Salem, Oregon, Wednesday Morning, April 29, 1942

The USS Chincolear, christened by Mrs. Gordon Rowe, wife of a navy commander, is pictured as she bids farewell to her cradle and slides down the ways of a Pacific northwest shipyard to join the ever growing "bridge of ships."

Union Hill Air Observers Name Directors

UNION HILL — George Tate and Adolph Heater were elected directors and James Ripp, secretary-treasurer at a meeting of all air observers here and in surrounding districts which was held here Saturday. The directors are to act along with the observer and first and second assistant observers.

Mrs. O. W. Humphreys, district chief observer, explained essential points, demonstrating a telephone call with Mrs. Marion Fischer, Mrs. Edward Robb, Mrs. R. Tuers, Mrs. Harley Scott, Robert Humphreys and Mrs. Humphreys.

The meeting was called to change the location of the post and consider different ways of manning it during the busy summer months.

Lt. Clark, Portland, will be at the Grange hall tonight at 7:30 o'clock to talk on aircraft observing. The public is urged to attend.

Trailer House Park Opens

LEBANON—The first trailer house park in town has been opened on Main street and may help solve the problem of trailers within the city limits.

At many recent meetings of the city council complaints have been made regarding trailers parked in various parts of town. This new trailer park will accommodate 16 trailers and meets requirements of both the state health board and the city ordinances, it is said.

Women Like Good-Looking Clothes, but Simple

The American woman who is not in uniform is going in for good-looking clothes that are feminine without fussiness. These outfits are easy and functional yet knowingly tailored. Suit dresses are an outstanding example of this style daytime dress, and are increasingly popular with women in all walks of life. The three models shown here are all designed to do double duty. Elizabeth Frazier, left, is wearing a two-piece dress with box pleated skirt of beige crepe worn with a jacket-like top of chocolate brown with collar, buttons and binding in the beige. Jane Wyman, center, selected a suit dress of powder blue strutter cloth. The jacket is styled with high shallow lapels, flap pockets at the top and plain ones at the hips. The skirt has kick-pleats at center front and back. Veronica Lake, right, is smart in a black and white costume. The straight skirt has front fullness, and a scroll pattern of stark white cotton braid trims the front and shoulders of the waist-length fitted jacket. The hat is hand-crocheted white chenille with scroll pattern at the edge of the brim to match the suit.

Rites Held for Aged Resident of Wheatland

WHEATLAND — Funeral services for Walter Rollo Kirkwood, 73, who died Saturday at the Good Samaritan hospital in Portland, were held Tuesday at the Hopewell United Brethren church. Rev. Harry C. Ryan officiated, assisted by Rev. Gerald Jaffe. He had been ill for several years, and suffered a heart attack April 20.

Paul bearers were Roy Kirkwood, Leonard Hicherson, Ralph Campbell, Lowell Campbell, Ross Rogers and R. T. Kidd. Interment was in the Hopewell cemetery.

He was born August 27, 1868, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kirkwood. He attended the old Hopewell school, Linfield college, and Willamette university. He served many years on the Wheatland school board and was the president of the Hopewell Water company since its organization in 1915.

Mr. Kirkwood's grandparents were Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Matheny, pioneers of 1847.

He married La Versa Keen in 1902. Two children were born to them.

He is survived by his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Robert McGilchrist, Portland, and Mrs. Joe Peaty, Wheatland; three sisters, Mrs. Grant Walling, Wheatland, Mrs. Tom Rogers, McMinnville, and Mrs. Pearl Marlock, Salem.

Home Nursing Class Talked At Monmouth

MONMOUTH — Mrs. A. L. Cummins, Salem, a trained nurse who has been organizing classes in home nursing in Marion county and West Salem, met with a group of women here Wednesday night in the Legion hall.

There were 27 present, and more have indicated a desire to take the class. The only requirement not available at present is a trained nurse to act as teacher, preferably one from this community. Mrs. Cummins has secured names of two local nurses, and will contact them.

If one can be "drafted," classes will start Thursday night and will continue each Thursday and Monday night from six weeks. The lessons are two hours long. Three lectures will be given: one by Dr. Herbert Notkin, army doctor stationed at Corvallis; one by Mrs. George R. K. Moorehead, Salem. The high school economics department has been loaned as class meeting place.
