

Club Group Hears Dr. Morris

When the Salem Woman's club met at the clubhouse on Saturday afternoon, members heard Dr. Victor F. Morris, dean of the school of business administration, University of Oregon, talk on "Economic Impacts of the War." At the business meeting, presided over by Mrs. George H. Swift, president, the proposed revisions of the constitution were discussed. Mrs. J. Deane Patterson reported on the first meeting of the nutrition class, sponsored by the club, and announced that there were still places for interested women who wish to join. The class is divided into several sections, and is open to non-members of the club.

A contribution was voted to the Children's Farm home in Corvallis.

The musical program included a group of numbers for cello and piano by Miss Mary East and her mother, Mrs. W. H. East, "Prelude," first movement from the Corelli sonata and "All-gro con Brio" by Guernin.

The committee in charge of the social hour was headed by Mrs. V. E. Newcomb, and decorating the table was Mrs. Charles Ratcliffe. Others on the committee were Mrs. R. J. Hendricks, Mrs. J. Deane Patterson and Miss Antoinette White. Mrs. C. F. Breithaupt and Mrs. F. A. Elliott poured.

The table was centered with wild currant arranged in a crystal bowl, and guarded by rose tapers in crystal. The currant was used to decorate the club room.

Supper Party At Wootons

Colonel and Mrs. Elmer V. Wooton have invited guests to supper tonight at their home at 6:30 o'clock in compliment to a group of friends. Bouquets of spring flowers will be arranged about the rooms.

Guests will be Major Lewis of Washington, DC, Major and Mrs. Carleton Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Jerrold Owen, Dr. and Mrs. Laban Steeves, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Campbell and Mrs. T. E. Rilea.

Art Center NOTES

The full scale cartoon for the Salem Postoffice mural, painted by Andrew Vincent, is now on display at the Art Center. The charcoal drawing, 15 by 19 feet, will afford an opportunity for students and the general public to study the artist's method in designing a painting for a large wall space. The exhibit by Vincent also includes two smaller sketches, showing changes in the composition from the artist's first design. The cartoon is hung in the entrance gallery.

Mr. Vincent, head of the art department at the University of Oregon, is a former Salem resident. He served in France with the camouflage department in 1917 and 1918 and received his training at the Chicago Art Institute. He has exhibited in Chicago, Denver, San Francisco, Seattle and other cities.

On Tuesday a discussion of mural painting and a review of the mural drawing will be given on the Art Center radio hour by Halley Johnson, staff instructor in painting. The program is at 2:15 over KSLM.

A unique exhibit of Indian art in the northwest is being displayed in the main gallery of the Center. It comprises seven large panels on which are mounted war clubs, harpoons, masks, a dance rattle, trap stick, ceremonial hat, woven dance leggings, carved bone amulets, dance apron, map of the north Pacific coast and a number of photographs. Printed on the panels are annotations explaining the design motifs. The exhibit has been assembled and sent on national tour of the Art Centers by the Spokane Art Center.

Also on showing in the main gallery of the Salem Center is an interesting collection of Indian articles lent by the Willamette university museum. Included in the display are several ice hooks, knives, dance rattles and a canoe and turtle made by the northwest Indians.

MARCH BRIDES—Mrs. Paul Sheldon, left, who was Edith Wendelin before her marriage on March 20 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. Neelands. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Wendelin of Avoca, Wisconsin, and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sheldon of Pendleton. They will live in Salem. Mrs. Warren C. Hale, right, the former Suzanne Esau, daughter of Mrs. A. A. Esau, before her wedding on March 21 at the First Evangelical church. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hale of Seattle. Rev. and Mrs. Hale will live in Salem. (Kennell-Ellis photos).

but... this is the time of year when we yearn to be out with our noses to the ground, snooching for the first tiny carrot top to push itself through the ground.

Ring on the finger... Probably it's the first time it has ever happened, but the three May queen candidates at Willamette are wearing diamonds. One is married, the other two engaged. At least there won't be any question about escorts.

Get along little dogey... The Duane Gibson's dear brown and white huntin' hounds have gone on another bunny binge. They won top honors a year ago in the dog show, as best among the blue blooded Beagles, but that doesn't stop them from being just plain huntin' dog when a rabbit hops by. Mrs. Gibson had them all dressed up for company the other day and they disappeared, only to come home, tired and hungry and very repentant, but with telltale rabbit hair in their mouths, which made them eligible for the doghouse.

Pretty good record... We always enjoy a talk with Lena Belle Tartar about music and Salem, and things. Speaking of weddings, she revealed yesterday that she had attended 47 weddings since she was a little girl, and has sung at 18. None of the couples who started out married life with the ring of her songs in their ears have been divorced, and that's a pretty good record.

Problem solved... A big sign is out in front of a downtown garage with "bicycle parking, day or month," on it. We've been wondering about that.

Trick stuff... We weren't bad in our day. We could ride without hands on the bars of course, but could also ride backwards and stand on the seat of our bike and balance ourselves. Well, just watch our dust when we get togged out this spring. Maxine Buren.

Miss Betty Simmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Simmons, and her house guest, Miss Gail McInerney of Saratoga, Calif., are leaving this morning by train for Palo Alto, Calif., to resume their studies at Leland Stanford after spending the spring vacation at the Simmons' country place.

Mrs. Rex A. Turner, president of the Salem Daughters of the Nile club, and her committee members are making final preparations for the annual benefit bridge tea to be given on April 9 at the Masonic temple.

Miss Mary White and Miss Janet Bower were among those attending the stage performance, "Life With Father" at the May-fair theatre in Portland Saturday night.

Miss Sybil Spears will entertain the Splinters at her home on Chemeketa street Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward O. Stadter, jr. are now at home at their new residence, 260 West Superior street.
