Water Wanted—Applications for water appropriation permits continue to pour into the state engineer's office as the irrigation season approaches. Last week's applications included: T. D. Pilsberger, Dallas, for 3 second feet from Fucker creek for irrigation of 40 acres, Polk county; A. H. Bressler, Salem route six, for 1.88 second feet from Little Luckiamute river for irrigation of 150 acres, Polk county; Hiller Brothers, Newberg, for 1.94 second feet from unnamed stream and Skookum lake, for irrigation of 155 acres, Marion county; Elmer Lorence, Silverton route three, for 3 second feet from Silver creek, for irrigation of 15.84 acres, Marion county; John Seethoff, Woodburn route two, for .38 second feet from Pudding river, for irrigation of 30 acres, Marion county.

Road Ready—Blasting of stumps for a proposed road change in their area has been completed at private expense and the site is now ready for the county bulldozer, a delegation from the upper Abiqua reported Saturday to the county court. The bulldozer is now working in the Union Hill strawberry district but will be sent to the Abiqua area shortly, the court said. A promise had been given that if stumps were removed through private effort, county equipment would be provided to do further work.

Credit Chamber Tropic—The Salem Credit association will have charge of the Monday luncheon program at the Salem chamber of commerce. Prize winners in the association's essay contest will be introduced by James Clerk, president. Speakers will be Le Whitehouse, "Objectives of the Credit Association or Credit Bureau," and Dr. Francis Thompson, "Wild Money—Salem's Greatest Financial Problem."

Reynolds Succeeds Pratt—Governor Charles A. Sprague Saturday announced the appointment of Dr. A. B. Reynolds, Portland, as a member of the state board of optometry examiners, effective as of May 1. He succeeds Dr. C. B. Pratt, Portland. Reynolds will serve a three-year term.

Boy Sought Here—Salem police were asked Saturday to watch for Everett Reynolds, 14, missing from his home in Portland and believed to be in Salem. He was described as wearing a dark suit and no hat or cap, glasses and being about five feet, four inches tall and of a slender build.

Army Remount Service Buys Salem Horses

The US army remount service purchased 11 horses from the Salem area at prices ranging from $150 to $175 in its inspection at the fairgrounds here Saturday. Between 30 and 40 horses were offered.

Among owners whose horses were purchased were Roy Simmons, Senator Douglas McKay, Garnet Hara and Jim Hall of Salem; Harry Kuhl, Woodburn; Roy Adams, Monmouth; and Blaine Southwick, Aumsville. The purchases were shipped out Saturday night from Eugene and Portland.

The remount inspections provided something of a horse show to the crowd of equine enthusiasts. All horses were first shown in hand, and likely ones then saddled and shown at walk, trot and canter with a final run to test their speed.

In charge were Lt. Col. William H. Dean and Lt. Col. F. W. Koester of the San Mateo remount depot, with Capt. Cecil Edwards of Salem also acting as inspector. Heretofore the service has purchased horses that were not absolutely gentle, but not so this time—a trend due probably to the fact that both a great number of horses and riders are starting simultaneously as remount recruits.

Captain Edwards declared that the class of horses shown Saturday was greatly improved over previous inspections held here.

Students to Visit—Touring parts of western Oregon, several civil and agricultural engineering students from Utah State Agricultural college at Logan will be in Salem May 24. An engineer from the Oregon state highway department will accompany them on the trip, which will include the Oregon State college laboratories, coast highway bridges, state capitol and state forestry building.

For Watch and Clock Repairing—H. T. Love, 141 S. Liberty.

Axe Plenty Sharp—A. E. Waldorf, who lives in the Keizer district, sharpened up his axe Saturday. He got it sharp enough, he told Salem first aid men, as they gave him emergency treatment at the east Salem fire station. The cue from his sharpened axe will require eight to ten stitches, Captain Percy Clark said. Waldorf was taken to a doctor's office for treatment.

Purse Taken—Floyd McCall, 1370 Ferry street, reported to police Saturday that a purse which his wife left on a basket of laundry near a kitchen window was taken by someone who opened the window and reached inside Friday night. The purse contained $7 in currency and personal papers.

Paint Cans, Guaranteed, Job, $9.95 ea. Vic's garage, Monmouth, Ore.

Shell Studies Lube Problem On Super-Roads
 A new era in road building and automobile travel is now opening, in the opinion of traffic experts. "Good roads," which were thought so wonderful 20 years ago, are out of date today and are being replaced with "super highways" engineered for the smoother flow of traffic.
 To meet the challenge of super highways, the problem of lubricating a powerful engine under sustained speed has been studied for the last three years at the "University of Petroleum," Shell's $3,500,000 research laboratories, according to announcement Saturday. The result is a new lubricant, known as Shell X-100 motor oil, said to contain extra safety factors which resist heat and oxidation.
 "There's no doubt that speed considered excessive a few years ago is considered normal driving today," it was said by Shell's local manager, J. C. Enlen.
 "Shell's new motor oil, created to meet this situation, has been proved in months of tests, covering thousands of miles of day-and-night driving, the only stops being to change drivers."

Monmouth Co-op Okels Yamhill Group's Option
MONMOUTH—Stockholders and directors of the Monmouth cooperative creamery Wednesday, approved by a vote of 37 to 19 an option recently taken on its equipment by a Yamhill county cooperative creamery near McMinnville. The Yamhill cooperative's offer is for a cash consideration of $4800 for the equipment of 2 trucks, 800 cream cans, churns, motors, vats, pasteurizing and testing equipment, etc.
 The warehouse, operated in connection with the creamery, here, was recently put on a cash business basis to better facilitate refunding of a mortgage. The business office will be moved soon to the warehouse building.
 Polk county now has no creamery, although some of the highest ranking Jersey herds in the United States have been developed in this county in past years.

Money Taken—A burglar who entered the Harry Scott bicycle shop, 147 South Commercial street, Friday night took about $2.50 from the cash register, Scott reported to police Saturday.

In Seattle Board Delays On Liquor Club Permits

Issuance of service licenses under a law approved by the 1941 legislature designed to regulate night clubs will not get under way until after the next meeting of the state liquor control commission, officials said here Saturday. The cost of the service license is $25 a year.
 Officials said that many of these clubs, to meet the requirements of the liquor commission, probably will have to obtain both service and restaurant licenses. The restaurant license costs $150 a year. Approximately 35 applications for service licenses already have been received at the Salem headquarters of the commission.
 Application blanks and copies of the 1941 legislative act were sent to these applicants Friday. Members of the commission said they have no idea how many service licenses will be issued.
 The law authorizes the storing, mixing and serving of drinks in these clubs but no liquor is permitted to be sold on the premises. The new law received the approval of Governor Charles A. Sprague, the liquor control commission and many other officials.
 All applicants for service licenses will be investigated by agents of the commission before they are issued. At the last meeting of the commission held in Portland a large number of rules for the regulation of these clubs were adopted.
 The new law contained an emergency clause and is now in effect.

Radio Units Here Friday At Capitol
 Major Bowes' "1941 All-Star Revue" unit comes to the stage of the Capitol theatre Friday for matinee and evening performances. The cast of twenty is made up of more of the major's winners than any of the previous units. It will show here just the one day.
 Cast of the all-star unit includes Stan Early, master of ceremonies; the Harmonica Esquires, Steven Phillips, who tapped his way to fame on a recent program; Windy Cook, the youthful imitator; Wanda Gibson, lyric soprano; Danny Drayson, who combines comedy with his dancing; The Charms, Wichita's favorite daughters; Jean and Al, wizards of the xylophones and others.
 On the screen the Capitol presents the first-run feature, "A Shot in the Dark" with William Lundigan, Maris Wrixon, Nan Wynn and Ricardo Cortez. Novelty short subjects and the news completes the show.

Guard Observation Unit now for US Army
 Formal certificate from the war department recognizing the 123rd observation squadron of the Oregon National guard as a component of the United States army, was received at the state military headquarters here Saturday.
 The squadron, with maximum strength of 31 officers and 118 enlisted men, is now stationed in Portland. Major G. Robert Dodson is in charge.

Newest Refinement Offered in DENTAL PLATES

DR. PAINLESS PARKER SAYS:
 "TRANSLUCENT TEETH—a discovery in the field of porcelain chemistry—bring the 'live' look of natural teeth to your dentures. Science matches the 'fluorescent' effect—the warm glow, soft sheen and gentle gleam of Nature's own teeth. Now available in the size, shape and color of your present teeth."

Teeth That Match Your Age
 The teeth of adults grow darker, denser with the years. When restorations are made you require teeth that duplicate as nearly as possible the size and color of your own teeth.
 Translucent Teeth for Dental Plates offer the same three-dimensional quality as Nature's own teeth. They absorb and reflect light in the same way that natural teeth do.
