Drive Starts For Students War-Stricken

Food, resistance and reconstruction are words that picture the Europe of today, declared Roland Elliot, executive secretary of the national council of Student Christian Associations, Monday as he opened the Willamette university campaign for $250 to aid students in war-struck countries, under the World Service Student Fund.

Elliot said he went to Europe, in November, skeptical as to whether anything constructive could be done under such conditions of oppression. He returned here in January after visiting university centers, refugee centers and prison camps.

Food is the capital question, Elliot was told, because lack of vitamins has incapacitated people so they can't use their enforced leisure to concentrate on the future. The mortality rate is up more than 40 per cent. The people in such regions as occupied France are not hopeless, but have resistance based on seeking of basic Christian principles.

In reconstruction, the conquered nation's bitterness has produced the realization it would not solve their problems - they went to overcome nationalism.

Elliot said the relief agencies are giving students a chance to go on and study, to break the monotony and to know there are others who are also concerned about the world's future.

in other words

The professor's wife was on the telephone. Would I please rush over? I would... and did! She greeted me with that patient, resigned expression which got the prof was in the garage. Would I come around and... she sighed and shook her head.

It was pretty bad. There was the prof entirely surrounded by what looked like a clearance sale in a small-park junk yard. Lately and disconcerted, the family car, or rather its chassis, rose out of the ruins.

The professor had started out merely to check the spark-plugs. While he was at it he tried open the distributor, then the oil filter. One thing led to another, and another led to... chaos!

So I told him - and I want to tell you - about the Union Oil Minute Men and their "Expert Care To Save Car Wear." Now they're not mechanics; but they spend all their time around autos. They're full of helpful hints and information about every kind of car under the sun.

So before you're tempted to tinker with your puddle-jumper, see the Union Minute Men. They can and will tell you how to keep your car in top condition. They look at wheel-bearings, battery-terminals, filters, air cleaners, spark plugs and so on, and tell you what's going on.

So if you're co-helious about your "one and only" car - as who isn't? - stop at Union Oil stations where the Minute Men are - and get "The Expert Care To Save Car Wear."

This is a delivery boy

This is a 10-ton truck BOTH are useful to deliver things

If you were in the music business you wouldn't deliver a sheet of music with a 10-ton truck. You wouldn't expect the delivery boy to deliver a grand piano. Newspaper advertising is like that. It delivers messages. The amount of space you use for your message depends on the kind of message you have to deliver - and there is newspaper advertising space for any kind of message.

The farmer with a cow for sale can get his message across in the classified columns. The dry-goods merchant needs several columns of display space to show the many things he has to sell.

A big department store is really many stores in one. Each department really is a store. A department store may take as much as a whole section - many pages - of a newspaper to advertise its wares.

Thus, you see, the newspaper is a messenger that can do the job of the delivery boy or the 10-ton truck. It can deliver messages of any size from one line in the classified columns to many pages of display space. Newspaper advertising is flexible - can be fitted to the needs of anyone with a message to deliver.
