Republicans' Carson Gains Opposition Nominator Too

Allan G. Carson, successful candidate for a republican nomination as state senator from Marion county, also won a democratic nomination for the same position at last Friday's primary election, the official canvassing board announced Thursday.

Carson received 43 write-in votes on the democratic ballot. George W. Poits, Jr., the other democratic senatorial nominee, received 55 votes.

These four, the board disclosed, in winning 68 write-in votes, is the democratic nominee for county recorder, in opposition to incumbent Herman Lanke, the republican nominee, who received 29 votes on the opposition ticket.

Identity of the democratic party's three write-in nominees for state representative, as shown by the board's report, is: Clare Brabec, with 82 votes, Frances Randall, with 67, and Scott McPhee, with 57. Rep. John F. Steelhammer, who led the republican ticket for renomination, came within four votes of also winning the democratic bid. The official count for Daniel Hay, only candidate for democratic representative whose name was printed on the ballot, was 2153 votes.

Other votes on the democratic ballot were: US senator — Walter W. Whitbeck, 1982; MacBeth A. Milne, 1378; Charles L. McNary, 42. Congressional representative — Earl A. Nott, 1903; Lyman Ross, 1658.

Governor — Lew Wallace, 1757; Howard Latourette, 1502; Grover C. Fretwell, 374.

Secretary of state — Francis Lambert, 3192.

Labor commissioner — Clarence F. Hyde, 3045.

County judge — Kenneth W. Bayne, 2908, with Judge Grant Murphy, republican nominee, receiving 19 by write-in.

County commissioner — Joseph L. Prange, 2770.

Checking of the remainder of the democratic ballot and of the republican and non-partisan ballots remains to be done.

Sugar Sought By Throngs

Believing that Thursday, reopening day for sugar ration registration, might be the last day on which they could register, the throngs of Salem persons who crowded the downtown office of the Salem rationing district were so great as to require calling extra help.

Not only is the registration reopened for an indefinite period of time, but persons not needing ration stamps immediately may be able to secure more definite information than any yet made available on the new regulations on canning if they will wait a few days, it was said at the board office here Thursday.

The office is in the Ladd & Bush bank building.

Crosby Band Coming Here

Bob Crosby and his orchestra will play for Salem dance enthusiasts on Thursday, June 4, it was announced Thursday by the Newberger Amusement company.

Crosby's band will be the third in a series of dance groups brought to Salem by the Newberger company.

Crosby is slated to take over the master of ceremonies spot on the radio show now featuring his brother, Bing Crosby, on June 18. The dance will be held in the Salem armory.

Balloon Barrage Protectors

Taking a tip from England, the U. S. is rushing to completion numerous gigantic balloons in an eastern factory. The balloons will hold steel cables aloft to entangle enemy bombers or force them so high they will not be able to attack effectively. The men in the foreground are pulling together two halves of a new balloon.

New Busses Placed in Service On Two Salem Street Routes

First of two $6500 city transit type busses was operated on the Oregon Motor Stages' Salem street system Friday. The second will go into service today, R. W. Lemen, company executive, reported.

The new busses, which carry 27 seated passengers in contrast with 21 to 25 on the old type vehicles long used here, will be assigned regularly to the North and South Commercial street routes, including the Capitol run.

Lemen said the new busses would speed up loading and unloading because they have both front and rear doors, controlled by air. Location of the motor at the rear is expected to eliminate exhaust odors inside the busses. Another characteristic of the new busses is their high head room and extra room for standing passengers.

"These are about the finest equipment of this size and type that you can get," Lemen declared. "We plan to make other replacements with this type of equipment in Salem when we can get it—but that may be a long time."
