Racetrack Becomes Alien Reception Center

Whirlaway and Seabiscuit would not know Santa Anita now. Neither would thousands of race fans who used to park their cars in the huge lot, drop in at the clubhouse and then stroll for a look at the horses. Soon, there will be between 500 and 600 fabricated houses, 20 by 60 feet, ready to accommodate Japanese evacuees who will be sent first to Santa Anita reception center to await sorting out for their war-duration homes. Pictured above are the fabricated houses under construction on the spacious parking lot in background, and in the foreground is the Santa Anita paddock.

Know Your Neighbor Week Set; Kiwanis Name Salem Committee

April 26 to May 2 was officially designated as "Know Your Neighbor" week for all of Oregon outside of the city of Portland in a proclamation issued Tuesday by Gov. Charles A. Sprague. In Salem the week's activities are under the sponsorship of the Kiwanis club, who are asking the cooperation of other service clubs of the city and civilian defense organizations in seeing that this week be the success it was in Portland, where such a plan was inaugurated by the Montavilla Kiwanis club.

Because of the increased need for cooperative effort in home protection and civilian defense and because of the restriction on travel, neighborhood gatherings are particularly timely now, Gov. Sprague said in his proclamation.

Block wardens will play an important part in organizing the groups and tentative plans call for cooperative dinners, possibly on Friday, throughout the city.

Included on the Kiwanis club committee for the project are Edward L. Allen, George Schwenger, Douglas McKay, W. J. Braun, Mayor W. W. Chadwick and T. Harold Tomlinson.

Teacher to Speak—Joy Hills, head of the social science department, Salem public schools, will address the Rotary club at its luncheon today.
