

Dr. Weinzirl Seen and Heard Speaks to Club

By JERYME ENGLISH

Dr. Adolph Weinzirl, health officer and medical disaster director of Portland, was the guest speaker at the Salem Women's club meeting Saturday afternoon. Mrs. George R. K. Moorhead, was chairman of the program and introduced Dr. Weinzirl, who spoke on "Social Protection in Wartime."

He stressed four points, health protection as it pertains to cantonment areas, need for law enforcement, need of a recreation program and need for public information and understanding of problems involved. Dr. Weinzirl stated that we need an adequate health service to control public health problems such as sanitation, communicable diseases with special reference to control of venereal diseases. The laws of the state are adequate and it is only a matter of law enforcement which has already been proven successful in British Columbia and Tacoma.

In discussing the recreation program Dr. Weinzirl remarked that a friendly spirit and proper recreation will forestall many public health problems. As for public information and understanding of problems involved he said "This plan costs time and money and although public officials are basically responsible for carrying it out they will most urgently need support of an informed public opinion."

Mrs. George H. Swift presided at the business meeting and the nominating committee was elected to report at the first meeting in April. Reports on the club's progress in public welfare and defense work were made. Mrs. J. Deane Patterson, who was chairman of the mobilization of women's skills for the club, told of the work of her ten captains and that 70 club women canvassed from door to door.

Six new members were accepted and include Mrs. S. A. Baldwin, Miss Eleanor Stephens, Mrs. Gene Vandenevnde, Mrs. E. A. Linden, Mrs. L. O. Arens and Mrs. Claude H. Murphy.

Miss Jewell Minier sang a group of numbers accompanied by Miss Marjorie Hood. Mrs. Walter Spaulding headed the tea committee which included Mrs. Charles Galloway, Mrs. Ida Niles, Mrs. William Neimeyer, Mrs. V. R. Deane and Mrs. John L. Rand.

Mrs. Daniel J. Fry, sr. and Mrs. U. G. Shipley presided at the tea urns. The St. Patrick's day motif was carried out in the decorations with an arrangement of violets, freesias and other spring flowers in crystal vases flanked by green tapers in silver candle holders. Shamrocks completed the appointments.

Miss Kestly to Be Married

Girl Reserve's Corner

Members of the Parrish 9th Girl Reserve club met Thursday with Mrs. Esther Little. There are 26 members, Shirley Girod is the newest. The president, Barbara Williams, appointed the program committee for the "Kord and Kalico" defense benefit dance April 17. Patty Brown, Addyce Lane and Pat Wolcott are members of the food committee, and Arlyne Odenberg is planning special feature dances and program numbers in keeping with the theme, according to June Young, chairman.

The Parrish eighth grade Girl Reserves met with Miss Lois Robinson Monday for the regular business meeting. Shirley Kinnane presided. Maxine Nona, a new member, was elected vice-president. Connie Keller gave a report from the council meeting Friday, concerning plans for the recognition service Sunday, March 29. All members will take part in the ceremony and new members recognized. The group will meet Monday to make plans for their part in the service.

The Leslie ninth grade Girl Reserves will make a "know your town" tour Wednesday to the state penitentiary and return to the YWCA for a short business meeting and discussion of their part in the recognition service.

The regular meeting of Tri-Y, the Girl Reserves of the high school, will be held at general study period Tuesday. Marian Carter is in charge of the program and Georgina Young will give several musical numbers. The club will be divided into the four sections for planning programs for the remainder of the year. The social section will work on plans for the dad-daughter party later in the month. The service section will discuss the defense project of a nursery school training course. The camp and conference group will make plans for a special meeting to be held in May, publicizing both the camp at Smith Creek and at Seabeck, the annual Northwest Girl Reserve conference. The finance section will discuss candy sales for the benefit of camp and conference. The program section will make plans for an Easter program at the Hillcrest school.

Thursday afternoon several of last year's campers met to organize a campers club. They discussed camps of the past and decided to meet as a group once a month to learn new camp songs, outdoor cooking dishes and take hikes. They elected a camp planning council to meet on the third Friday of each month from now until school is out to make tentative plans for camp schedules, publicity and activities. Mrs. Elsworth Rickerts and Mrs. Mervin Fidler of the camp committee met with the group. Present were counselors, Mrs. Nell Brown and Mrs. Ralph Nohlgren, Ruth Tae, Fern Buechler, Carol Gragg, Ann Carson, Mary Thomas, Shirley Kinnane, Bolette Grant, Mary Elizabeth Reinhardt, Delores Clement, Joyce Austin, Jean Fidler, June Young, Addyce Lane, Alice Faye Daugherty and Lois Archibald.

Friday afternoon, members of the inter-club council met with Mrs. Guy Hickox, chairman of the Girl Reserve committee. Attending were Shirley Kinnane, Connie Keller, Patty Brown, Barbara Williams, Rosemary Hinkle, Cecilia Smith, Georgina Young and Arlene Campbell. The group wrote the recognition ceremonial for all new members of the Girl Reserves. The tentative date set for the ceremonial is March 28. This will be in observance of the annual junior membership day. Girl Reserves are 61 years old this year.

Play to Be Read at AAUW

An active week, climaxed by a dramatic-program luncheon session Saturday afternoon, stretches ahead for members of Salem branch, American Association of University Women.

Bianche B. Hutchinson, Portland, who is to read the play, "Family Portrait" at the branch's regular monthly luncheon meeting in the Marion hotel mirror room Saturday, is known to Portland followers of the drama and to AAUW members of the state who witnessed the production of their organization's fellowship pageant in Portland or Medford this winter.

Background of Mrs. Hutchinson includes work at Emerson College of Oratory in Boston, of which she is a graduate, teaching experience in North Dakota State college and Moorhead's State Teacher's college, and a winter of travel through North Dakota and Minnesota presenting dramatic programs on university extension courses. In Portland, she has presented dramatic readings for the art section of the Portland Arts club, and was invited to participate in the Blue Room plays.

Monday night at 7:30 the branch-sponsored Spanish class meets at the YWCA.

Wednesday is dedicated as "literature day," with the radio literature hour meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Guy Hickox, 1100 Chemeketa street, Kathleen Glassley speaking on "Poetry by Oregonians," and the branch's literature study group gathering in the evening in Lausanne hall. Miss Lorena Jack is to hostess for the night session, at which Dr. Helen Pearce is to review Rebecca West's "Black Lamb and Grey Falcon."

No bulletins are to be published by the branch during the next three months, funds once dedicated to that purpose to be made available for war emergency purposes, directors voted last week. Contributions to the Louise home and the UHA were voted at the board session.
