New Mexico Ordnance Depot Work Halted During Conference

GALLUP, N. M., March 20 (AP)—The number of pickets patrolling the army's $9,000,000 ordnance depot project at Fort Wingate increased to approximately fifty Thursday, while representatives of the government, contractors and labor conferred at length on demands for union recognition.

There was no disturbance. Peace officers policed the area at quitting time to assure departing workers were not molested.

FORT GEORGE C. MEADE, Md., March 20 (AP)—Army officials Thursday were investigating what they called "prolonged and skillful sabotage" of construction work at this army camp.

Camp officials disclosed that uprisings in camp barracks had been saved through so that they would collapse under heavy loads, spokes had been driven into electric cables in an apparent effort to cause short circuits and start fires, and cement pillars had been weakened.

Army officers in charge of construction said the sabotage was the work of men who knew their business, and not the work of disgruntled laborers.

A military guard has been thrown around the barracks.

SEATTLE, March 20 (AP)—A labor dispute between the AFL's Lumber and Sawmill Workers' union and the Weyerhaeuser Timber company, which has led to a 10-day shutdown of barracks and hangar construction work at the army's big Snohomish county air base, headed Thursday night toward the new U. S. mediation board.

E. S. Jackson, federal conciliator, said after a conference between union and company representatives that he had recommended to the Secretary of Labor that the Weyerhaeuser dispute be given speedy consideration by the board which was named yesterday.

The dispute has kept the Snoqualmie Falls mill shut down since last October 28. Its repercussions hit the air base when AFL carpenters refused to handle lumber from the Weyerhaeuser mills at Everett after the sawmill union had branded it as "hot."

As a result of today's developments, Harry Lundberg, president of the Sailors' union of the Pacific, who flew here from San Francisco, said he would order immediate release of the Weyerhaeuser steamer Heffron. It has been tied up here for 12 weeks because of a picket line placed by the sawmill union.

The sawmill union has demanded a union shop, a 5-cent hourly wage increase and a week's vacation with pay, the terms to which other operators agreed in settlement of a widespread two-state lumber strike last December.

Theft Suspect Held for Jury

LYMAN ROBERT DEHUT, Woodburn, waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to the Marion county grand jury Thursday on a charge of possession of an automobile belonging to the Salem Automobile company when he appeared in Salem justice court. Bail was fixed at $500.

DeHut was arrested in Oregon City Wednesday in company with Mrs. Pearl Pursley and Dorothy Schmidt, both 565 North High street, Salem; Earl J. Harvey, Gervais; Ernest F. Ogden, Gervais, and Fred Stoval, Salem.

With the exception of DeHut, however, all were released on motion of the district attorney on grounds of insufficient evidence.

The car, which was driven away from the automobile company's lot while an attendant was verifying a check which afterwards proved to be a forgery, was recovered in Canby with all six persons inside as passengers.

Stars and Stripes Over City Hall

SILVERTON—Stars and Stripes are floating over Silverton's city hall for the first time in several years. Employees who have been at work in the hall for a dozen years state they do not recall ever seeing a flag floating over it.

The flag, 5x8 feet, and of beautiful material and clear stars and stripes, was a gift from Mayor Reber Allen. Mayor Allen made no presentation speech. He just turned up at the city hall with the flag and the statement:

"I'd kind of like to see this over our city hall."

No time was lost. Manager McCleary, under the direction of Althea Meyers and Inga Thorkildson, city hall employees, soon had it flying high.

Church Groups Entertain

SILVERTON—The Methodist and the Christian churches proved popular Wednesday night with the townspeople first attending the dinner at the Methodist church and later the reception at the Christian church.

The Methodist church dinner was given to provide funds for the painting of the exterior of the church building. The building has already received its first coat. More painting is to be done and the church board hopes to have it all completed by Easter. Last year the interior of the church was re-decorated just prior to Easter. In charge of the dinner were members of the women's society, headed by Nada Grande.

The reception at the Christian church was in compliment to Rev. and Mrs. Frank Zook. The congregation had invited friends from the town to attend and the invitation was widely accepted. Ira Loren, chairman of the church union board, was chairman of the affair. A gift was presented to the Zooks.

Rev. and Mrs. Zook will leave in a few days for Astoria to make their home.

British Officer Tells of Note Dropped Into Grave of Slain Earl, at Murder Inquiry

Reveals He Knew Young Blonde Bride Was Carrying on Love Affair With High Constable of Scotland

NAIROBI, Kenya, March 20 (AP)—A colonial court weighing charges of murder against a middle-aged baronet admitted in evidence a statement that he had watched philosophically the swift development of a love affair between his bride and the rich Earl of Erroll and, even after Erroll was slain, dropped a message from his wife into the earl's grave.

The accused man, Major Sir Henry John Delves Broughton, smoked and lounged casually in the steaming courtroom while a police witness read into the record the story which he is purported to have told after the body of 39-year-old Erroll was found, shot through the head, in a motor car, on a moonlit road in this languorous British outpost last January 24.

It was the first hearing on the murder charges, brought by the crown after a government pathologist decided that Lord Erroll, hereditary high constable of Scotland, was slain and was not the victim of a motor accident, as first was generally believed.

A few hours before his body was found, the earl had left a dinner party attended by Major Broughton and his second wife, Lady Diana. The Broughtons were married only last December, and he had brought her to Kenya for their honeymoon.

The baronet's counsel objected vigorously to introduction of the statement, but in vain. In it, Major Broughton was quoted as saying that he and his wife had made a pact upon their marriage, in which he promised to leave her if they ever disagreed.

Accordingly, he said, he made the best of things when he found out that his bride was in love with the widowed Erroll whom he had known for 20 years.

This continued even though Lady Broughton saw Erroll almost every day, the statement continued, and then, when the peer was buried, Broughton was quoted as saying he carried his bride's farewell note to the grave, at her request, and dropped it sadly within.

The blonde Lady Diana Broughton listened calmly in court to a police inspector's testimony that her husband had inquired six days after the slaying of the Earl of Erroll:

"If you found your wife in bed with a man and shot him, would you be hanged for murder?"

The inspector testified in the second day of a preliminary inquiry into charges that the major jealously murdered the high-spirited fun-loving Lord Erroll. Two bullets fired The inspector said two bullets had been fired at the Earl, that he apparently ducked the first and was struck in the head by the second. Four bullets were found near the scene, the inspector said, but ballistics experts have not identified them.

He related that Major Broughton made the hanging inquiry when he was being questioned January 30, and that a smouldering rubbish heap in the Broughton yard yielded fragments of blood-stained golf stockings and some charred sacking.

The woman proprietor of a roadhouse in this tropical African colony testified that Lord Erroll and Lady Broughton left her place shortly before midnight on the night before the slaying was discovered.

Present were Mrs. Maurice Hynes, Mrs. L. C. Hammer, Mrs. John Cage, Mrs. Menno Dahke, Mrs. Ella Brown, Mrs. Clyde DeSart, Mrs. D. A. Steffen, Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. Louis Brown, Mrs. Clarence Simmons, Mrs. F. E. The club plans to serve lunch at the auction sale Saturday at the Hugh Small place.

Mrs. George Brown will entertain the club at next meeting. She will be assisted by Mrs. Ella Brown, Mrs. Louis Brown and Mrs. Menno Dahke.

GERVAIS—Reports from the state convention were given at the meeting of Farmers Union on Monday.

D. L. St. John reported for the cooperative committee and Mrs. Sheeter for the educational committee. A. D. Folker was voted into membership and L. J. Uhrhammer was given the obligation.

Howard Booster reported on the warehouse meeting held in connection with the state convention. Visitors present were Ernest Werner, Central Howell, state president; Mr. and Mrs. Crypture, Liberty; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hall and daughter, May Jo, Fairfield.

Howard Booster and D. L. St. John of the cooperative committee served refreshments. The legislative committee will serve refreshments at the April meeting and the cooperative committee will have charge of the program.

2 Ex-Champs Qualify in Golf Tourney

One ex-champ and a pair of onetime runner-ups are numbered among the seven who have thus far qualified in the championship flight of the seventh annual Active club golf tournament which closes qualifying rounds Sunday.

Don Hendrie, 1937 titlist, Glen Lengren, runner-up in 1937 and 1938, and Bob Utter, the 1939 runner-up, have all fired chinch berths in the championship flight. Utter, with a par 72, is tied with Frank Shafer and Orville Beardsley for medalist honor, while Hendrie and Lengren posted 74s.

Other first flight entrants and their qualifying scores thus far include Patterson, 73, and John Creech, 74. Yet to post qualifying scores are Harold Olinger, champ of 1939, and Wait Cline, jr., champ of 1940.

John Varley, Salem golf club secretary, estimates it will take a 77 or 78 to make the 16-man championship flight.

Luisetti Leads Olympic Win

DENVER, March 20 (AP)—Angelo "Hank" Luisetti, who fought illness early today at his hotel, was a basketball master in tonight's quarterfinals at the national AAU basketball tournament.

With a capacity crowd of 7000 cheering his every goal and pass, the ex-Stanford star paced his San Francisco Olympic club into tomorrow night's semifinals with a 58-36 triumph over the tall Seattle Savides. Luisetti sank 22 points, running his tournament total to 67 for three contests. Until Luisetti broke loose toward the latter stages of the first half, Seattle with Washington and Washington State players in the lineup, was holding the Olympics fairly even.

ROCHESTER, Minn., March 20 (AP)—Bill Jurges was released from Mayo Clinic today and left Rochester by rail this afternoon to rejoin his New York Giants mates in training camp. Jurges said he received a "favorable report" from clinic physicians.

Study Urged in Flood Control And Fish in Willamette Area

The problem of controlling Willamette valley flood waters and protecting fish life are issues that must be "weighed one against the other" and some solution reached, Dr. Warren D. Smith, professor of geology at the University of Oregon, Eugene, told the Salem chapter of the Geological Society of the Oregon Country at Willamette university Thursday night.

This valley, he said, is duplicated geologically and climatically by only two others in the world, the Po in Italy and the Grand Vale in Chile. Its streams' heavy flows must be checked at the headwaters if continuing erosion of the alluvium that constitutes the valley floor is to be curbed, he declared.

Silverton Fans Fete Basketball Team at Beaches

SILVERTON—Coach Ray Goates and his Silverton high basketball boys will be vacationing this weekend at Oregon beaches as a treat from Silverton fans.

The affair came as a complete surprise to the "guests." Sufficient funds were sent the coach with accompanying notes say that "We enjoyed watching you play," "We are proud of your record in the league and in the district" and "We were proud you got a chance at the state tournament." This was once, Coach Goates and his boys admitted, they were "speechless."

Going with Coach Goates will be Lester Beugli, Erland Anderson, John Seeley, John Day, Bob Morgan, Harry Burr, Harry Hagedorn, Clarence Mellbye, Kenneth Anderson and Charles Simmons.

Portland Swim Team Sets Mark

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 20 (AP)—The Multnomah Athletic club, Portland, Ore., successfully defended its 400-yard free style relay title tonight with a record-shattering performance in the national AAU women's swimming and diving meet.

The Multnomah mermaids, Suzanne Zimmerman, Nancy Merki, Joyce MacRae and Brenda Heister, covered the distance in 4:12.4, clipping a full second from the previous American mark set in Chicago April 2, 1936 by the Washington AC of Seattle.

Bride Slain

Her head battered by a wine bottle, the body of Mrs. Ruth Rawlins, playgirl wife of a wealthy Canadian mining man, was found in a ditch near Gainesville, Fla., after a drinking bout with two taxi drivers. Arrested, each driver blamed the other for the actual slaying.

Clouds Delay Bomber Takeoff

BOISE, Idaho, March 20 (AP)—Low hanging clouds and poor visibility prevented scheduled takeoff today of three giant four-motored bombers being flown east from McChord Field, Wash., for delivery to Britain. The planes, which arrived yesterday, are expected to leave tomorrow for Salt Lake City.
