Rainbow Bridge at Niagara Nearing Completion

Workers are fast closing the gap between the American and Canadian sections of the new Rainbow bridge at Niagara Falls, which will replace the "honeycomb" bridge, which was crushed in the ice jam three years ago. The arch is 980 feet long. It will be completed next month.

Syria Seen as Next Near-East Battleground

Following a Vichy government announcement of closer collaboration with the Axis, come reports of French fighter planes guiding German bombers toward the French-mandated country of Syria. British Royal Air Force flyers were given stern orders to smash the Luftwaffe invaders on landing fields in both Syria and Iraq. Should the British and the Axis forces clash in Syria, the ancient city of Damascus, capital of the country, may become a battleground. Damascus is one of the holy cities of the Mohammedans, and here the pilgrims assemble on their journey to Mecca.

lived most of his life in Alaska and is earning his way through college by returning to Wrangell and working as a mechanic in a salmon cannery there during the summers. He expects to go north by steamer within two weeks, to begin work of getting the machinery ready before the salmon run.

Straw Hat Day!

Duke Picks Eight New Straw Hats

The Duke of Windsor has great influence on American fashions, and the eight straw hats designed for him by an American firm are mighty important in forming the trend of tastes in men's headgear.

These eight hats, shown at the fair in Nassau, were labeled "Hats selected by the Duke of Windsor." This is the first time an American hat manufacturer has had such an honor.

The duke's favorite was one he called "The Governor's Harbour" of peal-top braid in natural color, shown with a lemon colored pug-gree band or an orange band. One is a herringbone weave cocoonat, with Oxford cloth band; another is a cocoonat fiber in Panama weave and still another has a ventilated top.
