A LA MEXICO-Flank steak is a fine-flavored meat of the thrifty cut class. It is boneless so there's no waste. Because the meat fibers run lengthwise, it is necessary to score the surface or form a roll and cut across the grain in serving. Flank steak should be braised. Season and brown the rolled steak, add 2 cups tomatoes or tomato juice. Cover and bake in a moderate oven about 11/2 hour. Add 2 cups canned red beans. Cook 1/2 hour. Serve very hot. A pinch of chili powder and 1/4 cup of minced onion may be added to the beans.

Soups Give Flavor to Sauces

They'll be taking some tinned foods away from us perhaps, but the tin can holds handy creamed soups is still on the list of foods to be found at the grocers.

Creamed soups used to be considered a concoction merely to eat in a soup plate, accompanied by crackers. The tinned varieties were merely to be used in emergencies. But we are now a nation of soup eaters, not onlyas such, in main dishes, sauces and gravies. Here are three short-cut sauces, using creamed soup. All are excellent not only as time savers, but for their downright practicability and goodness.
