Hearings End On Oil Rates

PORTLAND, Ore., March 20.—(AP)—E. C. Stiles, interstate commerce commission examiner, concluded a six-day hearing on petroleum shipping rates from Portland to inland points Thursday.

Elwell Eastman, commerce accountant for the Union Pacific railroad, testified that barge shipments of gasoline to eastern Oregon increased from 10,500,000 gallons passing Bonneville locks in 1938 to 97,000,000 in 1940.

He added that the Northern Pacific and Spokane, Portland & Seattle railroads, operating interstate, had a 17 1/2-cent per hundredweight rate to Pendleton, whereas the Union Pacific, operating intrastate, had a 19-cent rate.

The Union Pacific is petitioning to reduce its rate to 17 1/2 cents. Elwell testified that barge rates were 9 1/2 cents and the truck rate 18 1/2 cents. Both truck and barge interests opposed the rate reduction.

Kennel Club Makes Profit

The kennel show conducted at the armory last weekend by the Salem Lions club will yield a net profit of approximately $400, it was reported at the weekly luncheon at the Marion hotel Thursday.

The committee members said many exhibitors had requested that they be given advance notice of next year's show.

Putnam Tells Of Training

EUGENE, March 20.—(AP)—Rex Putnam, state superintendent of public instruction, declared Wednesday that Oregon's vocational schools had aided the national industrial training program materially.

He told the 19th annual commonwealth conference at the University of Oregon that many of the schools were working on a 24-hour basis.

Municipal, county and state agencies were urged by Major Harold F. Osborne, civil defense officer for the Ninth corps area, to "plan for unification of the state's part in national defense."

Earl K. Nixon, director of the state department of geology and mineral industries, said Oregon's mineral industry could add much to the defense program. The state's mineral production goal now is $25,000,000 instead of the present $10,000,000, he added.

Fourth Congressional District Measure Signed by Governor

Gov. Charles A. Sprague officially approved Thursday the legislature's bill placing Coos, Curry, Douglas, Jackson, Josephine, Lane and Linn counties in a new congressional district, Oregon's fourth.

The law would have also included Benton county had the re-appointment committee of the house of representatives had its way. But Benton county senators, led by President Dean Walker, whose district is Benton and Polk counties, put Benton back in the first district.

Of the 511 bills passed by the recent assembly, approximately 120 remain on the governor's desk. The executive said he expected to dispose of a substantial number of measures today and Saturday and to clear his desk well in advance of the 20-day deadline.

Other bills signed Thursday: SB 15, by Pearson—Relating to the sale of bonds. SB 154, by assessment and taxation committee—relating to the preparation of local budgets.

SB 329, by Kaufman—Relating to taking claims in Tillamook county.

SB 105, by Franciscovich—Relating to the school census in certain counties and school districts.

HB 541, by Hessler—To empower governmental units to cooperate with one another in the performance of their duties.

HB 365, by Gleason—Relating to people's utility districts and adding a new section to the present law.

HB 541, by joint ways and means committee—To provide for the construction and equipping of armories and appropriating $100,000.

HB 554, by judiciary committee—Relating to the hearing of cases by the state supreme court.
