

Lindbergh Tells Nation to Get In European War now Would Mean Humiliating Defeat

Americans Opposed to Intervention in European Conflict Urged to Attend Mass Meetings, Write Letters

NEW YORK, March 20—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh Thursday asked Americans who opposed United States intervention in the European war to organize and attend mass meetings throughout the nation and to make known their position in repeated letters to their legislators and local newspapers.

Writing in Collier's magazine, Lindbergh concluded that "For us to enter the conflict in Europe at this time would result in defeat and humiliation," and asserted that by remaining out of the war the United States "can build a military and commercial position on this continent that is impregnable to attack and which will force other nations to trade with us, if through expediency alone."

"The policy of our nation is still influenced by the desires of its people," he said. "You can help us by organizing mass meetings against our entry into the war. You can help by attending such mass meetings. You can help by writing to your congressmen, to your senator and to your local newspaper, telling them of your views. But if you stand with us against war, you must act now or it will be forever too late."

After revealing that in 1938 he told highly placed British officials of Germany's air power and warned them of the need for developing British aviation, Lindbergh asserted that both France and England had waited "until it was too late." "We in America have waited until it is too late," he continued, "and yet we step closer and closer to the war as though hypnotized by its bombing and by its fury."

"Like France and England in 1939, we are unprepared today. We have not as many thoroughly modern fighting planes in our army and navy combined as Germany produces in a single week; and our army is deplorably lacking in such essential items as tanks and anti-tank cannon. Sacrifices Needed

"We have not made the sacrifice necessary for adequate rearmament. We, too, have cultivated the philosophy that it is essential to defend someone else in order to defend ourselves. "Our politicians and idealists harangue us about defending freedom and democracy, and our way of life."

Asserting that political shouts "we must stop Hitler" and "down with the Nazi regime" were being echoed by some newspapers, Lindbergh declared, "We in America are being led to war by a group of interventionists and foreign interests, against the will of a majority of our people."

Lindbergh asserted that interventionists had proceeded slowly because they knew that "it was useless for them to advocate openly a declaration of war."

The policy of interventionists, he said, was "to support every movement that would lead us in the direction of war and to oppose every movement that would not—always under their mask of 'aid short of war.'"

The colonel termed passage of the lease-lend bill and revision of the neutrality act examples of "interventionist steps" and asserted that "the advocates of intervention are beginning to forget the qualifying phrase 'short of war.' The more daring among them are openly discussing an American expeditionary force for Europe."

Lindbergh asserted that in "British propaganda" in the United States "lies the danger of our involvement. There is certainly no danger of our fighting on Germany's side, and her propaganda in America has been relatively ineffective."

He said that it was Britain's purpose to minimize German success and to "exaggerate all British successes" and recalled that "those of us who saw the growth of the German air force were severely assailed because of the reports we made describing it, although these reports now turn out to have been almost unforgettably conservative." He counseled readers to go back over their newspaper files and to re-read the reports of the campaigns in Finland, Norway, France and the low countries and to consider them in the light of subsequent reports and developments.

Attack Unlikely
Discussing the possibility of an attack upon the United States by a foreign power, Lindbergh asserted that one by air was "out of the question." Contending that any attack upon this country would have to be from the sea he concluded that "of all the nations in the world, we hold the most impregnable position of defense."

Turning to the national defense program, Lindbergh said that "it is often asked today why our rearmament program moves so slowly, why our people are so divided and confused. Why indeed! The answer is clear.

"It is because we have neglected the wisdom and experience of our forefathers—we have not followed Washington's advice. We have let the destiny of America become confused and entangled with that of foreign lands."

Labor Board Probe Opens

Examiner Graham of Seattle opened a hearing for the National Labor Relations board here Thursday to take testimony on the question of whether the CIO or IEU shall act as bargaining agent for the employees of the Silver Falls Timber company.

Approximately 350 employees are involved in the dispute. The timber company representatives said the concern has a contract with the IEU Local No. 50, which claims to represent a majority of the employees.

The CIO has filed a petition with the National Labor Relations board asking that it be certified as bargaining agent for the employees.

Woodburn Men Begin Army Training

WOODBURN—Ten men from north Marion county left Woodburn Monday to begin their period of military training. They were Robert Milton Holman, Thomas John Stettin, Matthew Shade Mockett, Marvin Ruben Sanders, Jr., James Lavern Cully, Warren James Barnes, Robert Cook Hall.

The next contingent from here will leave between April 1 and 4 and will consist of replacements for those of this week's delegation and that of February 26. Of the February 26 quota Vernon Clifford Hartwell, John Clare Sigloh and Lloyd Wayne Mendenhall failed to pass, were sent home. Marvin Edward Jensen, Silverton, failed to pass his final examination.

A group of town people and the Woodburn high school band was these new soldiers off. The new delegation to be inducted from some time between April 7 and 15. This group will consist of only four men.

Uses of Drug Explained

PORTLAND, March 20—(AP)—Sulfanilamide, the one-time miracle drug, is not as effective as many other preparations in treating pneumococcal pneumonias, Dr. Edwin E. Osgood said Thursday.

Dr. Osgood, associate professor of medicine and head of the division of experimental medicine at the University of Oregon Medical School, told doctors attending a post-graduate session that marrow culture studies showed sulfathiazole was best. Other effective drugs, he added, are sulfapyridine and sulfadiazine.

"Sulfanilamide is so much less effective than any of the other drugs that it deserves no place in the treatment of pneumococcal pneumonias," he said.

Dr. Ralph C. Matson told the physicians that changes within the last five years in the type of surgical procedure had affected a high percentage of cures in cases of lung abscess and empyema, conditions previously having high mortality rates.

Dr. Wilbur M. Bolton, Portland, was succeeded Wednesday by Dr.

Richard B. Adams, Portland, as president of the University of Oregon Medical School Alumni association.

New vice-president elected included Dr. F. Walter Brodie, Portland; Dr. Everett N. Jones, Boise, Idaho; Dr. Christian Melgard, Seattle, and Dr. Dwight H. Findley, Medford.

Better than a dozen hankies for opening STUFFY NOSTRILS

What's the use of soiling so many hankies, trying to blow mucus out of stopped-up nostrils? It only piles up the laundry bill. And remember, a lot of violent blowing only makes your nose more sore, red, unsightly, and it very often injures the delicate membranes.

A more economical and gentler way to relieve congestion in your nostrils due to a cold is to insert a little Mentholatum.

This delightful ointment will soon break up congested mucus, relieve the smothering feeling, and permit you to breathe normally through the nose. It also relieves sniffing, sneezing, swelling, soreness, and redness.

Mentholatum helps in so many ways that you should always remember this: For Discomforts from Colds—Mentholatum. Link them together in your mind.
