

Russians Say Nazis Halted

Repeated Attacks on Moscow, Leningrad Are Thrown Back

The claim was substantially denied in London, the invaders were developing a new encirclement maneuver against soviet armies claimed to be in heading flight.

Nazi sources sought to give the impression that the fall of both Kharkov and Rostov was imminent; as to the latter it was stated that German forces still were advancing east of Taganrog, which itself is but 30 miles short of Rostov.

Already, Berlin asserted, the water section of the immensely important soviet oil supply line running from Baku in the Caucasus along the eastern extremity of the Black sea, had been cut by the declared fall of Taganrog, the point at which oil brought by tanker from the Caucasus had been transhipped by rail to Moscow. Alternate through rail transport was acknowledged to be still functioning, but this route was said to be in easy range of nazi bombers.

The soviet, not conceding the loss of Taganrog, reported violent and apparently inconclusive fighting about the town.

German commentators spoke of the probability that Russian reinforcements would have to be brought up for the defense of the south, implying that these troops must come from the soviet far eastern garrisons, facing which the Japanese stand in Manchukuo.

As to Moscow, the Germans said very little Monday. An authoritative commentary, the Dienst aus Deutschland, offered the inference—but only that—that fighting had reached points "within Moscow's fortifications zone."

The same agency in effect said that the siege of Leningrad was likely to be only that for some time to come, remarking:

"Precipitate prestige attack on this city, whose every cellar perhaps is loaded with explosives, would now demand unjustifiable sacrifices. . . . Leningrad's hour, however, will strike just as surely as did Kiev or Odessa."

This concession that Leningrad's fall—which had been claimed as imminent half a dozen times—was still in the unknown view appeared interesting in view of the fact that Moscow's inner defenses are generally presumed to be at least as strong, if not much stronger.

From Moscow the soviet wireless spoke only infrequently, but in one of its broadcasts it delivered a manifesto by Pravda, the official communist newspaper, which declared that German "masses in dead and wounded agony the whole of the Russian front now approached 4,000,000, but added:

"Still these accursed locusts come on!"

London informants summed up the situation generally by saying that effective Russian counterattacks were proceeding at the center before Moscow; that the Germans were having serious trouble in the south in spite of their claims to large successes, and that before Leningrad they apparently had been forced from the offensive to the defense.

The soviet itself claimed a series of victories in the far north about the Arctic port of Murmansk which were declared to have resulted in a general German withdrawal. Earlier Russian accounts had stated that the nazis had been forced back to positions they had held more than three months ago.

Paroled Convict Held in Series Of Thefts in Rural Districts

Arthur Simpson Hildebrandt, whose period of parole from the state penitentiary was to have expired in May, was sent to McMinnville, Monday, by the Marion county sheriff's office after a series of thefts had assertedly been traced to him because of his automobile license.

Hildebrandt had served two years of a six-year term for larceny, convicted in Douglas county. Hildebrandt told Deputy Sheriff Pittenger, the officer said Monday night, that he had stolen so much particularly from rural areas in the past few weeks that he could not tell where the farm machinery and building materials found at his house on Park avenue really did belong.

The ex-convict, against whom larceny charges have been filed in Yamhill county and who is said to face similar charges in Linn, declared his illegal activities had been carried on while he was under the influence of fortified wine, indicating that on at least one occasion he had returned some of the loot.

Plumbing fixtures taken approximately six weeks ago from a new residence in Carlton, later returned, were not among his acquisitions, he stoutly maintained, although first suspicion was cast on him at that time when a car near the scene of the theft was traced by its license number to him. By the time the warrant for his arrest in that case had been issued the articles had been returned.

However, Hildebrandt is said to have admitted taking wool from a Linn county warehouse, later returning it.

Some of the motors and threshing belt taken from Hildebrandt's house had been identified as those missing near Amity recently, Pittenger said Monday night, although ownership of a variety of the recovered articles was still unknown.

The salt spray, however, drifted across the seawall and irritated workmen trying to oil a roadbed.

NEWPORT, Ore., Oct. 20 (AP)—A light earth shock of only a second's duration was reported here at 10:05 p. m. Sunday at Seal Rocks, 11 miles south of here on the Oregon coast.

W. W. Jones, former Bonneville dam geologist who reported the tremor, said it might have centered in a fault on the continental shelf 100 miles off shore where other disturbances have been reported in recent years.

There was speculation here that earlier but unfeet quakes might have caused the unusually heavy surf of recent days that washed out two bridges and damaged boats along the coast.

Although tides were high Monday, seas were not overly rough. At Tillamook, north of here, the surf was reported lessening and the wind was dying down.

Hull Declares For US Action

Says "No Notes" to Highways; Solons Want More Details

the course which we are now pursuing, and which I have repeatedly protested. It is a course which must inevitably lead to war."

From Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) came the assertion that "the time has come for the American people to put American might behind American right and reply to Hitler in the only language he knows—force."

Thus far, the navy has issued two brief announcements on the incident. The first, last Friday, said word had been received that the Kearny, new, 1830-ton destroyer, had been torpedoed about 350 miles southwest of Iceland while on patrol duty but was able to proceed under her own power. No casualties were indicated, the announcement added.

Then, Sunday night, a second announcement said the Kearny had reached a port, not identified, and reported that 10 of her crew were injured and 11 "missing."

Officially, the navy continued Monday to list those 11 as "missing" but men in the service regarded it as a foregone conclusion that they were dead—blown from the vessel by the explosion of the torpedo or trapped and drowned in watertight compartments which were closed automatically to prevent the entire ship from filling with water.

Hull made the disclosure that the Kearny had suffered 21 casualties, an occasion for a vigorous new denunciation of the German government.

Torpedoes, he said, is one more incident in a series illustrating the known and confessed effort of Adolf Hitler to get control of the seas as well as of the continents.

He went on to say that Hitler has notified all nations to keep out of an area measuring 1600 by 1500 miles, in other words a large portion of the north Atlantic, and has warned that no nation—in self-defense or otherwise—shall send a ship into that area without the penalty of having it sunk without a trace.

What Hitler proposes, of course, the secretary continued, is to drive other countries off the high seas, by intimidation or force, as part of his program of conquest.

Sarcastically, Hull added that if ships and nationals of other countries were to oblige Hitler by getting off the seas he supposed the nazis leader next would want them to get off the earth.

Asked if the United States navy had inflicted any damage on axis warships since President Roosevelt issued his "shoot first" orders to the fleet, Hull replied he had nothing especially new on that subject and referred his questioners to the navy department.

Premier Asks Japan Unity

Newspapers Say War Unwanted but Won't Take "Challenge"

Yokohama for Seattle and the Taiyo Maru sailed from Hobe for Honolulu. A third ship, the Tetsu Maru, was already en route from Yokohama to San Francisco on the same mission.

One of Tojo's first steps as he settled into his new authority upon return by plane from a pilgrimage to the grand shrine to the sun goddess at Ise was to order a sweeping and unexpected change in Japan's police bureau heads.

Tojo's unity appeal was made in an order of the day to his subordinates in the war office. The new premier holds also the posts of war minister and home minister.

Evidence of his determination to rule with a strong hand at home while presenting a stern front to other nations was seen in the police shakeup and in a settlement as he took over the home ministry.

In this he insisted it was his first determination to "ensure peace and order" but declined to elaborate on the statement, telling Japanese reporters "there has been too much talk already."

Nazi "Attack" On Italy Hit

ROME, Oct. 20 (AP)—Fascists declared Monday that the idea of a German attack on Italy was ridiculous and said the hint of such by Breckinridge Long, United States assistant secretary of state, was nothing but propaganda.

They said Long's Sunday broadcast asserting that Germany was asking for 1,000,000 Italian troops perhaps to make a German attack on Italy easier failed to comprehend "the bond of alliance and ideals between the two nations." The broadcast was beamed toward Italy.

The 54th squadron of the 85th pursuit group, under command of Lieut. Thomas W. Jackson; the 57th material squadron, a detachment from Company B, 81st quartermaster battalion and a part of the Fourth chemical company.

While civilian members of the army's air raid warning service are manning their posts throughout the Willamette valley, civilian defense and air raid precautions organizations will seek to perfect their own programs. Civilian activity will peak in the conduct of many valley points' first test blackouts the night of October 31.

Extensive efforts will be made to entertain the airmen and ground crews during their fortnight stay in Salem. The officers will be given a banquet at the Marion hotel Thursday night with a brief program of music and speeches. Plans are being made for a dance for both officers and men. Arrangements have been made for use of the YMCA and the Elks club by the visitors.

SAN JOSE, Calif., Oct. 20 (AP)—The third explosion since the new $10,000,000 permanent magnesium plant opened at Los Altos recently, Monday severely burned two workmen.

One man was killed and eight injured in an explosion Saturday. Three others were killed in a magnesium fire shortly after the plant opened.

Mott With Committee Inspecting Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Oct. 20 (AP)—An eight-man sub-committee of the house naval affairs committee arrived by plane from the United States Monday for a two-day inspection of American naval bases under construction in Bermuda. Members of the group included Rep. Mott (R-Ore.).

in other words

Some weeks back I wrote here—and I blush with shame at the memory—that I was thinking of trading in my 1939 Hispano-Plymouth. Well, I was nuts! Because I've just found out that all it needed was new spark plugs and a touch of tinkering with the timer.

It's now gone almost 40 thousand miles, and it doesn't even need its valves ground. Sell it! Not old John!

Now, I've come to the conclusion that one of the reasons it continues to perform so well is that it's never had a drop of anything but Triton motor oil in its crankcase.

Anyway there's not enough carbon to make it worth while scraping out, and as near as I can see it's not likely to need attention for about 15 thousand miles more.

Triton is made by Union's exclusive Propane Solvent Process which not only turns out 100% pure paraffin-base oil, but oil that forms very little carbon. And the newer your car is, the more important is an oil that has low carbon-forming tendencies. Triton, for example.

So look, if you're having carbon trouble in your family buggy, why don't you switch to Triton? It won't grind valves for you, or cure knock—but as per above, it has given us the most amazing performance I've ever had since I traded in my bludge in 1937!

City Tables Pinball Act

Council Expected to Favor at Next Meet; Architect Chosen

der operation of the ordinance would be in collection of the $107 annual license fee asked of distributors and the $5 a month fee per machine.

Because of the financial loss involved by delay, the final paragraph of the ordinance declares, an emergency clause is attached putting the measure into use immediately upon passage. Nine of the city's 13 aldermen are declared to have indicated they will support the ordinance.

The council passed without argument a resolution from the airport committee authorizing the mayor and city recorder to enter into a contract with Lyle P. Bartholomew to design and oversee construction of an administration building at the municipal airport, receiving as pay 5 per cent of the money involved.

An expenditure of not to exceed $1000 for a temporary building to serve as headquarters at the airport for United Airlines to be secured, only with the promise of the airlines that it will be leased and used for that purpose, was authorized.

Formal action of the council directed city officials to turn over to the state highway department $1093.32 to be used in purchase and installation of the semi-traffic actuated signal at Center and Capitol approved during the summer.

Also included in the formal action category was that given city officials authority to sign a release to the DuPont Powder company to accompany the $1000 paid that firm for its costs in moving a powder storage building from property near the airport and for the lease it relinquished there.

Thirty new cots for Hotel de Minto, city-community chest dormitory for transient men, at a total cost not to exceed $35 may be purchased, the council voted.

Claim of Myrie Morrow for $89.35 damages alleged sustained in a collision with a dirt bankment at the High and Marion streets' intersection was denied on recommendation of the city attorney.

Formal notification that the CAA portion of the city's airport construction is complete with the remainder of the city's agreement to maintain the field was read.
