She said her son made the report, and that the girl was back home Monday night.

Marion County Grand Jury Goes Into Session Early; Report Anticipated Sometime Today

Marion county's grand jury went into session Thursday morning because witnesses in several of the routine criminal matters under consideration would not be available for a later session, District Attorney Miller B. Hayden said Thursday night.

The unusual situation of a grand jury session early in the regular term of circuit court was noted in courthouse circles particularly because of crowded benches in the court-floor hallway and numbers of persons using the elevator. A report from the grand jury sometime today is anticipated.

Meantime, the contest of the Lena Ridders will continue before Judge E. M. Page in circuit court, who expects the case to be brought to a close today. It involves the $30,000 estate left in the will to Sister Mary Bertha, Mt. Angel Benedictine sister, who is also a sister of the deceased. H. T. Ridders, John Ridders and E. J. Ridders, brothers of Lena Ridders and of the Catholic sister, and Frederick Ridders, their nephew, are contesting the document, claiming undue influence was used and that Miss Ridders was mentally incapacitated at the time it was drawn.

One Hurt in Four-Way WILLAMINA, Oct. 9—(AP)—Two trucks, an automobile and a train were involved in a grade crossing accident east of Sheridan Wednesday night but only George Agee was hurt. He suffered head cuts as his car hit the train at an unlighted fog-shrouded crossing. One truck also hit the train, the other ran into the ditch to avoid it.

Serge A. Koussevitzky

Unless all members of the Boston Symphony orchestra become affiliated with the American Federation of Musicians, Serge Alexandrovich Koussevitzky, above, well-known conductor of the orchestra, will not be permitted to fulfill his projected two-week engagement as a guest conductor of the New York Philharmonic orchestra next January. Such was the edict handed down by James Caesar Petrillo, president of the federation in New York. According to Petrillo, the Boston Symphony is the only orchestra, large or small, that is not in the federation, which, Petrillo said, covers 138,000 musicians in the U. S. and Canada.

Ex-Officer Gets Parole

The state parole board Thursday authorized the parole of Al D. Goddard, serving an 18-month term in the state penitentiary here for larceny by embezzlement while employed as head of the state police accounting department.

Goddard's release is contingent upon receiving a position satisfactory to the parole board.

He was received at the prison on April 3, 1941, and has served approximately six months.

Reservations for the dinner, which will be one of Pop Crary's steak dinners, can be made until this noon by calling the church office at 9234. After the dinner, a 7:30 worship service, followed by an address by Harvey, will be held in the church auditorium.

Penalty Rate Is Faced by Some Employers

Approximately 200 employers still are subject to penalty rate contributions this month despite the September payments that boosted the unemployment compensation fund above the 6 per cent "ceiling," unemployment compensation commission officials announced Thursday.

While the fund is now more than $250,000 above the $14,373,511 ceiling, the elimination of penalty rates affects only fourth quarter payrolls, taxes on which are due in January, the commissioners said. This full range of experience rates from 1 to 4 per cent applies on third quarter wages, contributions on which are due before October 31.

Hereafter, statements will be made quarterly. Now tax rates, based on experience to the end of 1941, will be computed each year for the 1942 payrolls.
