Barbara Crain Became Boyd Brown's Bride At Church Rites

Miss Barbara Crain is now Mrs. Boyd Elden Brown. The young people were married at a beautiful ceremony Saturday night at St. Paul's Episcopal church. It was at 8:30 o'clock that the vows were exchanged with Rev. George Herbert Swift officiating before several hundred people.

Arrangements of cala lilies and cathedral tapers in candelabras decorated the altar and chancel. Miss Ruth Bedford played the wedding marches.

On the arm of her uncle, Mr. Theodore Arenz of Portland, the tall slender bride proceeded down the center aisle to the altar. Of ivory faille brocaded in chenille was her princess style gown. The waist was tight fitting and made with a high neckline and round collar. The sleeves were wrist length and tiny self covered buttons extended from neck to waist in front. The flowing skirt terminated in a full, circular train.

Her ivory veil of illusion was train length and cascaded from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a quaint bouquet with a lace frill of Ophelia roses and bouvardia. Mr. Harry N. Crain gave his daughter in marriage.

Preceding the bride were her two maids of honor, Miss Marylee Fry and Miss Barbara Johnson of Klamath Falls, Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority sisters. Their frocks were identical and were met over taffeta. Miss Fry wore mist pink and Miss Johnson's was moon blue. The skirts were full and the torso length bodices were enhanced with gold thread embroidery forming a floral design. The necklines were round and the sleeves were short.

They wore shoulder length matching tulle veils and carried fan shape bouquets of pink sweet peas and blue iris. Clasp around their necks were gold clover leaf lockets, gifts of the bride.

Standing with Mr. Brown as best man was Mr. Merle Berry of Portland and seating the guests were Mr. Bill Snell and Mr. William Rickman of Eugene.

Mrs. Crain chose a model of black crepe and lace with black velvet ribbon insertions for her daughter's wedding. In her hair was an arrangement of gardenias. Mrs. Waldo Brown of Hubbard was present for her son's marriage and wore a pink lace gown with orchid corsage.

The Crain home was the scene of the wedding reception. Bouquets of white stock and freesias decorated the living room where the bridal party received. The bride's table was centered with the cake which was encircled with a wreath of smilax and gardenias. White candles in silver holders guarded the arrangements.

Grandmother Cuts Cake Mrs. Noble J. Crain of Chico, Calif., cut her granddaughter's cake. She wore a black velvet gown and gardenias. Assisting in the living and dining rooms were Mrs. Frederick Lamport, Mrs. Theodore Arenz of Portland, Mrs. E. M. Page, Mrs. Daniel J. Fry, jr., Mrs. David Bennett Hill, Mrs. George Otten, Mrs. Walter Spaulding, Mrs. E. J. Scellars, Mrs. Donald C. Roberts, Mrs. Ronald A. Gemmill and Miss Rovena Eyre. A group of friends who assisted in serving were the Misses Barbara Miller, Marianne Owen, Sybil Spears, Sally McLellan, Leone Spaulding, Patricia and Suzanna Schramm of Corvallis and Nancy Dutton.

The newlyweds went north on their wedding trip, and Mrs. Brown wore a tailored moss green silk crepe frock with antique tan accessories and squirrel jacket. Her corsage was of violets and freesias. Mr. and Mrs. Brown's new address will be 1819 East Republican street, Seattle.

The bride was a member of the Spinners until her marriage and served as president this year. She completed her sophomore year at the University of Oregon and wears the Kappa Kappa Gamma key. Her husband is a graduate of the University of Oregon and his fraternity is Theta Chi. He is now with Boeing Aircraft.

Christening to Be Held Today

Don't Look Now..

but... We girls who belong to the Culinary Conservation Corps have adopted the slogan of "Keep Us Frying."

Street scenes... Driving around the block looking for a parking place, we saw a policeman put a woman driver out of a loading zone. She drove on, the length of two cars, double parked and went off and left the car in the middle of the street. Pity the poor policeman in a situation like that.

No peace... Even the poor old toothpaste tubes can't call their souls their own. They are now listed under those things we must save for defense. It's a grand day though for the hoarding housewife who has saved everything since the year one. Even at that, I bet she never saved old tooth paste tubes.

"Move over little tin can... and let me in" said the glass jars put in prominent places to be filled for infantile paralysis relief. The man who put them out said it was merely a matter of pushing 14 others aside to make room for this one.

Line forms on right... We find the lineup at the defense saving stamp window as long as it's been at the auto loan wicket all these years.

It never rains... We have ordered several nice sunny days for next weekend. We want to dig in the ground. Let's see how influential we are with the now entirely unpublicized weather man... Maxine Buren.

Fry-Terhaar Vows Said

Miss Patricia Terhaar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Terhaar of Mt. Angel, became the bride of Mr. Avril O. Fry, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Fry of Scotts Mills, at St. Pauls Catholic church in Silverton at 8 o'clock Thursday morning January 22. The ceremony was read by Rev. Father John Greene.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a suit of soldier blue with accessories to match, and her corsage was of gardenias and bouvardia.

Mrs. Bill Imper, sister of the groom, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a dark blue suit, and her flowers were fleur-de-lis. Mr. John Terhaar, brother of the bride, was best man.

The bride's mother wore black with a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother wore dark blue, with a corsage of pink carnations.

A wedding dinner was served in the banquet room of Toney's Cafe in Silverton to the wedding party and guests.
