Woodburn Council Elects New Members; Contracts for Road Work; Hears Curb Complaint

WOODBURN — At the Woodburn city council meeting Tuesday, Killian Smith, proprietor of the P. N. Smith furniture store, Woodburn, was unanimously elected to fill the unexpired term of Councilman Fred Miller, resigned.

Miller's written resignation, dated October 20, had been received by Mayor Austin who presented it to the council.

Mayor Austin announced that Smith would belong to the same committee Miller had. This includes the power committee, the other member of which is Elmer Mattson. Charles Hanks was spokesman for a group of residents along Hardcastle avenue, who complained that the new curb being put in on the north side of the street makes it difficult to drive cars in or out of driveways. In some places the curb will be from 10 to 14 inches below the sidewalks and at the same time only 18 inches from the sidewalk's edge. The council decided to consult the engineer who had surveyed the street to determine if a change can be made.

A contract was agreed upon between the city and state highway commission, under which the commission will expend $827 in material and labor on three Woodburn streets between this date and the end of 1942.

Work the commission proposes doing in Woodburn includes placing new asphalt on Front street from Harrison north to the city limits; placing non-skid on the old part of the pavement on East Lincoln street and also some improvement on Hardcastle avenue.

The city marshal was authorized to hire an extra police officer for duty Halloween night. A request from the local Foursquare church to move a light pole was heard. The pole, almost directly in front of the church, was named a hazard. The matter was referred to a committee.

The council voted to accept $150 in settlement of a sidewalk construction lien against the Debut place on Gatch street. The original lien of 14 years ago was $172.94 which with interest now amounts to $302.68. The property consists of two acres.

The council and League of Oregon Cities representatives went over the city ordinance to assist in the codification of the ordinance.

Mrs. Herman Stone entertained the members of WSCS of the Methodist church Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. John Porter was assisting hostess.

Mrs. A. E. Lytle, president of the group, was absent and Mrs. James Livesay, chairman of the program committee presided.

The annual chicken dinner on November 4 in the basement of the Methodist church was discussed and chairmen of the various committees were appointed: kitchen, Mrs. Charles Jones; dining room, Mrs. Jess Fisher; bazaar, Mrs. James Livesay; soliciting, Mrs. George Beach. The Epworth league will have charge of the candy sale.

The devotional services were conducted by Mrs. A. E. Austin. Refreshments were served from a table centered with a Halloween arrangement. Mrs. J. Melvin Ringo and Mrs. Wallace Jones presided at the urns. Mrs. James Livesay assisted Mrs. Stone in serving.
