TONIGHT'S GAMES

6 p.m.—Daisy Maes vs. Chuckers.

7 p.m.—Elstroms vs. Brass Ducks.

8 p.m.—Blue Lake vs. Salem Box.

9 p.m.—Keith Brown vs. Paper Machine.

Waits, Papermakers, Salem Box and the Shamrock girls were winners in softball sessions at Sweetland field Wednesday night.

In chalking up their first league win of the season Waits defeated Golden Pheasant 5 to 2 on two unearned runs and a two-run double by Bud Coons.

The Papermakers scored their pair of gift tallies in the third frame. Papermill clubs hooked up in a pitcher's duel between Bob Knight and Ralph Maddy with the Papermakers overcoming a one-run Office lead to win 5 to 2.

The Makers scored two in the first on a walk and Bill Lacey's homer. The Office boys came back in the third on a single, an error and Warren Maddy's long homer.

The Papermakers knotted up the count in the sixth on a circuit blow by Bill Gentzkow and followed up with a two-run rally in their half of the seventh on Pete Hoffer's single, a fielder's choice, an error, and Kenny Lenaburg's fly to center. Earned runs read two and two.

Bob Freeman, Salem Box hurler, whiffed 12 men and drove in his team's winning runs to net a 3 to 2 win over Postoffice in a Commercial league encounter.

Postoffice staged a belated two-run rally in the sixth on Glen Shedeck's pinch-hit triple with two away.

Salem Box scored all tallies on a pair of walks and singles by Earl Crabb and Freeman.

The Shamrock girls took a 12 to 11 decision over Esther Arnold's Leslies in the initial girls' tilt of the year. Rev. Wadsworth, Shamrock shortstopper, opened the last of the sixth with a walk and was driven in by Marcia Moore, crack Shamrock first sacker, with a long single to left.

Vacation Church School Growing

Attendance of 196 was reported on the second day of the Vacation Church school, being held at the First Presbyterian church. Of this number 169 were pupils and 27 were teachers and assistants.

The intermediate department won the banner for having a perfect attendance for the second consecutive day. A "Doubblers Club" for those who had brought two new members was started and three were admitted.

Craftwork was begun by the junior department, under the supervision of Virgil Carl and Pat Sears, with tie racks, wall shelves, and book-ends being started by most of the group.

Following the showing of moving pictures, the group received a treat of candy before adjourning. Registration for the school is still open to all children between four and 15 years of age, with classes in session from 9:00 to 11:45 a.m. each day.

Possible Life Sentence Faced By Man Charged With Cattle Stealing, Officers Assert

Cattle theft, the charge on which many a man was hanged in the old west, may send Claude K. Castle, 28, arrested Wednesday morning in Salem, to the penitentiary for life, members of certain Willamette valley law enforcement bodies opined Wednesday night.

That the habitual criminal act may be called into use in Polk county in the case of Castle, who is slated to face charges of larceny of livestock first in Polk, then in Yamhill and finally in Marion counties, was foreseen as a definite possibility. The act to-date not given judicial recognition by Marion county circuit court personnel, has been called into use with a fair degree of frequency in surrounding counties, officers said.

Documents in the Marion county sheriff's office show that Castle's record runs back to May 9, 1939, when he was given a sentence of from 3 to 6 years in the Albany, N.Y. state penitentiary on a statutory conviction. Paroled in August, 1932, he was convicted of grand larceny in August, 1933, in West Trenton, N.J., and placed on five years' probation. As a parole violator in New York, he was sent to Sing Sing in September, 1935.

In Marion county he was sentenced December 16, 1936, for forgery to a year in the state penitentiary, from which he was dismissed after 10-month's good behavior, only to be returned there October 26, 1937, from Coos county for forgery, that time for four years. Good behavior again got him out a little ahead of time.

April 13 of this year he left the Marion county jail, where he had served six months for cattle stealing.

A slip from the truth led officers to hold him a suspect as a cattle thief, and when Walter Collier of route one, Turner, Tuesday night reported at the sheriff's office that he had lost a couple of Guernsey heifers, officers thought they knew where to look.

A man answering Castle's description had secured aid from a by Smith. Bail for each was fixed at $1000.

Paulsan and Stephens are slated to file charges in McMinnville, Yamhill county seat, today, and Collier's charges are assertedly already filed in Marion county.

Checking on the long trail of evidence through most of Wednesday were State Police Sergeant Farley Morgan, Deputy Sheriff Walter Gerth of Polk county, and Deputy Sheriff L. L. Pittenger of Marion county.
