Choose Meat To Please Family

Weather that demands good food and plenty of it, is what we are having these last-of-the-winter days. Look to your cookbook for good meat dishes that will fill up a hungry family, but won't go too hard on the wartime budget. Here are a few dishes every family should eat occasionally. All are favorites with many households.

CORNED BEEF

Cover corned beef with water and simmer until tender. Do not boil. A piece weighing 4 to 6 pounds will require about 4 hours.

Serve hot or cold on meat tray or in sandwiches.

If served cold, corned beef may be left in the cooking liquor until partially cooled.

CORNED BEEF AND CABBAGE

Cook corned beef as described above. About 15 minutes before corned beef is done, add cabbage cut into wedge-shaped pieces. Boil uncovered 10 to 15 minutes.

BAKED CORNED BEEF

Simmer corned beef in water until tender. Place outside up on a rack in an open pan. Sift brown sugar over the top. Stick with cloves. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) about 15 minutes or until well browned.

BRAISED SHORT RIBS OF BEEF

3 pounds short ribs
1/2 cup tomatoes
Salt and pepper
Onions
Potatoes
Carrots
Brown the short ribs in a heavy kettle or in a hot oven. Add tomatoes. Season. Cover and cook slowly or bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 2 hours. Cook peeled onions, potatoes and small carrots with the ribs.

BAKED SPARERIBS

Time: 1 1/2 hours
Place spareribs on top of a layer of bread dressing or cooked sauerkraut in an open pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 1 1/2 hours or until the spareribs are cooked and brown.

Serve with oven browned potatoes, and cole slaw.

BARBECUED SPARERIBS

3 pounds spareribs
2 onions
1/2 cup ketchup
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1 tablespoon Worcestershire
1 cup water
Cut ribs into serving portions. Place in baking dish. Slice onions over the meat. Mix ketchup, chili powder, Worcestershire and water. Pour over ribs. Cover and bake in a moderately slow oven (325 degrees) for 2 hours. Remove cover and brown well. Serve with rice or boiled potatoes, tart pickle and hard rolls.

Today's Menu

Menu for today will begin with a tossed green salad, but the featured dish will be the meat.

Tossed green salad
Stuffing spread lamb chops
Baked squash
Fresh new turnips
Orange shortcake

STUFFING SPREAD SHOULDER LAMB CHOPS

4 chops
1 1/2 cups cubed bread
1/2 cup cooked peas
1 tablespoon minced onions
1/4 cup diced celery
1 tablespoon butter, melted
1 egg, beaten
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup tomato juice

Sprinkle chops with a little salt and pepper. Brown on both sides in two tablespoons fat. Mix bread, peas, seasonings, butter and egg. Spread on the chops, add juice and lid. Cook 25 minutes over moderate heat. Garnish with parsley and surround with baked squash.

New Sports Clothes Are Smarter, More Colorful

Left, ski suit in green and red; center, two-tone gray skating outfit; right, skating costume consisting of black and white check wool blouse, red velvet skirt.

Don't neglect your winter sports even if you are busy with defense work, as Uncle Sam wants every girl to be in the pink of condition. The ski and skating clothes are smarter and more colorful, as well as more practical, than ever before, so get yourself some new duds and finish up the cold season with a bang. Jinx Fallenberg, left, has selected a ski suit with green gabardine pants topped by a red gabardine jacket with zipper front closing. Heart-shaped belt purse of red felt with felt flowers applied on it, white wool mittens, flower embroidered, and scarf with printed flowers, are the accessories. Elizabeth Fraser, center, models a skating costume with gray flannel skirt topped by a hip-length, double-breasted jacket in lighter gray, with which she wears bright red socks and mittens and red, white and black scarf and cap. Right is Janet Blair who has chosen a blouse of fine wool-in-black and white check, bare skirt of bright red velvet faced with the check. White socks with design of little red men, completes the ensemble.
