Our Cliff Barker lad did rather all right in his baptismal with the Boise Pilots of the Pioneer league . . . Cliff arrived in Lewiston just in time to get into his monkey suit and play for the Pilots against the Spokane Indians . . . He came up with a four-run homer and a pair of doubles, driving in eight runs. that's all . . . The score: 22 to 11 in favor of the Pilots.

Jim Keesey, Boise manager, was so impressed with Barker's biffing that he immediately wired Happy Howard Maple, Solon

Cavarretta Next For Doc Wilson, Pitcher Maker

CHICAGO, April 24-(A)-Phillip Joseph Cavarretta, erstwhile "boy wonder" of the Chicago Cubs, will appear in a National league box score any day now as a pitcher after seven years of outfield and first base duty.

Manager Jimmy Wilson, who says "any guy who can throw hard has a chance to pitch," has high hopes for Phil. His protege even now is only 24 years old although he's starting his eighth season with the Chicago Cubs.

Wilson is the fellow who persuaded Bucky Walters to give up third base for the mound when both were with Philadelphia, experience worked out so well that the Cub pilot almost wished he never had engineered it.

business boss that he absolutely had to have Barker for the season instead of on 48-hour recall, as Barker was originally sent . . . Mapes granted his wish, reluctantly. Incidentally, both Barker and Phlashin' Phil Salstrom, who was sent to Anaheim of the California State circuit, were tickled over their moves . . . Each realized he would have little opportunity for service with the parent club here, and regular service is something Barker, at least, needs most.

Battle for Blood.

While the first two clashes beween Willamette and the Senators were more or less lackadaisical exhibition affairs, you can bet that tonight's rubber game will be for blood ... The Senators won be for blood . . . The Senators won the first, 3 to 2, with a Solon battery working part of the game for back last Monday to even the count, at exactly 3 to 2, with its own lineup functioning all the

The game will give fans an opportunity for a looksee at a fine Willamette team as well as an opportunity for a preview of the Senators they'll see in league action no later than next Thursday night, weather permitting . . . If Cline's Coffee Shop bowlers stay in eighth place in the American Bowling congress tournament until its conclusion two weeks hence, it will be worth something over $600 to them . . . They're almost a cinch to stay in the first 20, which will be worth about $300 or $60 per man . . . Not so bad, eh?

Here's Rook Receiver.

To Jack Carl Warren, rookie cus. catcher fresh out of prep school, goes Senator sketch number three of this corner's series designed to 100-yard dash, by Garland, in acquaint fans with Skipper Bunny 220-yard dash, by Doughton in Griffiths' cray Griffiths' crew.

Warren is 19, stands 5-foot-11, weighs 175, has a good appetite.

He played four years of baseball for Benson Tech of Portland, from which he was graduated a year ago. He played semipro ball in the Portland league in 1939 and for Jack and Jill in the State league last season. He hit a miserable .538 in the State circuit. Jack Carl both throws and bats right and does a good job of both. He has a nice arm for the second base peg and has good power with the stick.

As an understudy to Eddie Adams, he's likely to be a favorite with Salem fans. Hobbies? He likes to fish and hunt when not playing baseball.
