State Supreme Court Upholds German Heirs

The state supreme court, in an opinion here Tuesday, held that the estate of Fritz Braun, who died in Salem four years ago without leaving a will, must go to his two brothers and two sisters in Germany. The opinion reversed Circuit Judge George Tazwell of Multnomah county, Judge Tazwell ruled that the estate should go to the state's irreducible school fund, but Justice J. O. Bailey, who wrote the supreme court opinion, held there was no evidence to show that the heirs were not genuine.

Sult to obtain the estate from the alleged heirs was filed by the state land board. Defendants were represented by Robert G. Closterman, former German consul in Portland.

Court officials declared it was doubtful that the heirs could receive the funds during the war for the reason that all German funds in the United States have been frozen. The court affirmed the convicty, who is under four years penitentiary sentence for the theft of a cow from Ells S. Dement. This opinion was written by Justice Rand.

Student Body Council Holds First Parley

The W club, lettermen's group, should take over all freshman initiation at Willamette university or drop it, the student executive council decided at its first meeting Tuesday night.

Homecoming this year was set for November 7 and 8 by the council, headed by Ralph May of Denver, student body president. Further social plans for the future were told by Marjorie Waters of Salem, first vice-president.

Ralph Schlesinger of Salem was affirmed as publications manager, a post created last spring and filled by election but vacated by resignation. A membership for the student body was taken out in the Salem Golf club.

Chapel suggestions were made to aid Dr. Carl S. Knopf, new president. A proposed excursion Thursday to the Willamette-University of Portland football game was approved.

Drop Revealed In September Building

Decrease by two-thirds in residential building cut September building permits in Salem to $96,-799 from the $134,448 total marked up in September, 1940, the office of City Building Inspector E. C. Bushnell said Tuesday. The nine-months total was slightly more than half that of 1940.

Only seven new dwelling permits were issued during the past month, totaling $22,680, in comparison to 20 permits adding to $72,758 a year ago.
