

Local News Briefs

White Cloth Wanted—Contributions of old sheets, white shirts and other good-sized pieces of white cotton cloth are sought by Marion county chapter, American Red Cross, for use as emergency bandages, it has been announced at chapter offices. Squads of first aid workers have been organized in every district of Salem and each squad's captain is to have in his or her home packages of clean and sterilized emergency bandages. Only requirement for gifts of this sort is the organization is that they be clean, white cotton or linen; a committee of women is to sterilize and prepare the bandages. Similar squads and committees are to be organized shortly in other communities of the county, Olive Doak Bynon, Marion chapter secretary, said Wednesday.

Improvement Requested—County Engineer N. C. Hubbs was Wednesday directed by County Judge Grant Murphy to have a nonskid surface laid over planking on a bridge south of Marion on the Marion-Jefferson highway. Cars are skidding there during current frosty weather, one army truck having gone into a ditch, the judge said. The road itself has a fair nonskid surface, it was said Wednesday in the engineer's office, but the bridge is slippery and a curve leads into one approach tending to make driving difficult for those not familiar with the route.
