Silverton Studies Bridge Problems, Financial Report

SILVERTON—Discussion of bridge building and repairing, reading and discussing three ordinances and many minor matters kept Mayor Reber Allen, City Manager McCleary and the six city councilmen in session for three hours Monday night.

In reference to Silverton's two bridges, one of which collapsed in mid-March, and the other of which was pronounced unsafe for heavy traffic shortly after, a letter from R. H. Baldock, state highway engineer, reported that four of the trusses under the Main street bridge were buckling and could be reinforced without too much expense.

D. Arthur Lowe, bridge engineer, suggested that a wooden bridge, properly treated and with concrete abutments would stand up for at least 20 years. But, should be over each year and have bolts tightened and other minor repairs made. A steel bridge, is at the present time almost prohibitive in price, it was said, and procuring steel is at this time a doubtful prospect. Mayor Allen referred the matter to Manager McCleary and the council street committee.

The street program, covering a project of approximately $25,000, was favored. Of this the sponsors contribution is about 46 per cent, it was explained by Lloyd Moser, engineer who has been making the estimates. The project will cover south Third street, one block on East Main street and one block on Third street from C to D streets. Steps to get the project underway will be taken on once.

Payment of the claim of Audrey Tokstad and others for $87.50 damages done from fire originating in the city last summer was allowed.

Three ordinances were read and passed upon first and second readings. One pertained to trespassing on city property. The second concerned an amendment to a former ordinance regulating pinball machine distribution in Silverton. It would provide that private owners pay $25 each month for operation. The former ordinance provides for $250 distribution licenses with the distributor paying $7.50 additional each month for each machine in swimming pool project, $1000 had just been paid out for a bond issue. The original bond issue had not provided for its operation for the first year. However, Mayor Allen explained, taxes were coming in to care of these funds and cash on hand and in the bank showed the city had a balance of $6,927.82.

Members of the council suggested that a more easily understood method of reporting city finances be worked out to be presented to the city council members.
