Streamlined "Car of Tomorrow" Travels 185 Miles Per Hour

Traveling at more than 3 miles a minute, this "Car of Tomorrow" little ahead of our time, the tires on which the record was made are smashed the record for racing on "stock" tires when it clocked 185.2 the Riversides many motorists here have bought from the regular stock m.p.h in a recent run at Muroc Dry Lake course in California. The super-racer has a 26-foot one-piece aluminum shell designed after the most modern fighting planes, and a motor that develops 200 horsepower. Although the dramatic lines of this car do put it a permits by the ration boards.
