Salem Women!—Black Clothes ARE Glamorous

Left, black dinner dress; center, daytime black dress; right, black and white suit

There has always been a group of very smartly dressed women who preferred black to anything else. It is a wise preference, from a style standpoint. Black is appropriate for practically every occasion except active sports, and it is a perfect background for jewels and can be worn with many different colored accessories. Fascinating new models in black are being shown in all types of clothes for spring wear. At left above is Bette Davis who has chosen a black dinner dress with crepe with yoke and kimono sleeves of black net. Her bracelet and brooch are topaz set in gold. Ida Lupino, center, wears a simple black crepe dress with front fullness of skirt shirred into a flat panel. A yoke of pearl crepe and gold thread is a glamorous note, and a high black jersey turban completes her ensemble. Right is a black and white suit. The jacket is striped black and white tweed worked in a masterly way. The waist of white linen has a brand new innovation. It is attached to the black wool skirt, avoiding that ugly seam.

AT YOUR GROCER'S

Hillman's MASTER WHITE SLICED

By the Merry Master Bakers

All is not SOLD that glitters

Rows of glittering trinkets—and yet you pass them by, wisely refuse to buy from hawkers, peddlers, hide-away salesmen.

Why?

Because, like all smart shoppers, you prefer to know the goods you purchase. You insist on knowing the name of the merchant behind his wares, the attitude and personality of the store that sells them to you.

In your daily newspaper, you get these vital shopping-facts. Here, in these pages, the stores tell you exactly what they have. Here you can select ahead of time without stepping out of your front door. Here the merchant's signature in each advertisement assures you that the goods will be exactly as advertised.

That is why clever budget-keepers shop in the newspapers first—discover where they can get what they want, and buy without the costly danger of fraud. You, too, can enjoy this saying: of time and money. Look in your newspaper now!
