

Scot Farmer Sees Hess Land Uses Pitchfork for Capture

GLASGOW, Tuesday, May 13.—(AP)—A Scottish ploughman told today how he armed himself with a pitchfork to challenge a nazi parachuting to earth on his farm but that the 'chutist—Rudolf Hess—offered no resistance and was in good humor. He gossiped for an hour before the authorities took him away.

Totally unaware of the political stature of his air-borne visitor, David McLean found Hess lying in the field, his ankle broken and assisted him to his cottage. Two British soldiers who turned up on routine duty thinking they had caught an ordinary German airman chaffed Hess about his bad luck in bailing out.

This was McLean's story: "I was in the house and everyone else was in bed and I heard a plane roaring overhead. I ran out to the back of the farm. I heard a crash and saw the plane burst into flames about 200 yards away. "I was amazed and a bit frightened when I saw the parachute coming slowly downward. I could see a man swinging from the harness. I concluded it was a German airman bailing out and ran back to my house for help. They were all asleep. I looked around for a weapon but found nothing except a hay fork. "Fearing I might lose the airman I hurried round by myself again back of the house and in the field I saw a man lying down with his parachute nearby. "He smiled and I helped him to his feet. He thanked me but I could see he'd injured his foot some way. I helped him into the house. By this time my mother and sister were out of bed and made tea. He declined the tea and smiled when we told him we were very fond of it. He asked for a glass of water. "We sent word to the authorities and in the meantime he chatted freely to us and showed us pictures of his little boy, of whom he spoke very proudly. "He told us he had left Germany about four hours before and had landed because night-fall was approaching. I could see from the way he spoke that he was a man of culture. His English, although it had a foreign accent, was very clear and he understood every word we said to him. "He was a very striking looking man wearing a magnificent flying suit. His watch and identity bracelet were of gold. "He wouldn't discuss his journey. He was most gentlemanly in his attitude to my mother and sister and thanked us for what we had done for him. He was most

Salem Chamber Hears Talk on Hospital Work

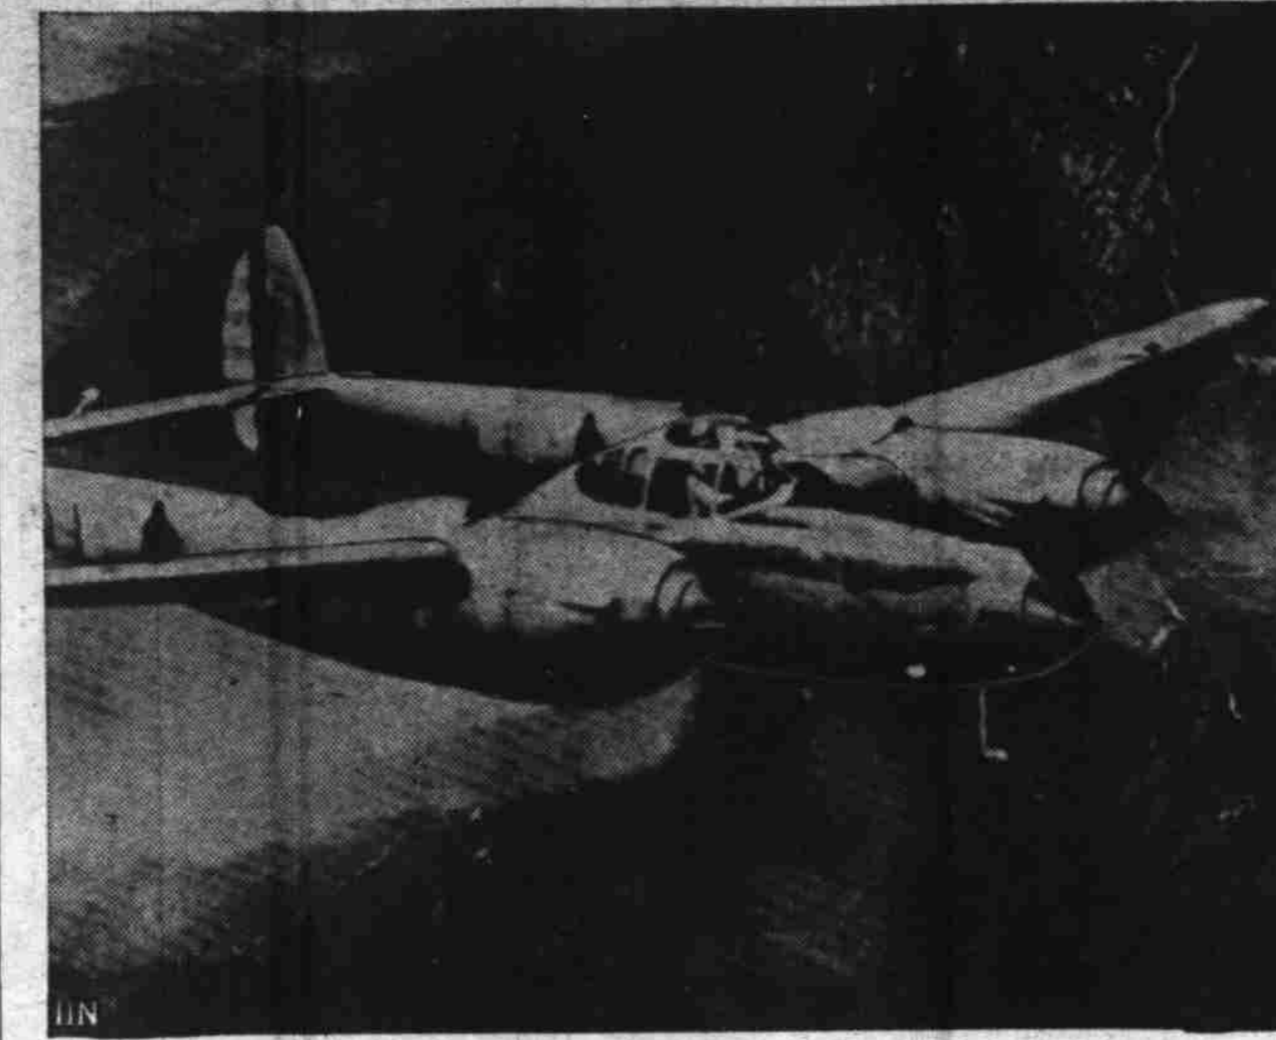

There is scant public appreciation of the extent of a hospital's services and of the operation of many departments with which even patients do not come in direct contact, Rev. I. I. Friesen, chaplain of the Salem Deaconess hospital, told members of the Salem chamber of commerce at their Monday luncheon in a national hospital day address.

Maintaining 24-hour service 365 days a year; operating a laboratory which conducted 15,000 tests last year; an x-ray department, operating rooms with costly equipment, a dietitian with a staff of 15 persons, drug department, maternity ward, library where all patients' records are kept, ambulance service and laundry, the Deaconess hospital had a payroll of more than $61,000 last year, Rev. Friesen pointed out. He added that $22,000 in hospital services were donated in the care of charity patients.

Failing to understand these facts, some persons believe hospital charges are excessive, the speaker said. He declared that, on the contrary, no profit is ever realized and it is only through public support that a hospital makes ends meet.

Speakers will include city officials, Gov. Charles A. Sprague and Dr. P. O. Reily. The ceremonies will be preceded by a 15-minute concert by the Salem high school band.

Crack 3rd Division Maneuvers In Mock Gas Attack Battle

Film to Show Pollution of Willamette

Showing conditions of pollution of the Willamette river from Springfield to Portland, a new technicolor motion picture is scheduled for five showings in Salem today under the sponsorship of the Salem Hunters and Anglers club.

The film is a part of the information being distributed to show damage done by careless pollution through dumping of refuse and filth, especially where cities are located. It is designed to further the club's program of beautifying the river and to preserve and increase the fish.

The picture is to be shown at Leslie junior high school at 10 a. m., the junior chamber of commerce luncheon at the Golden Pheasant cafe at noon, the senior high school at 1:30 and 2:30 and the Salem Art Center at 7:30 p. m.

The public is invited to the luncheon showing but is asked to make reservations. The picture is endorsed by Mayor W. W. Chadwick and the Marion county health department.

Statutory Charge Filed

Dennis Seeley, 160 Union street, was charged by city police Monday with committing a statutory crime.

Shortly after the 15,000 troops of the division and attached units took to the field to meet a simulated motorized enemy from Seattle, the cry of "gas" rang through the woods and a whitish-yellow fumes crept over the terrain.

Gas officers of the IX army corps were instructed to set off the gas grenades in various sections of the area so the troops would receive the experience of working out a maneuver behind gas masks.

Major General Charles F. Thompson, commander of the 3rd division, said he expected to make contact with the enemy Monday night and to have his troops moved up into battle position by daybreak Tuesday.

The maneuver, which is the last before the 3rd leaves for California next week, kept the troops and staff officers in the woods all night. The first troop train, carrying provisional troops, will leave Fort Lewis Tuesday afternoon, to establish truck and rail heads at King City, Calif., in anticipation of the coming southward trek.

The meeting is open to the public.

Have you discovered how smoothly you take the hills with Finer Flying A?

Try a tankful today and feel the difference at any speed

"Slow down," warns one sign. "Speed up," says the next. 25 miles an hour, 45, 10, 15. Slow, fast, slow again. Changing speed limits wherever you go. And at some of these varying speeds, some motors fail to respond with ordinary gasoline. And all motors are different. One motor balks at 10 miles an hour, but works OK at higher speeds. Some motors cough and hesitate only on the hills. Another motor chatters at 45. But now the problem is solved. You can have a motor smooth at every speed.

Alkylated, Solvent-refined, Re-formed, Natural and Straight-run make the seven gasolines in Finer Flying A. Try a tankful of this new blend of gasolines today. Discover how smoothly you ride through the changing traffic zones and over the hills with Finer Flying A. Go fast. Go slow. Go fast again—smooth at every speed.
