON Lb. tins . . . 49c

Work Speeded By Committee

Joint Ways and Means Group Sets Goal to Prevent Delays

Expediting the work of the joint ways and means committee in order that the legislative session's adjournment will not be delayed on its account, is one goal of the members and the first few committee sessions have seen some progress toward this goal. A sub-committee examining budgets of state departments will continue to work through today and Saturday although the legislature will be in recess.

Budgets of the executive department and state budget office were discussed and later approved by the sub-committee Thursday. The executive department budget for the next biennium aggregates $67,735 or approximately four dollars less than its appropriation for the current biennial period.

The sub-committee approved the state budget department budget for the amount of $32,475 as against $24,515 for the current biennium. Budget Director David Eccles explained that the increase in the new budget provided for the employment of a so-called examiner. This employee, provided the budget finally is approved by the ways and means committee, will spend much of his time investigating requests of state departments and institutions for additional expenditures.

"I am of the opinion that employment of an examiner will save the state a large amount of money annually," Eccles declared.

Forestry Budget Ok'ed
Another sub-committee, headed by Senator Ronald Jones, Marion county, approved the budget of the state forestry department.

The budget of the state training school for boys probably will be revised, Jones declared. He said building repairs were needed at the school and it would be necessary to increase the recommended appropriation for that purpose.

It was expected that a number of reports would be ready for the joint ways and means committee next Monday.

At previous legislative sessions the ways and means bill were among the last to reach the two houses.

Procedure Plans Awaiting Report

A definite report of the senate and house conference code committee, as to how to handle bills introduced before the new 1941 Oregon code is accepted, will be ready early Monday, Senator F. H. Franciscovich advised the senate Thursday afternoon.

Certification of the new code has been delayed because of errors in the printing.

As soon as the code is certified by the state supreme court the governor will issue a proclamation declaring it in operation.

Governor Sprague is offering the Oregon legislature a proposed budget that can be financed from existing sources of revenue, without new taxes or increase of present taxes.

This legislature will be asked, as all legislatures are asked, for new appropriations and for increases in many present items. It ought to go slow. The state has fared pretty well on its present spending schedule. Though there are doubtless instances where more, the state's essential services seem to have come through the past biennium in reasonably good shape.—Baker Democrat-Herald.

This newspaper which has waged the "Home Rule" battle with the ambitious Bonneville administration welcomes the Governor's recognition of what we believe to be perhaps the most important issue of our times—how to achieve federal aid and federal administration in those matters where the state has no control or home control without sacrificing what we believe to be the first essential of American democracy, the largest possible amount of local self-government and responsibility.

We commend Governor Sprague's suggestion that for the time being the duty in state and local government is to "do a superior job of administration and legislation." Good government still begins at home. But, we believe the situation is serious enough to warrant ceaseless vigilance and continuous study. In this state of Oregon where we have so many and such vital contacts with federal administration, we believe it would be wise to recommend a special commission to make a continuing study of the complex problem of federal and state controls.—Eugene Register-Guard.

In some fields, breakdown of some of the old rigid standards of distinct state powers has been necessary and sound, as we who live in a border area well realize. But there is unquestionably a need for jealous vigilance over the privileges of local self-government and popular opinion, as Governor Sprague says, must be the barrier thrown up against unjust and unsound aggression by the federal government upon the rights of the states.—Klamath Falls Herald.

Take for instance his important recommendation concerning paroles, which says that "I strongly urge that the constitution of the state be amended to permit the restoration of the right to vote to persons who have performed their period of penal servitude, without the necessity of issuing a full pardon by the governor." Constitutional amendment to bring this about would be a step in the right direction.

The governor's message has much food for thought and should carry much weight during the present session of the legislature.—Oregon City Enterprise.

On the question of unemployment compensation, the governor's recommendation is a just recognition of the promise for introduction of the experience rating, contained in the original measure of 1935 and in the 1939 amendment. His advice that the law should now be left unchanged until the experience rating plan should have had reasonable opportunity for trial is fair advice and should be followed.

In his campaign for election, Governor Sprague called emphatic attention to the fact that Oregon, in its too-rapid exploitation of natural resources, was providing present prosperity at a price of future impoverishment. When he became governor, one of his early acts was the appointment of an economic council to survey and recommend to the end that better conditions might be insured. A special committee of this council is that on forest resources. This committee has reported and its report includes proposals for special remedial legislation. In his message, Governor Sprague "follows through." He urges enactment of the legislation proposed. His campaign, it is pleasing to note, was not merely for votes. He had asked for votes so that he could do a job, and he is continuing with the job.—Bend Bulletin.

Governor Charles A. Sprague offered wise advice to the state legislators when he suggested that they impose no new taxes on the people. Because of the defense program the federal government was obliged to increase taxes so drastically that state and local levies should be held at present figures. The national taxes will impose a burden upon everyone, including "rich man, poor man, beggerman, thief," but this cannot be avoided because if we do not prepare to defend ourselves we will risk being obliged to spend still greater sums in a fight for our existence.—Pendleton East Oregonian.

Most citizens will agree with the governor that things in Oregon are satisfactory at present and that they might well be kept so, that in this manner the state government will be serving the national needs. The governor's message is one which the legislature will do well to heed—and probably will heed.

The governor called attention to the speed with which the state filled its national guard quota, a matter in which Oregonians may take just pride. The state's young men did fill up the guard quota more rapidly than in other states, giving evidence that Oregonians are still, as always in a mood to do their utmost to defend the country.—Astorian Budget.

Governor Sprague, in his message to the legislature, in effect warned the legislature to let well-enough alone. In particular, he stressed the fact that the state's tax structure should not be altered. Revenues are sufficient, if not munificent. There is no need or occasion for changes.—The Dalles Chronicle.

We do not have access to this measure which the governor states will come before the legislature, but we do believe this question (vocational education) should be approached cautiously. While we are heartily in favor of vocational education—believing it is one of the most serious faults in our educational system right here in Ashland, for instance—we feel that the system should be made available to all cities, not centered in the strategic cities, at the expense of the hundreds of smaller cities.—Ashland Tidings.

The governor points with some pride to the fact that a reorganization of the state employment service resulted in an increase of job placements of 245 per cent. This is indeed gratifying for every time a man gets a job it means that much of a saving on the relief rolls.

The governor may also take considerable satisfaction in the fact that the financial condition of the state shows a great improvement over two years ago. The bonded indebtedness was reduced over $7,000,000. Also in order to avoid a threatened deficit the governor asked the different state departments to cut the various appropriations provided for them by the legislature and they were reduced by approximately 7 per cent. This resulted in a saving of $708,000. In this way the governor was able to balance the budget and leave a very narrow margin for surplus.—Corvallis Gazette-Times.

Nimrod License Plan Suggested
State Senator Charles Childs, Linn county, Thursday introduced a bill providing that the state game commission shall not close hunting and fishing seasons in Oregon after licenses have been issued.

Childs said this action had been taken by the game commission on several previous occasions with the result that hunters and anglers were disgruntled.

INTRODUCED THURSDAY
SB 13, by Pearson—Relating to grant of right of way for telephone, telephone and power lines.
SB 14, by Pearson—Relating to sale of bonds for construction of a new state office building.
SB 15, by Pearson—Amending and clarifying laws relating to sale of bonds.
SB 16, by Pearson—Relating to the sale of school indemnity, university, college, swamp or tide and overflow bonds.
SB 17, by Pearson—Relating to leasing of beds of streams for removal of gravel, etc.
SB 18, by Childs—Relating to hunting and fishing.
SB 19, by banking—Relating to issuance of refunding notes and warrants.
SB 20, by banking—Relating to payments of claims against school districts by issuance of warrants in favor of banks.
SB 21, by banking—Relating to issuance of stock by corporations.
SB 22, by banking—Relating to regulation and conduct of mutual savings banks.
SB 23, by banking—Relating to the power of school districts to contract indebtedness.
SB 24, by Mahoney—Relating to appointment of state military general staff.

Repeal Suggested On Rural Credits
Resolution Says State Provision No Longer Needed by Farmers
The rural credits constitutional provision, approved in 1916, under which loans were made to farmers in distress, would be repealed under a resolution introduced in the state senate Thursday by Senator Pearson. Pearson said there is no future need for this provision for the reason that farmers can now borrow from the state land board and a number of federal agencies.

The balance of approximately $50,000 in the rural credits fund would be transferred to the irrevocable school fund.
Pearson also introduced a number of other bills amending existing laws relating to the sale of bonds.
The proposed new Oregon motor vehicle license law bill, introduced the first day of the session, was read for the second time and referred to the senate roads and highways committee. The bill was sponsored by Senator Dorothy McCullough Lee, Multnomah county.
Senator Douglas McKay, chairman of the senate roads and highways committee, indicated that a public hearing would be held probably early next week to discuss the bill.

Botulism Toxin Is Given Woman
PORTLAND, Jan. 16—(P)—Botulism anti-toxin was administered Wednesday to Mrs. John Davenport, 37, of Portland after physicians found symptoms of the poison which took three lives here last week and left a third person ill.
The city health office reported that Mrs. Davenport suffered partial throat paralysis, a typical symptom of botulism poisoning, and that it was learned she had eaten home-preserved spinach. Meantime, Mrs. Zarena Reagan, the nurse who attended two of last week's victims, showed much improvement. Home-preserved beets were fatal to Mrs. Earl E. Cook, Laura Gordon and Fred Thompson last week.

Portland Journal Editor to Speak
The First Methodist church will feature as its guest speaker Sunday evening Marshall N. Dana, editor of the Oregon Journal, Portland. His subject will be "This Alone Stands." A special quartet will sing "The King of Love My Shepherd Is" (Shelley) and Ronald Craven will be the soloist, singing "The Lord Is My Light" (Allister).
In the morning service Dr. J. C. Harrison will speak on "The Place of Miracles in the Scriptures and the Church." The Cathedral choir will sing "The Lord Is Exalted by West and Dean Melvin Geist and Mark Wallis will give as a duet "Sing Unto the Lord a New Song" (Hosmer).