Tribute Paid Men of Tomorrow From Whose Ranks Leaders in Civic, National Life Rise

Today we pay tribute to THE MEN OF TOMORROW, for this day has been set aside as "National Newspaper Boy Day."

Little does the average person realize the problem and the hardships that these young men encounter. He thinks only of a newspaper boy as the young "scamp" who rides across their lawn, or as the "hoodlum" who bangs the paper too hard against his screen or window.

Or possibly as the "loudmouth kid" who whistles or sings while performing his day's work while others are sleeping. In plain words he doesn't consider that tomorrow these young men will be responsible for the destinies of the world.

These young men are classed as "Little Merchants." They buy their papers at wholesale and sell at retail. They collect from subscribers, then make their payments to the company. The difference between what they have collected and their payments is their profit. These boys need and deserve the utmost cooperation from their customers.

Like all good merchants, they realize that success in their business depends upon their ability to get new customers and to hold old customers. They realize that they must be able to sell their merchandise in order to make a success of their business. They must be salesmen.

Their supervisors are experienced people who give them valuable training and tips on how to meet people, naturally and pleasantly, help them to speak clearly and persuasively and show them the good points of their product.

These young men are at your service the year around. They must prepare themselves for any kind of weather. They work hard for their money. Because of these obstacles they realize the value of a dollar. Their work teaches them to invest their money so that they may get the most for what they spend. This training is of real value in preparing them for later business life.

The Oregon Statesman has many such boys. For ninety years, young men have started their business training by delivering The Statesman. Such well known men in Salem as John Roberts, Arthur Edwards, Frank Baker, John Faber, Bert Ford, Tom Holman, Jess George and many other Salem business men are ex-Statesman carriers.

These boys deserve your cooperation and they have a tough job. They are getting an early start in the business world. Let's not mislead or condemn them because of their vivacity. They are young business men.

Again we pay tribute to the Business Man of Tomorrow on his day!

Penn-Harvard, Fordham-SMU Duke-Tennessee Among Crucial Games Along Grid Front Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Despite opposition from the world series, the college football campaign swings into high for keeps Saturday, with the day's major interest provided by the Duke-Tennessee battle at Durham, N.C., and the meeting of Fordham and Southern Methodist at New York's Polo grounds.

Duke has two big obstacles in the way of an all-winning season, and Tennessee is the first. Fordham, already built up as likely eastern pace-setter, has a whole series of tough Saturday afternoons coming up, but few shape up as more difficult than this clash with the up-and-coming Mustangs. This holds true particularly since the Ram sophomore backs, upon whom so much will depend, get their first test in a major game.

With very little more evidence to go on than there was a week ago, we submit the following predictions (home teams listed first): Duke - Tennessee - Knoxville bookies had to give six points to get any bets from Tennessee followers. In spite of the Vols' jinx on Wallace Wade, that's a strong enough tipoff, Duke.

Fordham-Southern Methodist—Though the Ram line isn't up to the high Fordham par, neither is it made of paper mache. Behind it will be the finest collection of backs ever collected at Rose Hill. It should be Fordham's.

Tulane-Auburn—Off that Boston college showing, no choice but Tulane.

Stanford-UCLA—The Indians opened with a close one, and this may be another. Still, Stanford.

Texas-Louisiana State—A bit tougher than Colorado, but Texas takes it.

Navy-West Virginia—Bookie the Sailors to spike West Virginia's reputedly loaded guns.

Notre Dame-Indiana—The Hoosiers were vulnerable to Detroit passes, and Notre Dame scored heavily on passes in its opener. Off that, Notre Dame.

Southern California-Ohio State—Probably too long a trip for a team still absorbing a new system. Southern Cal.

Alabama-Mississippi State—State had a very tough time with Florida. Too tough, in fact. Alabama.

Iowa State-Nebraska—The Rose Bowl losers should be winners here. Nebraska.

Michigan-Iowa—A definite edge to Michigan.

Northwestern-Kansas State—Little more than rehearsal for Northwestern.

Penn-Harvard—As difficult a pick as the day presents. Harvard's squad is well-seasoned, has a fine back in Franny Lee and a fine end in Loren McKinney. Penn has lost Reagan, a blow to any team. Even with Reagan, Harvard did 'em last year. So—Harvard.

Oregon State-Washington—After Minnesota, anything should be a relief, Washington.

Washington State-California—California, which may achieve great things.

Cornell-Syracuse—The form chart says Syracuse, but watch out.

Lee Moody, Bedfast, Moves From Hospital to New Business-Home

A new chapter has been written in the life of Lee Moody whose ambition it is to support himself. Friday he was moved from the State tuberculosis hospital to his new home at 853 North High Street, where he will conduct a business of selling magazine subscriptions and Christmas cards.

Since graduation from high school in 1925, Moody has been bedridden. First with tuberculosis, and then with arthritis, which left all joints rigid except those of his arms. He has lived at the hospital all these years, although pronounced cured of tuberculosis three years ago.

Plans for his rehabilitation were worked out by the Marion County Health association. Funds for the project came from the Christmas seal fund.

Pictures, and a newspaper article in The Statesman in August, brought many responses to aid Moody. Offer of a home, donation of services of carpenters, plasterers and painters were given by the labor unions.

Work has now been completed on the quarters, an outside entrance was made so customers may go directly to his room. Mrs. Grace Himmel, in whose home he will live, will care for him.

10 Per Cent of World At Peace, Paper Finds

LUGANO—(AP)—Not more than 10 per cent of the globe's population has kept its skirt really clear of the present conflicts, says Corriere del Ticino, Italian language Swiss newspaper. The Corriere figures that of the world's 2,234,000,000 people, only 221,000,000 are in states which have not been involved in the war since it started in September, 1939.

There are 400,000,000 outside the conflict, but this figure includes "merely non-belligerents," says the newspaper, which then subtracts the populations of the United States and Spain to arrive at its estimate.

The greater part of this total consists of Latin American states: the Portuguese empire and Turkey account for 18,000,000 each; Moslem states which have remained out of the fight add 34,000,000, and Europe—Switzerland, Sweden and Ireland—14,000,000, with the final 2,000,000 coming from Liberia.

Even Jayvees See Action as Viks Win 48-0

Salem as the final quarter opened.

Bob Barber blocked a Pioneer punt and then recovered it on the Oregon City 10 to setup the final touchdown, which was carted across from the one-yard line by Darrell Lewis.

Bud Coons, called upon to punt twice, got off kicks of 43 and 62 yards. Johnny Hoffert twice sent kickoffs sailing across the goal line.

The Viks didn't attempt a single pass, being content to push their way down the field, which they did with utmost ease.

Fish Catches Sea Bird

OTTAWA, Canada—(AP)—Usually it's the bird who catches the fish, but banded birds turn up in strange places. The recovery of a full-grown ring-bill gull from the gullet of a large fish caught off the southern coast of Rhode Island this summer ranks among the most unusual items recorded by the department of mines and resources.

Moulded Verse Correct

ST. ALBANS, Vt.—(AP)—When Poet John C. Long says he "moulds" a bit of verse, he isn't kidding. Long is a moulder by trade along with being an established poet. He jumped straight from a foundry into the fire of rhyming when he was 40 years old and now, after seven years of writing, has published 73 poems and is soon to publish a new volume.
