Jury Indicts Woman Forger Now in Pen

The name of Ellen Swenson, who allegedly admitted to California officers that she was the writer of checks for another woman had been arrested and indicted in Marion county last fall, headed the two indictments brought in Tuesday by Marion county grand jurors.

Charged by the grand jury with uttering and publishing a forged bank check for $12.95 to S. Schlesinger, Salem dress shop proprietor, she will be required to appear here after she has finished serving a term on a similar charge in Tehachapi women's prison in California, officers here said.

John Camden, who allegedly burglarized the Daue drug store on South Commercial street late in October, was indicted in the second true bill reported by the grand jury.

Jess J. Mitchell was released from charges of threatening to commit a felony against his wife in the one not-true bill reported by the jury.

Dairy Owner Talks Horses For Delivery

Reinstatement of horse-drawn vehicles on his milk routes, other than those in the most heavily populated sections of Salem, was suggested here Tuesday by Hans Hofstetter, proprietor of Curly's dairy, which claims to handle 50 per cent of the milk distribution for Salem.

Hofstetter said consolidation of milk deliveries in Salem and other Oregon towns and cities would conserve a large amount of rubber and gasoline.

Salem and Stayton Tire Ration Boards Announce First Okehs

First announcements of approved tire purchasers were made Tuesday by Salem and Stayton ration boards in accordance with federal requirements that names of those receiving certificates be made public.

Salem's list of 25 consists of L. M. Alsman, M. Crouser, William Graen, Herman Schoen, Valley Fruit Produce, E. G. Weathers, Fred E. Wells, Dwight Wyatt, James Anderson, Nels Anderson, William Moriarty, Charles Seacat, Albert Sommer, Wesley Webb, Curtis Winegar, Myrle Lose, Pauline Corning, A. J. Haslebacher, Dempsey Glover, Lyle Lorentz, Gordon Jasse, Clyde Mayfield, L. Shuttleworth, Clarence Van Boening and Cleo Keppinger.

Because would-be purchasers must sign their certificates in the presence of a board member or clerk, those approved in Salem who have not already received their certificates are asked to call at 560 Leslie street to sign and receive the permits.

Stalton's ration board, in Saturday night session, allowed nine certificates for tires which may be obtained by calling at the board office, H. J. Rowe, chairman, has announced.

Approved as purchasers are Mack Hamby, Jefferson; Tony Steincamp and Clarence Goffin, Aumsville; W. A. Rankin, Turner; Byron B. Shuck, Paul Lambrecht, George Neitling, Fred Fery and H. A. Baysinger, all of Stayton.

Stayton board Saturday also announced authorization as inspectors of Claud Lewis and George Schlies, Stayton; Roy Phillippi, Mehama; Roy McKee, Jefferson; O. E. Roberts, Aumsville; J. H. Wolf and Theo. Minden, jr., of Sublimity.

Pointing out that quotas are not cumulative from month to month, Rowe Tuesday urged logging operators and other users of heavy duty tires to place their applications while a quota is still available and before the anticipated spring rush begins, lest operations be tied up.

Sidestepped Death in Pearl Harbor Attack

Ensign R. E. Thomas, jr. of Rockford, Ill., a 1941 Annapolis graduate, said he literally sidestepped death by running three steps from a bomb which killed four of his mates in the attack on Pearl Harbor. Here, with his mother, Mrs. R. E. Thomas (center), Ensign Thomas is about to receive a piece of cake from Nurse L. Miner in a San Francisco bay area naval hospital.

Circuit Judge Page Orders New Rules on Motions in Court; McMahan to Instruct Jury

Instructions to the jury in the $4638 damage action of M. D. Vinyard vs. Postal Telegraph company are to be followed this morning in Judge L. H. McMahan's department of circuit court with opening of the damage case of Fish vs. Southern Pacific company.

A new set of rules for his department is to be issued shortly, Judge E. F. Page announced Tuesday during motion day proceedings. Only two readings of motions will be in order henceforth and if the proponent has not appeared at the expiration of the time allowed, the motion is to be automatically overruled and the proponent given 10 days in which to plead further.

Docket in his department crowded up to March 30, Judge Page Tuesday set for hearing Rader vs. Barner, March 30; Klett vs. Klorfein, March 31; Bedient vs. Anderson, April 1, and Penney vs. Rutherford, April 2.

Coordinator Plans Request for Operation of Statewide Radio Network to Aid Civil Defense

Request for operation of a statewide civilian defense amateur radio network will be stressed by Jerrold Owen, state civilian defense coordinator, at a meeting of defense coordinators of western states and federal officials in San Francisco January 29.

Owen said Tuesday he already had appealed to the federal communications commission which ordered all amateurs off the air and to army officials. He pointed out that the network would be of vital importance in event of invasion or air attack, when telephone service probably would be suspended for an indefinite period.

In such emergency Owens said the radio would provide the only means of communications between the state and county defense councils.

"I can see no reason why the network should not be authorized to operate," Owen declared. Owen said the government ordered amateurs off the air to prevent fifth column activity, but it could permit the network to operate if the federal bureau of investigation checked each operator in the state.

"It would be extremely difficult to send air raid alarms to counties without the network, provided telephone and other communication lines were out of commission," Owen said.

Leslie Names New Leaders; Vote 'Upset'

Jack Slater was elected president of the Leslie junior high school student body on a ballot, which students declared was featured by upsets. Vice presidential winner was Janet Gibson. New secretary is Delores Clement; treasurer, Leah Smith; sergeant-at-arms, Bud Smith; yell leader, Don McLaughlin; song leader, Dorothy Boyes.

A special assembly late next week is planned for installation of the new officers.

Every roll room has been represented on the executive council in a new system of student government tried at Leslie this year. Roll rooms in which there are no officers have elected other representatives.

Retiring as student body leaders are Deb McLaughlin, president; Mary Lou McKay, vice president; Peggy Paxson, secretary; Donald Eastridge, treasurer; Robert Strebig, sergeant-at-arms; Billy Cox, yell leader, and Marcia Moore, song leader.
