took under advisement the foreclosure case of John Lichty as administrator of the Sylvester S. and L. C. Wolever estates vs. C. J. Espey and others. The projected foreclosure is for $2350, $455.16 in taxes and $359 attorney's fee.

The case of Sam A. Varbel vs. industrial accident commission opened before Circuit Judge L. H. McMahan, who continued it until today after a jury had been chosen and most of the plaintiff's evidence presented. The plaintiff alleges he lost part of his left arm while engaged in pulling stumps on the Charles Weathers place five miles northeast of Salem in December, 1938. He asks an award of $2400 and temporary total disability payments for two months. In opposition the commission has claimed that neither Varbel or Weathers were contributors to the state accident fund, and so are not eligible for compensation. The court set over the matter of Hawkins and Roberts vs. K. G. Thompson, an action for recovery of $510 in rentals alleged due. It will be tried on Weduesday, February 19.
