Advice Given On Air Raids

School at West Salem Gets Instructions; Faculty Man Named

WEST SALEM—The school teachers have received the following instructions from the US office of civilian defense telling what the teachers and pupils should do during an air raid:

"The school fire alarm should be sounded in a special way for the air raid signal. Each class should then leave its room and go to the air raid refuge. Pupils should not be permitted to leave the building or go to their homes.

"The pupils should file from the classroom in the same way, in the same order, and under the same leaders to the air raid shelter, as for the fire alarm drill.

"The air raid refuge should be a large inside hall, preferably in the basement.

"Teachers and older pupils should know how to use the fire extinguishers in case incendiaries hit the building. If the fire gets beyond control the regular fire alarm should be sounded and the pupils should be conducted to the shelter in nearby homes.

"To summarize the last steps, instructions should be started at once and drills should be practiced until the pupils are thoroughly accustomed to it."

These instructions are given from the same source for the parents of school children:

"If an air raid should come while your children are at school, stay at home and go to your own air raid refuge.

"Do not try to reach the school. Stay off the street.

"Do not try to telephone. The wires must be kept clear for the wardens, the police, and the fire department."

In conclusion it states: "This is hard advice. It's not easy to take, but it is for your best interest and for the welfare of your children."

SILVERTON—Resignations of two Silvertown teachers were accepted by the Silvertown school board at its Wednesday night meeting.

Mrs. Roger Quackenbush, the former Eleanor Aspinwall, resigned as she was married during the holidays, and Marguerite Johnson gave up her job, her resignation to take effect January 30, the end of the present school semester.

Senior high school boys will be permitted to enroll in the three-hour afternoon class over which William Gates will have supervision. These boys will receive manual training high school credit.
