BRIDAL DAY

Thorne Hammonds on Trip She Was Helen Boardman

Thorne Harrison Hammond slipped a slender gold and diamond band on the third finger of Miss Helen Frances Boardman's left hand last night. It was at 8 o'clock that the wedding ceremony took place in the stately First Presbyterian church. Rev. W. Irvin Williams officiated, in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives.

Mrs. Bruce Spaulding sang "Calm as the Night," "Love" by Heurter and "I Love Thee" by Grieg just preceding the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Professor Frank E. Churchill.

The interior of the colonial church was decorated with baskets of lilacs, orchid and white, snapdragons and Easter lilies interspersed with Woodwardia fern and palms. White cathedral tapers cast a soft glow over the sanctuary.

The bride, the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Boardman, walked up the aisle on the arm of her father to meet her bridegroom at the altar. Of white embossed chiffon, with an all over design of lilacs-of-the-valley, was her wedding gown. It was fashioned princess style with self-covered buttons embellishing the tight-fitting bodice from the back of the neck to the waist. The long sleeves, which extended into points over the wrists, were full at the shoulders and the neckline was sweetheart shape. The skirt, with shirring at the sides, fell into a graceful train.

Her dark hair was caught with a cluster of orange blossoms and her finger-tip-length tulle veil was made in three lengths, with a face veil. Lilacs-of-the-valley, bouvardia and an orchid formed the bridal bouquet. The bride's only ornament was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. For something old she carried a French imported lace handkerchief, which belonged to the aunt of the groom, Mrs. H. A. Hammond Smith of Parkridge, New Jersey.

Spring Colors for Attendants Immediately preceding the bride, came Mrs. Wheeler R. English, the matron of honor, and before her walked the two bridesmaids, Miss Maxine Rogers and Mrs. Joseph A. Carlson of Portland. They wore identical frocks of embossed chiffon in spring colors fashioned like the bride's only made with short sleeves and floor length skirts. Mrs. English wore orchid, Miss Rogers was in daffodil yellow and Mrs. Carlson's was of turquoise.

The attendants wore halo hats of tulle to match their dresses and the matron of honor carried a large bouquet of yellow tulips centered with a cluster of purple tulips and the maids carried similar bouquets of tulips in shades of pink.

Standing with the bridegroom as best man was Mr. Wheeler R. English and seating the guests were Mr. Jack Busby of Salem, Mr. Robert Peacock of Portland, Mr. Virgil Shieber of Vancouver, Wash., and Mr. Joseph A. Carlson of Portland.

Before the couple went on to the small reception at the home of Mrs. E. E. Bergman they greeted their guests in the foyer of the church.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Boardman wore a dusty rose demasse dinner gown and a corsage of roses and forget-me-nots. Mr. and Mrs. Thorne W. Hammond of Portland came down for their son's marriage and Mrs. Hammond wore a Bolivian blue lace gown and corsage of sweet peas and roses.

The Bergman home was decorated with bouquets of lilacs, tulips and many lighted tapers where members of the bridal party received informally. The bride's table was all in white with a centerpiece of ophiopogon, bouvardia and lilacs-of-the-valley in a crystal bowl flanked with white tapers in crystal candelabras. Greeting the guests at the door were Mrs. Bergman and Mrs. Wayne J. Page of Dallas.

Couple to Go North The bride's sister, Mrs. Albert R. Mefford, cut her wedding cake. Mrs. Arthur G. Upston presided at the coffee urn and Mrs. William G. Stacey cut the ices. Miss Lucile Brainard was in charge of the dining room and assisting were Mrs. Wilfred R. Stephens of Olympia, Mrs. Robert Peacock of Portland, Mrs. Ray H. Lafky, Mrs. Robert C. Barnett, Mrs. Joseph E. Harvey, Jr. and Mrs. William Dashney.

When the couple left on their wedding trip to Seattle and other points north the bride wore a smart tropic blue tulle semi-tailored suit and a top coat of barley beige with a wolf collar to which was pinned an orchid. Her hat was a Gibson Girl straw of beige with flower trim and veil and her accessories were also of beige.

Mr. Hammond will bring his bride back to Salem to reside at 677 North Summer street.

The bride is a graduate of Willamette university and is a member of Beta Chi sorority.

Harriet Vick Married to Mr. LeVee

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Vick on the Garden Road was the setting for the marriage of their daughter, Harriet, to Mr. Chauncey W. LeVee, son of Mrs. C. W. LeVee of Corvallis, on Saturday night. Rev. Hart of Corvallis read the rites.

Miss Dorothy Edwards sang "I Love You Truly" before the ceremony. She was accompanied by Mrs. Roy Jacobson of Portland, sister of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an afternoon frock of blue wool crepe with white accessories. Her corsage was of orchids.

Miss Carol Minard was the bride's only attendant and Mr. Robert LeVee was best man for his brother.

A small reception for relatives and friends followed the wedding.

Mrs. LeVee attended Salem schools and Oregon State college. The groom went to school in Corvallis. The couple will reside in Corvallis.
