Attorney's "Lost Client" Found In Judge McMahan's Courtroom; Case Reset for September 18

When Irving Thomas Case's attorney walked into Marion county circuit courtroom Thursday morning to ask postponement of his client's trial because he had been unable to locate him, he found Case in the defendant's chair.

A sheriff's deputy had brought him back to Salem during the night after the district attorney had asked and received a bench warrant. The trial had been set for September 15, and postponement was asked by the lawyer, who said Wednesday he had only a partial address for the man and that he believed they should have a conference before the court appearance.

Students, he said, should be encouraged to take an active part in community life, and schools which give them the chance to gain such experience by allowing properly supervised student self-government are most valuable instruments of education.

Dr. Hutchins also pointed out that the country is now more concerned than ever over the development of cultural values, appreciation of music and art, attitudes toward the community and the home, the searching out of new interests for children.

Police Probe Three Thefts

By opening a transom approximately eight feet above the sidewalk a person or persons entered the Doughton hardware store sometime Tuesday night, city police said Thursday, after investigation had revealed a small table radio was missing.

A ladder was moved from the rear of the store to the door to provide exit without unlocking the door, police said. Because there were no scratches on the door or wall, police believe two men were involved.

Lyman Coslett, 407 Union, reported to police Wednesday night that sometime during the day a brown leather jacket had been removed from his car as it stood parked on the 200 block of North Church. The left front window of the automobile was broken, he said.

Raleigh Welty told state police that 170 empty grain sacks, a ball peen hammer, a 12-inch wrench, approximately two pounds of white cotton twine and a number of small tools had been taken from his combine parked in a field three miles northeast of Salem near the Fairgrounds road one night early this week.

Unemployed Benefit Payments Touch New Low in August

A new, monthly low of $109,590 in unemployment benefit payments was reached in August which is barely half of the $217,224 paid in August, 1940.

For the first time since the jobless insurance program went into effect in January, 1938, less than 2000 claimants were allowed benefits. Only 1937 checks went out during the week ending August 30 and 1343 were paid an average of $11.87 last week.

Benefits were expected to drop still lower during September and October which are the peak harvest employment months, officials said. The unemployment compensation commission has paid out $2,037,234 this year compared to $3,310,513 for the same period in 1940 and $4,728,632 in 1938.

Contributions and interest also are showing marked gains with increased employment. Collections to date of $5,930,278 compare with $4,976,255 for the first eight months of 1940 and $3,945,139 in 1938.

With only a few weeks of delinquent contributions yet to come in this quarter, the fund, now standing at $13,984,258 is not expected to approach the nearly $14,400,000 "ceiling" required before penalty experience rates can be eliminated.

Contributions during the final quarter, however, are expected to put the reserve about a million dollars over the "6 per cent ceiling" by December 31, 1941. This will do away with rates over 2.7 per cent on 1942 wages.
