

About the Pictures

Mrs. Breyman Boise (right), Mrs. Charles Huggins and the latter's son, Charles, stroll in Willson park and stop to pick some pansies from one of the beds. Walking is a favorite pastime between April showers.

In the picture below, Mrs. Louis Schoel serves tea informally to Mrs. William Hammond (center) and Mrs. Chester Fritz when they drop in unexpectedly. Mrs. Schoel's home looks across the creek into Bush's pasture and is especially attractive in springtime when trees are just beginning to leaf out.

Even the smallest youngsters find outdoor life pleasant in April. A group of young friends pictured in the oval take, one-year-old Roxanne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Brown, for an airing. Jeff, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Walton, is the only man in the crowd. Next comes Plum, older daughter of the Browns, and then Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Heltzel.

Mrs. T. O. Russell (lower righthand picture) joins Mrs. William Burghardt and they go together to attend a luncheon. The photograph shows part of the lovely display of azalias which decorate the parking strip in front of the Burghardt home. (Photos all by the Statesman women's department.)

April, opening with the traditional showers and sunshine, brings incentive to dress up in one's very springiest clothes and get out into the open.

While gardening and picnicking will very soon be most important in the order of things, a preview of the Easter parade is enjoyed by most any woman (and man too).

Bright colors abound for spring wear, but there'll be a staccato note of navy blue in every parade.

"Friendly neighbor" colors are going to be featured too, Inca gold, Pampas green, Pueblo brown, Bolivian blue and Chili Sauce red look as intriguing as they sound.

And as far as men's new Easter colors are concerned, judging from the stylists' daring during the winter season, we'll be seeing father and the boys dressed up as they have never dressed before. And they'll love it, and we'll love them—the handsome dears!
